MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows
The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

I have given him $450, which is not due till his work is finished. I will pay the balance when his work is complete as per contract.

MARY L. FETTERICH, Owner.

Accompanying this number of THE RECORD AND GUIDE will be found a sixteen page supplement, giving an illustrated and descriptive account of the progress and present condition of the west side. Every purchaser of the paper should see that he is supplied with the same.

Just as the average operator had firmly made up his mind that it was impossible for the stock market to turn—and, by the way, the market always waits for the average operator to reach this conclusion—it surprised everybody by doing the very thing which everybody had been predicting it would not do—it did turn. The next problem is, will this strength continue? The first intimation of a turn of affairs came from the Southern stocks and, curiously enough, Richmond Terminal furnished the lever. There is no reason why the Southern stocks should not continue to be in the lead at advancing prices. The greatest crop of cotton for years is being gathered and sold at extremely satisfactory figures. Not only this, but the South has raised more corn this year than ever before, so that the South will keep her money to an extent not ordinarily the case. Moreover, such is the general prosperity of this section of the country, so rapidly are its manufactures increasing and its mines being developed, that it is doubtful whether there could be a better region in which to make investments. And this is particularly the case with railroad securities, because the railway building has not been so much overdone in that region as elsewhere. It would not be surprising if in the future the Southern securities would lead what advance there is in the market. The advance, however, has not been and will not be confined to Southern securities. Lake Shore promises a 7 per cent. dividend on its common stock and has earned 12 per cent. on both preferred and common. If the dividend is declared it will make a pretty little Christmas present for the market—one which, perhaps, will find a parallel in kindred actions by the other Vanderbilt companies. This much is certain, we have had an advance and should have a still larger one. Business in some directions is not all that it might be, but there is nothing to justify a decline.

The Committee on Revising the Building Law, consisting of the members of the Board of Examiners, including Superintendent Brady of the Bureau of Buildings in the Fire Department, assisted by Mr. Findley the attorney to the department, and Chief Clerk Shields, the latter acting as secretary to the committee, are holding tri-weekly meetings, Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons, in the rooms of the Fire Underwriters, in the Mutual Life Insurance Company's building on Nassau street. A public invitation has been extended to all persons who have suggestions to make to submit the same in writing, or to appear in person and be heard between the hours of three and four o'clock on the days stated, during the present month of November. Special invitations have also been extended to ex-Superintendents Esterbrook and D'Oench, and to a number of architects and builders whose experience and knowledge qualify them to make valuable suggestions. The Architectural League and some other societies have appointed certain of their members to appear before the committee. Thus far only a few amendments have been agreed upon, and these not important ones, although quite important ones have been under consideration. The committee has deemed it the wiser plan to first hear as far as possible the wishes of the public before adopting ideas of their own. We need hardly repeat what we have said before in these columns, that it is the duty of all persons interested in building operations to aid the committee with all the suggestions that can be offered towards making the law complete, clear, and free from requirements that may work hardships to individuals or classes of men. The committee are not paid for the arduous labor involved in the work of revision, and they deserve all the help that an appreciative public can extend.

During the past week a letter was written to the Mayor by Wilson Godfrey, who, as he himself declares, has been canvassing the lumber trade for subscriptions for the guarantee fund. Until this week he has met with good success, but it seems that lately he has been hampered by a "so-called Committee of the Arts and Industries of the Building Trades." Mr. Godfrey is evidently a mild-tempered man, but he became annoyed at the way his movements have been shackled by this so-called committee. Hence he writes to the Mayor and accuses these gentlemen of cooking their fish before digging the bait to catch them. We very much fear that Mr. Godfrey has been a little hasty. Could he not have done this so-called committee the justice to communicate with them and learn their intentions, instead of writing an unnecessary and unjust letter to the Mayor? Did Mr. Godfrey find anything in the temper or in the resolutions of the meeting which appointed this so-called committee antagonistic to the general committee? Was not that meeting addressed by Roswell P. Flower, who certainly does not lack zeal in furthering the interests of the Fair? Did not the resolution that was passed explicitly state that the committee of nine and the sub-committees of three were to confer with the Finance and Site Committees of the World's Fair in respect to the adoption of measures best calculated to give us a good Exposition and a good building exhibit? We think if Mr. Godfrey had looked into these matters as seriously as he would have solicited a subscription, he would have addressed himself to the committee instead of to the Mayor, and learned from them how unjust were his accusations. As a matter of fact the "so-called committee" has no fund, and as yet has been soliciting no subscriptions. It exists for the purpose of co-operating with every true friend of the Fair and of hindering nobody. That real estate men and builders are still subscribing is sufficiently proved by the fact that up to the closing hour yesterday $37,960 was contributed, inclusive of $25,000 by W. W. Astor.

But enough of Mr. Godfrey. The brewing industry is the first to follow the example of the builders and organize. By the munificence of their subscription they have practically assured the completion of the guarantee fund. In time other trades will see the advantage of doing the same, for it is in this way, and in this way only, that the General Committee can be effectively aided, and the various special industries can see that their money is expended in the way that will best make the Exhibition at once profitable and instructive. Among these special interests there is none more important and more to be benefited by the Fair than the building trade. There is none that should subscribe more liberally or work more energetically for the success of the project. The meeting held last week gave every evidence of widespread interest, both in the Fair in general and in the particular exhibit of the building trade.

The subscription of the brewers came very opportunely, for most people were beginning to be discouraged at the feeble striving the fund was making to reach the necessary $5,000,000. It probably assures the ultimate completion of the amount. Meanwhile it is noticeable that in reality there was but little public opinion behind the newspaper consecration of the park. The fund did not increase a whit more rapidly after the sacred spot was preserved. A logical sequence of the frenzied newspaper talk would be a proposition to appoint a day of thanksgiving for the happy defeat of the vandals. The Evening Post, having nothing more to object to in the policy of the committee, returns once again to personalities, adopting the good old policy of "abusing the plaintiff's attorney." The obvious implication is that the paper has "no case." There seems to be a tendency in the later Exposition editorials to abuse the rich men of the city for not responding more generally; but considering that all alike, rich and poor, are sinking alike into a state of indifference, and considering that whatever has been done so far has been done by rich men, the latter might be spared the abuse.

It seems to be very generally felt that Mayor Grant did an excellent stroke of business in getting the managers of the Broadway surface railroad to guarantee to the city the payment of $150,000 per annum, besides taxes and licenses, in return for permission to change its motive power from animal to cable. No doubt it was a good bargain compared to what the other companies are paying, but that this small sum should be considered satisfactory, in return for the facilities surrendered, is a significant commentary on the small value which is put on our street franchises by the municipal authorities. The fault does not lie with the present Sinking Fund Commissioners, for the company already owns the franchise. Probably they got as much out of the company as was possible in return merely for a permission to change the motive power, although the latter accepted the terms with such marvelous readiness that possibly a still larger sum might have been obtained. At the same time, inasmuch as the franchise is by far the most valuable possession of the company, and inasmuch as the prompt acceptance of the terms shows that with the change of motive power a gross income of some $3,000,000 per annum is not unexpected by the managers of the company, it would seem $150,000 in addition to the taxes is a sum ridiculously small for the privilege. If the laying of a few miles of track and the purchase of cars and a cable plant were the only expenses that needed to be provided for by the capitalization, such is the value of the franchise that the company would earn enough in one year to pay a fifty per cent. dividend. For the very reason that the franchise is so valuable, a corporation that wished it should be made to pay at least 25 per cent. of its gross earnings. Not long since Comptroller Myers made the statement that he could pay all city expenses from the income from such franchises, the dock rent, and other similar items. This was a daring statement, but doubtless he could make it good, if they were sold at their true value.

The Sun, apropos of the intention of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company largely to increase their terminal facilities in Jersey City, advises that corporation to adopt the bolder plan of either tunneling or bridging the Hudson River and establishing a terminus on this side. Unfortunately there seems to be but little probability that the Pennsylvania Company will take this advice. They seem to be directing their attention towards improving their present facilities, so that New York will not have the compensation for the loss of residence population due to her own bad facilities which she might have had if the Pennsylvania Company decided to cross the river. With West street bridged, with a more prompt, a more frequent and a more commodious ferry service, the perils and discomforts of a trip across the Hudson River may be very much lessened. Even now the service of this corporation is better than that of any other round about the city. At the same time it is susceptible of improvement, and if the improvement is made it will be but an additional proof of the care with which this well-managed company protects the advantages which it already possesses over its competitors. The fact is becoming more apparent every day that the people doing business in New York are ceasing to live here, consequently the railroad which gives the best local service is creating for itself a traffic which can scarce be equalled in value anywhere in the world. On the one hand, the Pennsylvania, and to a less extent the Jersey Central, are giving business men an excellent opportunity to get out of New York; on the other hand, the Brooklyn Bridge Commissioners are providing accommodations to get out in the other direction. Meanwhile what is New York doing to protect herself and extend her present transit facilities? It is not a difficult question to answer.

It is obligatory, as is well known, that a company in Great Britain before it is allowed to build a railroad must first prove to a Parliamentary commission that the road is necessary. The expense thus caused to a corporation in employing counsel, collecting figures, and even, as is often hinted, in purchasing the commission, is a severe drain upon the resources of a company, and has done much to increase the aggregate capitalization of the British railroad system. This is undoubtedly so. But how much greater and much more costly are the evils of the unrestricted building of railroad lines, which permits any combination of capitalists to swindle investors and blackmail competing lines at its own sweet will. The figures tell the story plainly enough. Of the total capital invested in British railroads, only 7 per cent. failed to receive interest or dividend in 1888, and this included companies whose lines were in the course of construction, whereas 21.69 per cent. of the bonds and 61.44 of the stock of the railroads of this country failed to make any return on the investment. It does not affect the question to point out the larger population to the square mile in Great Britain. It still remains true that we have more railroad tracks than our business requires; that company after company has to submit to re-organization and a continually increased indebtedness. On the other hand, the British railroads are not ruined by competition and cut rates; they are not compelled to reorganize whenever a bad year comes, and this in spite of the fact that they are more heavily capitalized than any other system on earth.

The position of silver in the London market has of late improved steadily and rapidly. It sells now at 44 pence per ounce, which is nearly two pence per ounce above its quoted price of two months ago. A number of causes have contributed to this result. A large part of the decline in the price of the metal was due to the decreased demand from India. In the middle of this century that country occupied the anomalous condition of being a large exporter, but a small importer of commodities. Balances were paid by the shipment of silver bullion, which the people of India can apparently absorb to an unlimited extent. It was this peculiarity of the Hindoos that enabled France, in the time of Napoleon, when gold was cheap, to convert an enormous quantity of silver into gold coinage and ship the former to the East. More lately, however, India went into debt to England for railroads, irrigation works and other improvements, the annual interest payment on which considerably decreased that country's demand for silver. This cause, co-operating with Germany's demonetization of that metal and the limitation of coinage by the Latin Union, brought about the low prices which so long prevailed. Recently, however, the demand for silver from India has been exceptionally large, due possibly to the increased prices its exports have brought in the markets of Europe. During the ten completed months of 1889 the export of the metal from London to India was £1,672,682 more than in the corresponding months of 1888. In addition there has been an increased demand for the metal in England and on the Continent for the purpose of subsidiary coinage. This augmented demand has been supplied by this country, for we have already exported this year $18,000,000 in silver, a great increase over last year's shipments. If times continue good abroad there is no reason why this advance should not continue.

Political Aspects of Local Taxation.

The disciples of Henry George are prosecuting a cart-tail campaign in this and neighboring cities, and are provoking a good deal of tenement house applause. It is not likely that we shall ever see the single tax as we know it enforced; but surely we will deserve no better fate unless we prove ourselves able to devise and put in operation more rational methods of taxation than those now in use. In a recent magazine article a Georgeite urges that the matter of taxing land to its full rent value is a detail at best, and the discussion of it may be very well postponed. All that he at present urges is the imposition of the single tax. Certainly this is all his people need ask, for with land-owners on one side paying all the taxes, and the rest of the community on the other enjoying their expenditure, the entire absorption of economic rent would not be long delayed. Land can never pay taxes; it is the land-owners that must pay them. No surer way can be found of engendering class hatreds and class legislation than to impose on one class of persons all the burdens of government. Fiscal problems cannot be isolated from political and social ones.

As an addition to Adam Smith's much quoted canons of taxation we suggest the following: Under democratic governments taxation, and especially local taxation, should be so imposed that every citizen may bear part of the burden, and that he may know that he bears it. The last clause is necessary in order to provide against such anomalies as those exhibited in connection with our present national tax system. The laboring classes, after listening to interminable discussions of the subject, are unable to decide whether they are benefited or burdened by them. The result is that our national politicians are not rebuked when they squander the revenues in unearned pensions, or in impossible improvements of streams barely navigable for cat fish.

The first part of the suggested rule of taxation is designed to protect society quite as much from the propertied as from the unpropertied classes. Municipal extravagance has been winked at or furthered quite as often by those who felt themselves able to evade taxation as by those who were not liable to it because having no property. The machinations of capitalists, or even of real estate owners, are responsible for as much political chicane and municipal extravagance as the envy and greed of the poor. If taxes can be so levied that their incidence is at once certain and obvious a useful check will be placed upon useless expenditures.

It may be urged that our city governments are often too parsimonious rather than too extravagant, needed improvements are not made and waste results from stinginess. Certainly no system of taxation ought to be expected to confer business sense upon those that have it not; but the same influences that tend to make an individual thrifty may be trusted to produce a like effect in municipal affairs.

A land tax must be the largest item in any system of local taxation, and if the owners of land could be freed from State taxation they might very properly bear a large share of the municipal burdens. All the revenue needed for State purposes could certainly be obtained by an income tax, a large portion of which could be readily collected through the corporations that earn the incomes. This tax should be collected by and for the States in order partially to prevent tax dodging by a sham residence in the country.

In lieu of the now abortive and mischievous tax on personalty scientific writers have advocated for twenty years and more a tax on the annual rental value of the house that a man occupies. This is the basis of the English "poor rate," which practice has shown to be such an equitable tax that a mass of local expenses have been from time to time attached to it. Such a tax if carefully imposed may reach almost every citizen of a municipality and remind him of his interest in good government. In English cities, while the tax on low rentals is scarcely more than nominal, and is hard to levy and collect, yet the fact that the lists of voters for municipal elections are made up from the tax lists, punishes the successful tax dodger with disfranchisement. With the larger rents dodging obviously impossible.

Besides the land and rent tax, licenses on the liquor traffic may yield a very considerable revenue if the city will condescend to accept it, and a system of taxing the monopolies of local service in a way both just and profitable may be devised whenever the dominant influence of private corporations in municipal politics can controlled. If the city itself managed these semi-public undertakings it would thereby secure a source of revenue that would vary in its fruitfulness with the variations in the administrative skill or awkwardness of the city government; or that might be made to vary as facilities for business or abundant revenue seemed most important.

For the Great Building Exhibit.

IMPORTANT MEETING AT THE REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE.

Since the inauguration of the movement for a World's Fair in this city no more important meeting has been held than that which met at the Real Estate Exchange on Tuesday afternoon, representing the arts and industries connected with the building trades. The hall was well filled with gentlemen who represented firms of importance in the community, some of them employing hundreds of workmen. They also represented literally hundreds of millions of capital invested in real estate, building, and the numerous manufactures and industries allied to the building trades. It was impossible to secure the names of all those present, but among them were Cornelius J. O'Reilly, Charles Buek, James M. Varnum, Geo. S. Lespinasse, S. F. Jayne, E. A. Cruikshank, F. Seagrist Jr., James D. Lynch, Richard V. Harnett, Thomas Graham, A. J. Bloor, B. S. Levy, R. C. Fisher, Geo. N. Williams, Chas. Guek, Geo. H. Scott, A. K. Murphy, Heim & Burt, P. A. Nebeling, Gustav Staiger, H. M. Smith & Son, Robert L. Pirsson (Pirsson & Renwick), Aloha Vivarttas, W. H. Blackwell, Walter Stabler, Captain S. Wise, Patrick Hartt, Stent & Lang, Holmes Bros., Geo. N. Manchester, Richard Deeves, Horace Winans, T. Hugh Boorman, Dale Tile Mfg. Co., C. W. Smith, Henry Keasbey, Radley & Greenough, Hiram Snyder, Cyrus L. W. Eidlitz, and about two hundred others.

The meeting was formally opened by E. A. Cruikshank, president of the Real Estate Exchange, who, with a few well-chosen words in favor of the object of the meeting, called James M. Varnum to the chair.

Col. Varnum, who was received with applause, said: "This is one of the most sensible, practical and intelligent movements which has been instituted in connection with the World's Fair. I was present at the organization of the Real Estate Exchange, and real estate men will recognize the wisdom of having formed this Exchange. They should now even more quickly, gladly and earnestly contribute to the great building in which the building trades and kindred industries could exhibit their work to the world." After quoting John Claffin's letter, in which he asked how it could be expected that those who would gain little by the Fair should contribute when those who would gain most did not contribute, and referring to the apathy of the great real estate owners, Mr. Varnum continued: "We want to try to weld in one homogeneous body the men connected with every art and industry in building—the architect who draws the plans, the mason who builds the walls, the men who put on the mortar, those who supply the iron, the terra cotta and the tiling, and those who furnish the decorations, the glass and the furniture, as well as those who decorate the interior. We mean business, and we intend to act without delay. (Applause.) The proposed building will show the magnitude of the real estate interests of New York; the successive progress of its houses and business buildings from beginning to end. You don't want your tiles and stained glass and your numerous other exhibits mingled up miscellaneously with exhibits of a totally different character. You want the architects and others, who wish to see your improvements and your goods, to be able to come to one building and see them all grouped in their proper places, instead of having to hunt all over the Exhibition for them. You also want the building to be erected so that it will endure not only as a remembrance of the World's Fair, but as a monument of American skill and American industry. Its foundations should be built of the marbles, granites and other stones of our native land; the iron, tile and woodwork should be turned out by our own industries, and every article possible should be shown, including the light that Edison has brought down to us from Heaven." (Applause).

On motion H. W. Desmond was then appointed secretary.

Congressman Roswell P. Flower, who was called by the chairman, said: "I am glad to see so many far-sighted business men in this Exchange to-day. When you combine the industries of New York City in one grand whole, you combine six thousand millions of capital. One of the most important of these is the building industry, and one of the grandest ideas connected with this Fair is that of the Building Exhibit for which you have met this afternoon. We want to have all our goods besides those of foreign nations. We want to compare ourselves with them. Look at our grand buildings on Wall street and Broadway. We want to show foreigners what we can do. I am in favor of New York for the Fair, not because I will gain anything by it, but because I am a New Yorker. A hundred years from now I promise to vote for Chicago." (Laughter and applause).

A number of letters were here read from firms unable to be present or represented. Among these were J. C. Cady & Co., the architects; Heim & Burt, the New York Lumber Trade Journal, Ogden & Co., Geo. Kramer Thompson, Geo. B. Post, Gen'l Jas. S. Negley, P. H. Mahony, Allen & Co., A. F. Schwannecke & Co., Wm. H. Piper, N. Le Brun & Sons, Henry B. Van Benschoten, Otis Bros. & Co., R. W. Kane & Co., J. W. Fielder, Abraham Steers, E. P. Walling, Wm. H. Day and Thomas C. Walsh.

The chairman then said: "This is a meeting called for business and I therefore move the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, This meeting is heartily in favor of the effort making to secure the Exposition of 1892 for New York City, and it indorses the action that has been taken so far by the committees into whose hands the matters were put by his Honor Mayor Grant; and

WHEREAS, This meeting is strongly of the opinion that the arts and industries connected with the building trade should be represented at the forthcoming Exposition in a manner commensurate to their importance and wealth, and believing that it cannot be done better than by erecting a building hall that shall be permanent, and wherein the building exhibits may be classified and properly displayed; therefore be it

Resolved, That the chairman of this meeting appoint at once a committee of nine, whose duty it shall be to appoint three sub-committees of three each, one on finance to confer with the World's Fair Finance Committee about obtaining the necessary money by subscription from the trades concerned for erecting a building hall; one on building to confer with the proper authorities to determine the character, dimensions, etc., of the edifice to be erected, and one on site to confer at the proper time with the proper authorities to secure a site for the building hall.

Resolved, That the committee of nine and the three sub-committees are to form one general committee to obtain plans for the building hall by open competition upon terms approved by the American Institute of Architects, and to make whatever arrangements may be necessary for the construction of the aforesaid hall.

The resolutions were then unanimously adopted, and the chairman appointed the following gentlemen on the committee of nine: The President of the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange, the President of the Building Material Exchange, the President of the Real Estate Exchange, the President of the American Institute of Architects, the President of the Real Estate Owners' and Builders' Association, and Cyrus Clark, Hiram Snyder, R. On the motion of Geo. S. Lespinasse the meeting adjourned.

The sub-committees and the Committee of Nine will meet at once to take further action in the matter.

Re-organization of the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange.

A special meeting of the directors of the "Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited)," was held at No. 30 Court street, Monday evening last. Messrs. Wyckoff, Johnson Jr., Ferry, Newkirk, Lovett, Tate and Haviland being present. At this meeting it was decided to postpone action toward establishing permanent headquarters for the Exchange until after the election for directors in December. The above-named members, and others of the board, have expressed a willingness to surrender entire control and to join with other stockholders in giving new men such a representation in the board as shall enable the new element to control the organization.

It was announced at this meeting that several capitalists and leading brokers were ready to unite if such a re-organization could be effected. The store No. 393 Fulton street was thereupon designated as the temporary headquarters of the Exchange, and the secretary was ordered to give notice of the annual election to be held December 9th.

The McClellan Anti-Siphon Trap Vent.

[COMMUNICATED.]

Dr. Geo. W. Hosmer, one of the sanitary inspectors of the New York Board of Health, under the novel title of "The Hidden River," in Harper's Weekly of the 2d inst., discusses at considerable length the subject of sewer construction, house drainage, traps and trap ventilation. On the latter subject he holds the following language in regard to the McClellan anti-siphon trap vent.

"The recently introduced McClellan trap vent produces an automatic ventilation. Each trap is provided with a ventilating pipe the opening of which is near the trap, and which is closed by a cap, the edges of which are set in mercury. In the equilibrium of atmospheric pressure the cap remains in place; but if a vacuum is produced in the pipe then the pressure of the atmosphere outside the pipe lifts the cap, the air rushes in and prevents siphonage; and the equilibrium being thus restored, the cap drops into place again. If this trap vent shall prove to be as good in practice as it appears to be in theory it will revolutionize the ventilation of traps, and solve some other problems."

If one is to judge from the comments and opinions current among sanitary authorities it is evident that this device is destined in the near future to revolutionize the method of trap seal protection.

We learn that it has been substituted for the orthodox method of pipe ventilation in a number of new buildings (public and private) in this city during the past year. Among them may be mentioned a block of five private houses on the south side of 74th street, between 9th and 10th avenues, and the new Armory building of the Eighth Regiment N. G., on Park avenue and 94th street, now about finished.

The indorsement of this device by such eminent authorities on sanitary engineering and plumbing as Col. Geo. E. Waring, Mr. Jas. C. Bayles, late president of the New York Board of Health; John M. Hazen, Inspector of Buildings, Minneapolis, Minn.; Mr. Carroll Phillips Bassett, Col.; Geo. D. Scott, Messrs. Edw. Murphy, R. Napier Anderson, Dr. A. N. Bell and others, which appear in another department of this paper, seem to leave no question as to the merit of this device and the important part it is destined to play in the plumbing of the future.

Two Handsome Corners to be Sold.

A sale of unusual interest will take place on the Real Estate Exchange on Thursday next, the 21st inst. It comprises the St. Charles apartment house on the northwest corner of 72d street and 9th avenue, and a new five-story hotel on the southwest corner of 3d avenue and 34th street. The St. Charles sale will be an interesting one, as it is the first time a building of this character has been offered for sale at auction. It is a six-story building, the first floor of which is leased by the Hudson River Bank, exclusive of several stores; the second floor is used for offices, and the four floors above are rented as first-class apartments, the whole yielding a rental, it is said, of $20,000 per annum. The 3d avenue property is a modern building, recently elected, and is used for store purposes on the first floor and as a hotel above. Adrian H. Muller & Co. will be the auctioneers.

The Union Trust Company's New Building.

ONE OF THE HANDSOMEST ON BROADWAY.

The number of high and costly office structures south of the City Hall is increasing year by year. Vandal or no vandal, the old buildings in which our fathers toiled and grew rich have been torn down one by one, until scarcely a remnant of them remains. Newer buildings, more attractive to the eye, more imposing in dimension and more productive of income, have taken their place, until a few years hence not a vestige will remain of an old building on Broadway, within a mile north of the Battery, which the eyes of our fathers will recognize.

One of the latest of the new structures to make its appearance on one of the old sites is that which has for some time been in course of erection for the Union Trust Company at Nos. 78 to 82 Broadway, near Wall street. Its gradual progress skywards has been watched with interest by the crowds which passed it by day after day, and it is now nearly up to the roof. It is to be eight stories high, exclusive of a basement, ground floor, banking floor and roof story—in all, practically twelve floors. It will be 196 feet high from the level of the curb on Broadway and 206 feet high on New street. The frontage is 72.3½ feet on the former and 77 feet on the latter, while the average depth is 106½ feet.

The building has one distinguishing feature. Although not on a corner it has two frontages, both of which are equally valuable; for the one is on Broadway, the greatest thoroughfare in the city, while the other is just opposite the Stock Exchange, the most important centre of the metropolis. The tenants on the Broadway side will have the advantage of nearness to the Stock Exchange, while those on the New street side will be within hailing distance of Broadway. The building will have exceptionally good light, even on the lower floors, for the Stock Exchange is very low on the New street side, thus offering no impediment to the full light on that street above the second story, while on the Broadway side the building fronts Trinity Churchyard, which will give it perpetual open light from the west. All this makes the offices unusually attractive, and therefore so much more valuable for renting purposes. There is also to be an open court, 20x50 in size, which will extend from a skylight over the banking room, referred to below, to the top floor, thus giving direct sunlight and ventilation to all the inner offices.

The Broadway front of the building is of granite, considerable iron also being used. The New street front is to be of buff brick and terra cotta. The construction is of a fire-proof character throughout, and there will be practically nothing in the building to burn, except it be the furniture and possibly the doors and trimmings. The floor construction is of steel beams, while the supporting columns are of wrought iron, encased with burnt clay coverings, thus making them absolutely fire-proof. The staircases are to be of ornamental wrought and cast iron, with marble and slate treads. The halls and toilet rooms are to have tile floors, while the wainscotings of the latter are also to be in tile. The entrance halls are to be wainscoted in rich foreign marbles.

The building is to be heated by steam throughout, and is to have three Otis elevators, there being an elevator car arranged to carry safes to the upper floors. The plumbing is to be of an elaborate and highly sanitary character, so President King says, and the ventilation to every room will be unsurpassed, owing to the arrangements of the plan.

Some of the general features include mail-chutes with letter-drops on each floor; electric lights, supplied from a special plant in the building, and other modern conveniences.

The most important floor in the building, the "Banking Floor," will be occupied by the company. It is to be 28½ feet in height, with a gallery 14½ feet high, the room being covered with a skylight. The eight floors and the roof story vary in height from 12 to 13½ feet, and will contain single offices and suites. The plans of these are now in the hands of the agents, Messrs. E. A. Cruikshank & Co., and show that there are about eighteen rooms per floor, five on each of the two fronts and eight on the open court.

The price paid by the Union Trust Company for the property was $1,175,000. The two buildings which were then on the site were torn down, and the present magnificent building, the cost of which is estimated at $600,000, was erected in its place. It is to be ready for occupancy by May 1 next, and is already partly rented. When the building is finally completed it will certainly be one of the handsomest ornaments to the lower part of Broadway. It will have an imposing entrance and will tower high and above its immediate neighbors. Its offices will no doubt be largely tenanted by Wall street's stock brokers, who will find in its proximity to the Stock Exchange and its superb appointments, two sources of attraction that will prove well-nigh irresistible.

With what amazement a New Yorker who had been absent from the city for ten or fifteen years would gaze upon the enormous buildings which have arisen on lower Broadway, of which the Union Trust Company's new structure is an example. Here is a building the cost of which, including the ground, amounts to close on $1,800,000.

Real Estate Exchange Notes.

The balance sheet for the financial year ending yesterday will show a surplus of about $23,000, upwards of $6,000 more than last year. The Nomination Committee met yesterday and discussed several names. The full ticket to be presented at the annual election will be made public next week.

The Exchange subscriptions to the World's Fair yesterday received a little boom, William Astor having sent in his signature for $25,000. Real Estate Department.

Business has been more active this week than for some time past. The sales include down-town offices and business parcels, dwellings in the residential districts and vacant lots for improvement, as is shown by our "Gossip." The list given, however, does not embrace all the transactions closed, for we hear of several important ones completed and under way which cannot be mentioned this week. Taken altogether there is a better feeling and continued activity is looked for. The auction market has been fair, as the daily summary which follows shows.

There was very little business completed Monday on 'Change, although the announcements were fairly numerous. Three of the five sales bulletined were adjourned, and only two carried out. Considerable competition was developed by the offering of a three-story dwelling with store at No. 205 Bleecker street, and extending to Minetta street, which was finally secured by Ottinger Brothers at $18,200. Messrs. Ottinger own the adjoining plot on the corner, hence their anxiety to secure No. 205.

On Tuesday there was a great crowd at the Exchange, called together by announcements both numerous and important. The Countess H. De Moltke-Huitfeldt's sale of the block between 121st and 123d streets, Manhattan and St. Nicholas avenues, was particularly well attended. Nearly all the building loan operators were present, and several ladies were also in the crowd. The lower half of the block was sold for a total of $103,500, and the balance was not offered. Taken altogether fair prices were realized; the street lots were sold best, and the inside lots on Manhattan avenue went cheap. In May, 1886, at an auction of the Hutton estate, the twenty-six lots shown on the catalogue of sale brought $151,450, and considering that fourteen of them brought $103,500 on Tuesday it must be acknowledged that prices have advanced materially. Only one of the building loan dealers became a purchaser, viz., Newman Cowen. He secured four lots on Manhattan avenue for $32,650, although closely pressed by Oppenheimer & Metzger for the corner lot, which brought $11,650. Messrs. James J. Coogan, Jewett H. Shafer, J. W. Teets, Morris Steinhardt and Jacob Korn were noticed in the crowd which surrounded Auctioneer Harnett's stand. A partition sale of No. 100 6th avenue, near 8th street, was also well attended, and the bidding, which was started at $15,000, was rapidly advanced by about a dozen bidders until $30,600 was reached, at which figure John W. Theisz was the buyer. There is a three-story brick store and dwelling on the lot, which is only 20x77.4 in size. A contest for a plot of two lots with brick building, on 24th street, close to 8th avenue, resulted in their sale to Morris Steinhardt at $37,750. Lots hereabouts are in demand for building purposes. The dwelling No. 412 East 116th street was not offered, having been previously disposed of for $10,000 at private sale to the tenant. Three lots on the south side of 81st street, 125 feet east of 10th avenue, were withdrawn, having been sold at private contract to James Rufus Smith.

On Wednesday there was a large business transacted at the Exchange, but with a single exception the offerings were quite unimportant. There were several bidders for the five-story store No. 28 Reade street, size 25x77.8, and although started at $40,000, the advances were so rapid that $65,000 was soon reached, and the property sold to W. L. Suydam. The annual rental is $4,800.

The sales on Thursday were with very few exceptions unimportant. There was a very large crowd present, including many ladies, and as they remained after the regular sales were over, it was shown that the Hunt estate sale of Brooklyn lots, which was commenced at 12.30 o'clock, was the card which brought them together. In the way of city realty a four-story dwelling on West 14th street, No. 133, was the most important parcel offered. It was a Court sale in partition and Joel B. Wolfe, a party in interest, became the buyer at $30,500. This property was sold in January, 1856, at $23,000 to Udolpho Wolfe.

The Hunt estate sale was a great success, and Auctioneer Peter F. Meyer disposed of 597 lots for a total of $361,965. Among the largest buyers were James Cassin, C. J. O'Brien, E. J. Kelly, John J. Depp, John F. James, J. M. Kaufman, C. M. Detlefsen, Oliver E. Edwards, H. Ahrens and Geo. W. Wettje. The prices realized are given in the regular column.

Yesterday was a dull day on 'Change. Three sales were announced, all foreclosures, and of these two were postponed.

On Tuesday, November 19th, Adrian H. Muller & Son will sell nine lots on the northeast corner of West and Horatio streets peremptorily; also ten 8th avenue lots, between 113th and 115th streets, by order of the trustees.

On Tuesday, November 19th, Jere. Johnson, Jr., will hold a sale of 135 lots on the Michael Bergen estate, near the well-known Hunt estate. The property is located on 7th and 8th avenues, 60th and 61st streets, and the sale is to be positive. The titles are guaranteed. He will also sell at the same time fifteen building lots on 4th avenue, between 33d and 34th streets, Brooklyn. Both sales will take place at the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange, 393 Fulton street.

On Tuesday, November 19, L. J. and I. Phillips will offer a number of vacant lots in the upper wards. They comprise eight on the western front of Lenox avenue, between 133d and 134th streets; eight on the northwest corner of 10th avenue and 123d street; four on 141st street, near 8th avenue, and six of irregular size on the eastern front of St. Nicholas avenue, between 112th and 113th streets. These properties include four corners, and the lots are all well situated for improvement. They are to be sold by order of the executors, and the sale will be positive and without reserve.

On Tuesday, November 19, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will offer the three-story building at No. 61 Elizabeth street.

On Wednesday, November 20, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will offer the flat and store No. 2175 3d avenue, near 119th street; four lots on 62d street, west of 9th avenue; and under Supreme Court orders, Nos. 309 Bowery, 217 and 218 East 53d street, 127 East 87th street, and a gore on Lexington avenue and 93d street.

Thomas Pettit will sell on Wednesday, November 20th, on the premises, the homestead farm of the late Richard P. Betts, located at the corner of Betts avenue and the Bushwick and Newtown turnpike road, in the town of Newtown, Queens County, with the dwelling house and farm buildings thereon, consisting of over forty-eight acres, together with other property in that vicinity. The terms are easy.

On Wednesday, November 20th, John F. B. Smyth will sell the property at No. 1894 3d avenue, between 104th and 105th streets, New York, and the buildings at No. 149 Conover street, corner Sullivan, and at Nos. 158 to 160 Hull street, Brooklyn. This is to be a peremptory sale.

On Thursday, November 21, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will offer the Hamilton Fish leasehold property at Nos. 363 to 372 2d avenue, on the northeast corner of 21st street, with about twelve years to run, exclusive of the privilege of renewals.

On Thursday, November 21, Adrian H. Muller & Son will sell two very choice avenue properties, both of them corners. One of these is the handsome "St. Charles" apartment house on the northwest corner of 72d street and 9th avenue, taking in Nos. 1187 to 1191 on the avenue and No. 101 on the street. It is a six-story building, built by Chas. Buek & Co., with two floors of stores and offices, the corner being occupied by a bank. This sale will be watched with interest, as it is the first property of the kind on the west side ever offered at auction. The other parcel to be sold is that at Nos. 501 and 503 3d avenue on the southwest corner of 3d avenue and 34th street, and comprises a new five-story store and hotel building. The sale of both properties is to be peremptory.

On Thursday, November 21, Adrian H. Muller & Son will sell sixteen lots on 5th, Madison and New avenues, and 91st, 94th, 103d, 104th, 105th and 150th streets, by order of the executors of the late Girardus A. C. Van Beuren.

On Thursday, November 21st, John F. B. Smyth will offer an investment property at No. 2015 Fulton street, Brooklyn. It is a three-story and basement brick flat, with iron girders, ready to be made into a store at nominal cost. The title is guaranteed, and the property is within a stone's throw of the elevated road.

Out Among the Builders.

James Henderson has the plans under way for three handsome flats to be built for Martha Gelston on the northwest corner of Manhattan avenue and 121st street. Two will be 40x80 each, and one, the corner, 20x90. They will contain all improvements, including steam heat, and will cost $130,000. These are the first flats to be built in this immediate locality, the surrounding improvements being confined to private houses.

R. R. Davis is the architect for three five-story brick and terra cotta flats, 27.8x87.5, to be erected for Bertha Rodding on the north side of 27th street, 368 feet west of 9th avenue, at a cost of $90,000. The same architect will finish for Henry Bergman the six five-story flats and stores on the northwest corner of 10th avenue and 98th street, begun some time ago. The alterations to these buildings will cost $60,000. The corner house is 25x80; four inside houses are 25x67, and the remaining house is 14.5x65 feet in size.

Builders Moore & McLoughlin have commenced work on the southwest corner of Avenue A and 84th street preparatory to building six five-story single flats on a plot 102.2x119. Four of the houses will face on the avenue and contain stores, and two will be on the street without stores.

E. Wenz has plans for five five-story brick and stone flats, to be built on the northwest corner of 81st street and Avenue B., for Schreiner Bros., at a cost of $95,000. The corner house will be 26.2x72, the other avenue houses 25x64, and the street house 18x72 feet in size.

William N. Sternkopf will alter the present building at Nos. 187 and 189 Mott street from plans by Wm. Graul into a five-story and basement building, the first story and basement to be 50x100, and the upper lofts, 50x90, with an elevator, at a cost of $30,000.

John E. Kerby has plans under way for nine two-story frame dwellings, each 16.8x33 and extension which Fernando Wood will build at the northeast corner of Andrews avenue and 184th street, Sedgwick Park, Fordham Heights, 24th Ward. Cost, about $1,600 each, and corner house $2,000.

Ralph S. Townsend has plans for a five-story and basement brick livery stable and storage warehouse to be built on the south side of 100th street, 108.4 east of 10th avenue, for E. W. Ostendorff, at a cost of $23,000.

Rentz & Lange have plans for two five-story and basement brick and stone tenements, to be built on north side of Remington street, 25 feet east of Columbia street, 52.6x100, tin roof, to cost about $19,000; owner, J. Schmitt.

James W. Brockway is about to build two flats on the east side of Park avenue, 50 feet south of 94th street. One will be a double flat, size 31x72, with accommodations for two families on each floor, and one a single flat, 19x72. The houses will contain all the improvements.

Michael P. McDonough will build five five-story flats on the northeast corner of 116th street and Madison avenue, on a plot 110x100. The corner house will be 30x96 and the four adjoining about 20x80 each.

Anthony Smyth will improve a plot of four lots on the south side of 128th street, 110 feet east of 5th avenue.

R. S. Townsend will furnish drawings for a five-story brown stone double flat, 25x88, to be built at No. 416 West 25th street for Havens & Winters, at a cost of $22,000.

Ascher Weinstein is about to build a five-story brick and stone flat, 25x76, on the northwest corner of Scammel and Monroe streets.

Francis J. Schnugg intends to improve two lots on the north side of 96th street, 100 feet east of 4th avenue.

Fred. Ebeling has the plans for extensive alterations to the building No. 153 Clinton street, and the addition of a 22-foot extension for Meyer Cohen at a cost of $8,000.

James W. Ramsey, the Harlem builder, is in financial difficulties. Over $16,000 worth of mechanics' liens have been filed against him within a short period. His liabilities are about $45,000, while his unencumbered assets are only nominal. A meeting of his creditors was held quietly a day or two ago, but it is understood no definite arrangements were made.

Mr. Ramsey is now building four flat houses on 134th street, west of 8th avenue, and it is against these that the liens have been filed. For some time back Ramsey has been raising money on notes—borrowing from Peter to pay Paul. Among his creditors are Walter Scott, decorator and paper dealer; Abraham Steers, lumberman, and the Mount Morris Bank. Mr. Ramsey recently built on 103d street, between 9th and 10th avenues. Formerly he was a prominent builder of Newark, N. J. He came to this city to superintend the erection of the "Osborne" apartment house on the northwest corner of 7th avenue and 57th street.

Can this be true? A reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE was informed that the property on the east side of Park avenue, between 43d and 44th streets, where the machine shops of the New York Central Railroad partly stand, is to be vacated, and that the railroad is to move its locomotives to its depot at 138th street. He was also told that the fee of the property belongs to the Goelet estate, who intend to build a hotel on the site when the shops are removed. Inquiry at the office of the Goelet estate yesterday failed to elicit a substantiation of this report, though a representative of the estate, who declined to talk, would not positively deny that there was something to the rumor.

Out of Town.

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—Rose & Stone have plans for alterations to be made in the First Presbyterian Church, on Jersey City Heights, the walls of the present edifice to remain intact. A new tower will be built of brick and stone, the roof changed and the church re-decorated. Cost, $40,000.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

[For Prices see pages ix., x., xi. and xii.]

BRICKS.—In all essential particulars the market for Common Hards has been much the same as last week. Demand ran comparatively moderate and cautious, the supply was full enough to be at times a little excessive, and prices have eased up somewhat more, especially on the medium and lower grades where buyers naturally found it the easiest matter to insist upon allowances. The weather has proven a considerable factor in curtailing the volume of business, rains interfering with a great deal of work, and no one caring apparently to invest in supplies they could not use to immediate advantage, dealers it is said storing but little, and as for some time past only an odd cargo now and then that from its extra desirable character was worthy of putting away against the probabilities of the future. Indeed, there is what seems to be a considerable amount of indifference regarding the accumulation of supplies, which, if adhered to, may place dealers at a disadvantage should this happen to be a year of early-closing navigation. Even with the river open, however, there is reason to expect a falling off in receipts within a few weeks for reasons already explained; and with that in view, commission men do not allow themselves to become much demoralized or inclined to grant concessions further than may be necessary to move immediate surplus cargoes. Manufacturers have kept on shipping since our last, as it was expected they would, but, it is understood, are commencing to grumble somewhat about returns, and this may lead to more careful forwarding as their stocks work down into more shapely proportions. Pales meet with usual proportionate demand and remain steady at former basis of valuation, with no great amount of stock in first hand accumulation.

CEMENT.—It appears to be a pretty good market all around and reports are cheerful. Domestic grades have a full, and in some cases, quite hurried demand, especially where buyers are anxious to secure their pet brands, and between the local and shipping orders most leading manufacturers have about all they can attend to. The same general conditions prevail on foreign stock, the heavy run of arrivals of last month having been succeeded by a much lessened quantity thus far, but better than all by a large and broadened demand that is taking stock away about as fast as it can be landed and handled, with several of the leading importers asserting that they have now in hand a greater number of orders than it seems likely will be filled before the close of navigation. A considerable proportion of the stock is going to the Westward, but the nearby and local trade wants its usual proportion.

LATH.—There is just a faint evidence of disappointment in some of the comments upon the market this week, owing to the absence of further actual gain in value. The market, however, has really held its own in first-rate form, and not only have the current arrivals been placed about as quickly as tendered, but buyers were again found willing to enter upon engagements of stock afloat, more especially where there was any assurance of really good quality. The present consumption is fair, and be it said that dealers are pretty much all willing to lay away a little stock at about current cost.

LIME.—In asking a receiver about the condition of the general market he dropped into slang and called it a "chestnut." That seems to cover the situation pretty well, however, as there is practically nothing new since our last, except a larger arrival from the Eastward, which met a demand sufficiently broad and prompt to exhaust the supply without difficulty, and of course the range of price is considered fixed until next June.

LUMBER.—A very good general distribution is taking place, probably somewhat fuller if anything in some sections of the city with about the usual average assortment required to meet the calls of buyers, a little more stiff trim having been among the latest additions. For bulk or wholesale parcels, however, there is an indication of shrinkage, partly because the season has worked so far along that shipments and deliveries from many points are now a matter of some doubt, and partly because a great many dealers have about secured their quota of certain grades and no longer feel an inclination to negotiate. Some descriptions, however, such as desirable spruce and hemlock and really first-class selections of hardwoods are calculated upon to retain attention whenever they can be tendered without adding materially to the present line of cost. From pretty much all primary points the advices indicate increasing firmness, but no more if as much as ordinarily noticeable at this season. Present indications convey the impression of full winter stock at most Western depots.

Eastern Spruce is holding up well to the good general form predicted for it and there is little or no complaint from the selling side except the apparent impossibility of getting forward all the stock that might be placed. It is said that even many of the latest arrivals went directly into consumption, some on waiting jobbers, and receivers claim they can pick out numerous yards in this and adjoining cities where the accumulation and assortment, still fails anything like a showing that would seem necessary to carry dealers through the winter. Such features coupled with a natural tendency toward a shrinkage of production and increased cost of transportation would appear to build up the main line of advantage upon the seller's side, against which no ordinary assault is likely to prove successful. Preparations for work in the woods are upon about the ordinary scale in most localities.

Piling still fails to give the buyer much of a chance unless there happens to be an odd lot upon which necessity for realizing is a little extreme. Stock in chains and whatever there may be expected forward unsold is offered indifferently and generally only at extreme figures with receivers still confident that everything desirable will find a market. For such stuff as scaffolding, clothes poles, etc., the position is also well held and without signs of abatement in valuation.

Hemlock is firmer owing in part to reduced offerings of stuff of such character as the bears have been using to talk cut rates upon, or probably, more properly speaking, the natural firmness of the market stands out more prominently as standard desirable sizes become the principal article for negotiation. Representatives of the Pennsylvania producers, in fact, not only claim full former top rates, but have evidence that it would not be very difficult to obtain some little advance owing to the anxiety manifested on the part of some buyers.

White Pine is losing no ground in point of average relative sale, but many operators somewhat reluctantly admit that they find little if any gain, and, in fact, there are just about the old unsatisfactory features ruling and so likely to continue for some little time to come, the absolute close of navigation being about the only juncture at which a steadier feeling might be expected. Even then, however, supplies will remain available should anyone want them at only about the difference of cost between that of water transportation and deliveries in car lots by rail. Chances for increased distribution are improving and in port already realized, and dealers who make a specialty of the export trade calculate upon increased orders, as the Eastern ports close and orders have to come in this direction.

Yellow Pine may not be called for with quite so much freedom as heretofore, but it has a way of securing a goodly portion of the current line of general trade, and all in all, is doing just about as well as any other class of lumber. There is, of course, the usual difficulty encountered in the attempt to get close information on this market, owing to the stolid reticence of a portion of the trade, who thus tacitly admit fear of having their doings made public, but there is nothing to indicate that sellers lose advantage on either first or second hand dealings.

Carolina Pine is finding a smooth working market apparently, and few if any complaints are to be heard from the selling side. The distribution is somewhat more closely confined to local custom, as out of town buyers are reasonably well stocked up, but there seems to be no excess of offering and full former rates are insisted upon.

Hardwoods work out into consumption somewhat more freely though this is about in accord with the season and simply realizes calculations. Most operators have a special good word to say in favor of some particular wood and in this way one may hear on a trip through the market commendation of nearly all staple descriptions, though as leaders there can be placed ash, quarter-sawn oak, fine cherry and first-class poplar. Values are well sustained and while agents from interior points are ready or a little anxious to operate they are unwilling to do so at a sacrifice on value.

Shingles have been somewhat irregular, but on the general range holders do not give way to any extent owing in part to the lateness of the season, and a belief that supplies will not come forward with freedom sufficient to cause much difficulty. Demand fair on the average and now and then a full export order can be placed.

The Timberman as follows:

Minnesota dealers are favored with a very low rate to Eastern cities just now, the South Shore road having made a rate of thirty-three cents from Duluth to New York and Philadelphia, and thirty-five cents to Boston. This is fifteen cents lower than via Chicago and only five cents higher than from Chicago to New York and Boston.

Indications in the St. Croix valley point towards a decreased cut this season from that of last winter, and very little has been doing in logging so far, though at this time last year 30,000,000 to 4,000,000 feet were in place. Much, of course, will depend upon whether the season is favorable or not.

THE CHICAGO CARGO MARKET.—Arrivals of lumber the past week have been quite heavy for this time of year, but the number of cargoes of good inch, piece stuff and lath was not sufficient to satisfy the demand. Prices for all grades of good lumber were stronger and buyers plenty. Coarse inch still meets with poor sales owing to a light demand. Piece stuff is coming in greater quantity than for some time past, but a great deal of it goes on up the river, without stopping at the foot of Franklin street. A few cargoes were in sight at the close, and prices on piece stuff and good inch held firm, but common boards dragged. Short green piece stuff brought $9.50 readily, and cargoes containing the scarcer lengths $10 and $10.50. No. 2 dry inch $11.50 and $12.50.

At the yards:

Stocks of piece stuff are generally quite large, yet there is a marked shortage in some respects, principally in the shorter lengths. There are hardly any 6x8 14 foot to be found in the city, and 2x10 16 foot are equally scarce. Inquiry between yards for these sizes are frequent, and those who have any are not anxious to sell, preferring to keep the stock for their own regular trade. As near as can be learned all lists quoting short piece stuff at $11 have been withdrawn, and replaced by others quoting $11.50 and $12. Occasionally a sale is heard of at the old figures, but it is where such prices are given to catch a big bill, in which a profit can be made on some other item. Otherwise it would be foolish to sell 2x10s, especially at so low a figure, for it would cost more than that to replace them.

That piece stuff is also scarce at other places is indicated by the fact that an inquiry has been received from one firm at a Mississippi river point for prices on thirty-four cars of 2x4, 2x6 and 2x10, nothing longer than 18 feet.

A sure indication that prices are on an even basis all around and that little cutting is done, is the fact that there is very little difference in the estimates made by the different yards, even though the bill under consideration may be a large one. Several instances have come to our knowledge where the difference in bills ranging from $1,000 to $1,500 was less than $2.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

Before the end of the coming week, whether the weather be mild or cold, it is probable that production will have ceased except at such of the mills as defy custom in the North and run the mills all the year around. A few straggling mills are running in the Mississippi Valley, and most of the Minneapolis mill at this writing are still running, but a week's time and a lack of logs will put an end to the music of the saws of nearly, if not quite, all of them. It is yet early to give exact figures, but it is very certain that in the Wisconsin valley and west of that line the production of white pine timber has been much less than it was a year ago. It is not impossible, with the improvement of trade which has marked the past week or two, that the first part of December—the summing up date—will find the stocks of lumber in pile less than they were at the corresponding period last year. It is a realization of this fact, and that in volume of trade the year has not been so bad after all, though little can be said in the matter of prices, that is encouraging manufacturers and dealers to look upon the favorable side of the situation and have faith in a good healthy spring trade.

ENGLAND.

The Timber Trades Journal as follows:

American Black Walnut.—We still hear of frequent inquiries for large and prime logs, of which description the market has been singularly bare for some time past; recent importations have for the most part been of an exceedingly poor character, and those sold without reserve at late auction must surely have resulted in a serious loss to shippers, which it is to be hoped will deter them from sending any more such stock over here.

A good amount of business continues to be done in lumber; the inquiry, however, is generally for clean, sound boards and planks, without centre (1½ inches especially being much wanted); we also hear that the trade in inferior descriptions has manifested improvement of late.

American Whitewood.—We notice some very prime large logs have just been landed at the West India docks, but there does not appear to be much inquiry for such; a good trade, however, is doing in boards and planks, of which the recent arrivals have been very considerable.

Sequoia.—The prime parcel of planks ex Don Quixote, which was sold at public auction without reserve, seems to have attracted the attention of the trade in all quarters, and the whole was quickly disposed of at fair prices.

As this wood has now become so widely distributed we should think there is a good prospect before it, and doubtless, as it becomes better known, prices will improve.

For the finely figured fitches in same catalogue there were no biddings at all, but we shall not be surprised to hear ere long of some portion of this parcel being sold privately.

CANADA.

The Toronto Monetary Times, speaking of the Ottawa lumber trade, says:

The dullness indicated last week still continues, although for the most part the mills are still running, and, weather permitting, will continue to cut for three or four weeks.

The manufacture of lumber in the Ottawa valley this season, will, it is believed, not fall much short of five hundred million feet, and most of it was sold, according to the usual custom, early in the season.

Active preparations are now in progress for the winter's operations in the bush, many firms having had men at work since the end of August. Other gangs will of course follow when sleighing sets in. Wages are averaging from $18 to $25 per month with board, although some square timber men get more.

According to the St. John, N. B., Sun, the lumber cut up the bay this winter, at points whence it is brought to St. John by schooners in summer, will be about 75,000,000 feet.

A tract of land containing 10,000,000 feet of hardwood timber in Essex County, Ont., has, it is reported, just been purchased by Detroit parties. It is within twenty-five miles of that city.

The Export Lumber Company report the following total shipments from the St. Lawrence to the River Plate during the season of 1889: Pine, 23,025,132 feet; spruce, 11,735,365 feet; hardwood, 33,000 feet; and small sawage, 516,376 feet; total, 35,315,573 feet. In 1888 the total shipments were 18,089,716 feet; 1887, 31,036,076, and in 1886, 29,088,244 feet.

NAILS.—The market retains about former general features. Buyers are fairly independent and fight against suggestions of an advance in value, but manufacturers have matters very well in hand and can, as a rule, support rates without difficulty. Business of late has been very good and covers a wider general area of distribution. We quote at $2.10 @ 2.15 per keg for car lots, and $2.20 @ 2.25 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Reports are a little variable and occasional complaint over the condition of trade may be heard. About all really seasonable demand is represented, however, and it is seldom that sellers have to make any positive concession to secure attention; indeed, on really standard goods there is quite a steady tone preserved without difficulty, and so far as shown on the surface supplies do not exceed the outlet. Linseed Oil varies a little at times on the country make but the city product is kept pretty steady. We quote at 57½ @ 58c. for Western, and 60 @ 62c. for City. Spirits Turpentine has found a sluggish market and prices are lower, closing unsettled. We quote at 47 @ 48c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Some fair deliveries on contract, but new demand not very active at the moment. Holders, however, seem to have stock fairly well in hand and are looking for about former rates. We quote Pitch at $1.40 @ 1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.62½ @ 2.87½, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

WINDOW GLASS.—The wires have been kept hot this week with dispatches announcing meetings of window glass manufacturers in various sections of the country for the purpose, as was stated, of forming one vast pool of all the makers in the United States, not exactly in the nature of a trust, yet to be a combine sufficiently monopolistic and powerful to control production and fix prices, the latter, according to announcement, to be marked up quite a liberal percentage. Matters, however, do not appear to have materialized in quite the positive form that some of the accounts suggested, the Ohio and Indiana makers refusing as yet to come in, though intimating that they may be induced to do so by the end of the year, provided the existing associations in other sections make attractive tenders for amalgamation. In the meanwhile both domestic and foreign stock continues to find about the usual seasonable demand and maintains a steady line of value, and plate is doing well, especially on local account.

VOL. XLIV.

NOVEMBER 23, 1889.

No. 1,132.

In the next issue of THE RECORD AND GUIDE a handsome illustration will be given of the buildings of the Argentine Republic and of Brazil, which attracted so much attention at the Paris Exhibition.

As was universally expected after the traffic agreement between the Northwestern Road and the Union Pacific was announced, still other agreements have followed. A similar contract has been signed between Rock Island and Atchison. It is somewhat curious that these practical amalgamations are taking place during times of comparative prosperity—a fact which shows that railroad managers are gaining in wisdom. There was no urgent demand for such steps. It had indeed long been seen that the system of every road for itself produced suicidal results; and consequently the Interstate Railway Association was formed. But so loose an agreement was found to be worthless; and the different roads, finding it impossible to make a closer combination among all the competing lines, started in to combine with that particular company which would do it most good. It has been objected to these agreements that they are liable to bring about adverse legislation from the Legislature of the Western States. This does not seem probable so long as tariff rates continue reasonable. Moreover the power of separate legislatures will be comparatively limited in that the systems will spread through many different States. Meanwhile the market continues irregular, with a slight upward tendency, except in the case of some specialties. The general conditions of trade are as favorable as ever, and the booming condition of the iron market makes it seem probable that Mr. Benner's top price will come even sooner than he anticipated. It is incredible that good stocks are not a purchase, in view of the present universal and sustained increase in earnings. A conservative buyer is almost sure to make money in the long run. A boom is not perhaps to be expected, because the more speculators know about the market the less chance there is that all of them will rush one way; but a rise is as sure as the day is long. In a paragraph in our last issue, Milwaukee, Lake Shore and Western should have been substituted for Lake Shore.

Revolutions are becoming very tame affairs. It has been customary to associate them with secret counsels, the underhand propagation of treasonable literature, street revolts, bloodshed, and in the end a bitter fight. Apparently, the Brazilian revolution has been characterized by none of these perilous proceedings. The Republicans have had a walk-over. They proclaimed the Republic; the Emperor submitted without a murmur; the people acquiesced without a commotion. There does not seem to be any pressing urgency for the change. The people were not oppressed; their desires were not thwarted; their favorites were never ill-treated. On the contrary, when they last expressed their opinion on the question of a Republic, in so far as any opinion was implied by the failure to elect Republicans to their legislature, they declared in favor of the monarchy. They were, it is true, displeased with the son-in-law of the Emperor, who is said to be a snob. What an admirable reason for overturning a government. Verily, the sins of the son-in-law are visited on the head of the father-in-law. The success of the revolution does not speak very well for the future of the country. The Brazilians must be a strangely indifferent people to permit an inoffensive old man, who had occupied the throne since 1831, and who could be succeeded by no member of his own family, to be turned unceremoniously out of the throne and packed off to Europe. A people who have so little respect for existing institutions as to permit such an upheaval of the powers that be are not any more fitted for self-government than some of the other Central and South American States, where revolutions are as frequent as demagogues are numerous. The news from Brazil for the next year or so promises to be interesting. The new government, like all of their kind, will endeavor to compass reforms and undertake enterprises in order to gain the confidence of the people.

In reading the reports from Brazil it should not be forgotten that all of them are ex-parte statements of the condition of that country, the sentiment of the people and the political outlook. The telegraph is in the hands of the Provisional Government, and all dispatches are subjected to the unrepugnant inspection of a censor. Nothing derogatory or unflattering to the revolution or the revolutionists is allowed to go out to the world. There is very little doubt that with the expulsion of Dom Pedro the last tattered rags of kingship departed from this continent, not entirely without dignity. Nevertheless, it will be discovered in Brazil that it is a very much easier matter to abolish the monarchy than to establish the republic. Difficulties of a serious nature are sure to arise, if indeed they have not already arisen. One of them will be concerning universal suffrage. A republic without universal suffrage would be an anomaly in these days, and would surely be exposed to the turmoil of factions, agitation, and perhaps revolution. But can Brazil with safety extend the suffrage to many millions of slaves recently emancipated, mulattoes, creoles or Brasileiros as they call themselves, and an uneducated population possessed of very few schools? The aristocratic and conservative portion of the population comprising the most educated, the commercial class and the wealthy will certainly oppose any such step as dangerous; but granting that their opposition is overcome in the enthusiasm of a great political movement, what is likely to be the outcome of universal suffrage? History, however, has shown that the mass of people, even though uneducated, can safely be trusted with political power. This fact underlies the vitality of democracy, and has made it a success in spite of its failures.

The guarantee fund is now so near to the needed $5,000,000 that it may be regarded as assured. In a sense, the financial part of the matter is settled, and the question whether the Exposition shall be held in New York or not becomes political, or to a degree political. The situation being such as it is, if political considerations are to rule, Chicago has, perhaps, a better chance of Congressional indorsement than this city; but, apart from political prejudice, there is no good reason for thinking that the site will be chosen with any other view than that of making the Fair the greatest success possible. There is now very little doubt that the Exposition will be held in New York. It is worth noting that the subscriptions to the guarantee fund have been principally from the rich; our mechanics and tradesmen, who will be greatly benefited by the Fair, having contributed practically nothing. There is scarcely any use in doubling the guarantee fund, or "raising the ante" as one of the speakers at the Cooper Union expressed it. Five millions is ample for a guarantee fund. What the different trades should do now is to organize to perfect the part of the Exposition which specially concerns themselves.

The figures of the increase during the past year of the elevated traffic but emphasize the statement so often made in these columns of the crying urgency for better accommodations—an urgency that cannot wait for a new and more permanent system of rapid transit, but which imperatively demands an immediate increase of present facilities. Ten years ago the elevated roads transported 46,000,000 passengers; last year 179,000,000 were carried—an increase of 133,000,000, or 289 per cent., an average of 28 per cent. a year. The increase has been 8,000,000 during the past twelve months, or a little over 4½ per cent. Had the augmentation during the past year kept pace with the average of the whole ten years, it would have amounted more nearly to 50,000,000 than 8,000,000. Allowing for the fact that the tendency would be towards a larger rate of increase during the earlier part of the period—that is, when the transit facilities first became appreciated—it is necessary still to account for a large percentage of decrease in the annual increase. It is impossible, of course, accurately to gauge how much the upper sections of the city have lost by the lack of proper facilities, but that the loss has been large the figures plainly show. The most important fact in the case is that not only is the city always growing, but that a constant shifting of population already resident is taking place. This shifting is continually increasing the average distance which business men are obliged to travel in order to get to their offices. Consequently the transportation question is at present the question of questions—one of far more importance than paving, street cleaning, or the thousand and one improvements which the increase in population is necessitating.

There is every sign that Congress will be the arena for a bitter fight over the silver question, and some prospect that the silver men will be able to force, if not an unlimited coinage of silver, at all events a larger rate of coinage than obtains at present. Instead of two million dollars a month, as the minimum which the director of the mint will be ordered to turn out, very possibly three millions will be substituted. Secretary Windom is not indeed altogether favorable to this increased coinage; but we doubt whether he will be able to prevent it. The new States will bring five representatives, all of whom probably will vote and talk on the silver side. Moreover, political conditions are such that it is unlikely that the Republicans will dare to oppose any measure which is very strongly desired by the Western wing of the party. William P. St. John has advanced the strongest arguments, not indeed for free coinage, but for the coinage of the maximum amount of silver at present permitted by the law. He advocates the retirement both of our present national bank notes and greenbacks, and the substitution in their places of silver or silver certificates. This he claims will increase the demand for silver, and consequently its price, with the effect of hampering the exports from India to Great Britain and increasing our own exports of cotton and wheat. Mr. St. John's proposals are deserving of most careful consideration, and there is no doubt but that they will get it. If they are carried out, the immense sum of gold retained in the Treasury as a reserve will be set free, and the United States will have, as every nation ought to have, what practically amounts to a gold and silver coinage.

The revelation as to Dock Department methods, from which it is beginning to appear that the city is annually swindled out of a great many thousand dollars, makes humiliating enough reading in all conscience; but how much more humiliating is the defense of Dock Commissioner Matthews. Does he make any excuse for this loss? Does he offer any explanation for the swindling? Not he. He only threatens to make similar exposures in regard to other departments. A pretty defense truly. It may or it may not be true that there are other exposures to make; but whether it is or is not true, the present scandals remain, the responsibility for them has to be fixed, and the guilty punished. There are and have been many curious things connected with the government of this city, but few of them have so clearly betrayed the light in which our various municipal officers look upon one another and their responsibilities to the public.

Have We Time?

The President of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers tells us, or, to speak more strictly, he tells the members of the society of which he is the head, that there is not sufficient time before 1892—that is, twenty-nine months—to prepare for an Exposition worthy of this country. This statement must be considered "important, if true." Clearly, it would be better to have no Exposition than to have one that would be discreditable to our wealth, enterprise, and progress. The reason for selecting 1892 instead of 1893 or 1894 as the year for holding the Fair is, of course, purely sentimental; and it must be acknowledged that at bottom the sentiment is not very real, for the object of the Exposition is much more to advertise the greatness of ourselves and the excellencies of our wares than to honor the discoverer of this continent. It is the instinct of the shopkeeper, and not the enthusiasm of the historian that animates us, and we call on Columbus merely in order that the shadow of a great name may be over our exhibits.

This being the case, there is no reason why we should not be frank in considering our position, and, if we cannot with credit to ourselves prepare for and construct the Exhibition by 1892, the Fair should be postponed for one year or for two, as may be necessary. It may help us in this matter to remember that fortunately the fame of Columbus is not likely to suffer materially by delay, whereas ours surely will by inadequate preparation. The selection of the four-hundredth anniversary of the discovery of this continent as the year for holding the Fair in preference to the four hundred and first or the four hundred and second is due to the decimal system of notation, and not to any real inherent fitness in the year that begins the fourth centenary.

We regret to differ from Mr. Towne; but we do not think that any good reason exists for postponing the opening of the Fair. There is no necessity to dispute with the President of the Society of Mechanical Engineers as to whether an Exhibition, such as he has in mind, can or cannot be constructed by 1892. The question is, can the Exhibition which we need be constructed by that year? It is easy to answer this question. Undoubtedly it can. Mr. Towne has just returned from Paris, and it is evident that the grandeur of the Exposition that was recently closed there has so fired his imagination (as it did the imagination of Mr. Depew before him) that nothing will satisfy him but a Fair that in height and length and breadth shall exceed the dimensions of the French one, and greatly transcend it in the beauty and completeness of the exhibits. "In 1876," says he, "we educated ourselves. In 1892 we must educate the world." In the same spirit Mr. Depew cries, at the dinner given this week by the Chamber of Commerce, "I say that the World's Fair must surpass that of Paris." Glorious and thrilling words! The pity is that the breath of man is not more powerful, and that facts are so obdurate when they clash with wishes that fulfillment is often the wrong end of our conception.

Talk of the kind we have quoted is common enough in connection with the Exposition project. There is the roll of the big patriotic drum about it. It "takes" the public; but, alas! it does not recognize facts as fully as is desirable. It is one thing to talk of surpassing the French Exposition; it is quite another thing to do so. That the task is not such an easy one as might be hastily imagined may be seen by comparing the material which France had to draw upon for the making of her Exposition with the material which we can command.

In the first place, it must be premised that any Exhibition in this country at the present time will be, both as to exhibits and visitors, only in a very qualified sense "international." We may interest North America, but we cannot interest the world in our Fair as France can and did in the case of her Exposition. One million five hundred thousand foreigners visited the French Exposition. Not one-tenth of that number will visit our Fair. We must not expect our Exposition to be visited even by as many South Americans as went to Paris. They numbered 25,000. The interest that we take in ourselves by no means measures the interest that other nationalities take in us. Whatever may be the cause, the fact remains that we do not interest the world to anything like the same degree that France does. We measure ourselves in acres, in numbers, in tons, bushels and miles, but the effete foreigner merely shrugs his shoulders with the remark, "immense—but not interesting."

The same must be said respecting the exhibits in our Fair. The entire world contributed its finest products and wares to the French Exhibition. It will not to ours. European manufacturers—German, English, French, Italian, Spanish, Austrian, Belgian, Dutch, Scandinavian—representing enormous wealth, beside which ours, great as it may seem to any one fresh from reading the census, is inconsiderable, will take only a small part in our Fair. Though recognizing fully the skill and enterprise of our manufacturers, no well-informed person will assert that this country, practically single-handed, can make anything like as fine a display of goods as France did with the support of all Europe. We may cry, "we beat the world in everything;" but we know that is merely the utterance of a young and exuberant patriotism. We make good steel rails, much excellent machinery, glass ware and pottery that are creditable, machine-made furniture, watches, shoes, that of their kind are as good as any. Our petroleum and lard goes over all the world. We spin excellent fabrics, though not of the highest kind. But, after we have justly estimated our own work, we know that it is not in all cases pre-eminent when placed beside the finest productions of Europe. Good pottery is made in Trenton, but it will scarcely compete with the best produced in Sevres, Dresden, Worcester, Limoges, the majolica of Italy, and the biscuit wares of the Spain peninsular. We have nothing to compare with European tapestries, laces, the highest productions of the French silk spinner, the cotton spinner of Manchester, Glasgow, Rouen, the finest linens of Belfast, the higher grades of watches made by firms such as Jules Jurgensen, Frodsham, Dent, Patike Philippe; the bronze-work of Paris, the gold-work of Benares, the wines of France and Germany, the implements of warfare from Essen, Newcastle and Creusot, Venetian glass, the verrerie de luxe of the French and English, and so on through a list that it is not necessary to complete. The fact for us to remember is that France had the benefit of these exhibits and we shall not, or at least in only a very limited way. It is foolish then to cry for a bigger Exhibition than the French had, or to talk about our Exhibition in the superlative tones adopted by Mr. Depew and Mr. Towne. The question is not, can we fill a great many enormous buildings, but can we fill them with excellent and diversified exhibits? Ten miles of locomotives would not make as interesting an exhibit as one of each class would. Nothing is to be gained by displaying the same sort of exhibits by the hundreds or the tons, or by permitting a vast amount of uninteresting merchandise to be exposed for the purpose of advertisement. Let us undertake to do in the coming Exhibition no more than we can do excellently. If we do this we will find that we do not need to talk of the area of the site as we would of a Western farm. Mr. Towne will find that the buildings needed can be erected by the year 1892, and though we may fall a little short of teaching the entire world in every department of human industry, we may learn a great deal ourselves, about ourselves, and demonstrate that since 1876 this country has made wonderful progress in the arts and industries, and in some of them has attained a degree of skill unexcelled elsewhere. But let us rid ourselves at once of the P. T. Barnum ideal of an Exposition—"Absolutely the biggest show on earth; sixty millions of clowns."

The Commercial Bulletin gives an interesting account of the debate at the recent International Monetary Conference in Paris. The bi-metallists were strongly represented, and the debate on both sides exhaustive and able. The ablest speech from the bi-metallic standpoint was made by M. Emile de Laveleye, who declared that the serious objection to bi-metallism was the Gresham law, according to which money of lesser value always drives out in a country money of greater value. But this M. Laveleye argued is possible only by way of payments to foreign countries, and consequently all that was necessary to get around the objection would be a fixed ratio of value in all countries, which would remove the motive for exporting the dearer metal, whether it was gold or silver. M. Laveleye took the ground that the decline in prices did not result except in a very remote way, from the situation of the precious metals. The conference was assembled only to talk, and talk it did. No resolutions were adopted and no votes taken.

Limited Liability at Home and Abroad.

Among the three hundred real or alleged causes of industrial depression brought to the attention of our National Bureau of Labor, the reckless creation of limited liability concerns was unmentioned. English investigators of similar problems have laid great emphasis on the idea, that over-speculation is due largely to the unrestrained formation of joint stock companies having no real excuse for existence except the furtherance of the personal aims of the "promoters."

The English system of registering such companies makes it possible to get more satisfactory statistics in that country than here. The Legislature has distrusted the limited liability principle ever since the Bubble craze in 1720, when companies were formed for all possible and impossible purposes, from the invention of perpetual motion to the melting down of sawdust and the manufacture of knotless boards from the product. No general law for the incorporation of limited liability companies was passed in England till 1855, though a similar law had been passed by the State of New York as early as 1811.

From 1,500 to 2,000 joint stock companies are registered each year in England, of which about 50 per cent. die at birth—a singular commentary on the legal doctrine that corporations are immortal. Out of 1,440 companies registered in London, with a nominal capital of £143,000,000, no less than 430 died at birth, while 360 were wound up within two years. Out of 26,000 companies registered during twenty-nine years the proportion of unsuccessful ones was about 64 per cent. In 1886 a writer estimated that there were afloat in the English stock market fully £2,000,000,000 of speculative securities, of which at least a fourth were mere gambling counters. The same expounder of statistics concluded that £328,000,000 of capital had been wiped out so far as the bona fide investing public was concerned. It is to such a state of things that a recent law review attributes the fact that real investors now shun the Stock Exchange, and the speculative operators there are compelled to live on the plan of "dog-eat-dog."

It is not possible to give an equally exact statement of such matters in this country, because we have no adequate system of registration for joint stock companies. They come into existence almost by spontaneous generation, and go out of existence as easily as they are born. Yet, against their well-known benefits to industry, it is certain that two very definite evils must be placed: evils, however, which it seems not impossible to lessen. The first is the establishment of absurd or fraudulent companies, and the second is the tyranny of the directors and the self-seeking of stock majorities.

The investor has a right to know the exact nature of an enterprise in which he is asked to risk his capital, and this, detailed registration at the time of beginning business would secure. The same precaution joined with punitive legislation would be invaluable in preventing or punishing what the Germans call "frauds in founding" (Grundungsschwindeln). The Germans allow definite payment for the trouble and expense properly incurred by the men who organize a joint stock company, but they guard very carefully against the illicit gains often made by "promoters." It is not uncommon in this country for a man to organize a company for the express purpose of selling to it a worthless business at a high figure. In England the organizing of companies has become a regular trade, and men who can write prospectuses that appeal to small investors—serving women, country parsons and so forth—are always sure of work. Single ship companies have been multiplied—in the interest of the clerks and loafers who beget them; and the ships, when built at all, merely increase the number of "ocean tramps" that demoralize the transportation business, and that have called for repeated commissions to inquire into the loss of life at sea.

Besides frauds in the founding of companies American investors need protection against the tyranny and chicane of stock majorities and of directors. As a partial remedy it has been proposed the voting power of stock should diminish according to the amount held by any individual, but such a law would surely be easy of evasion. Some States provide that in the election of directors a shareholder may cumulate his votes; that is, he may cast as many votes for one director as the number obtained by multiplying the number of his shares by the number of directors to be elected. This insures minority representation on the board, but fails to guarantee protection to the small investor.

A final suggestion which seems to be of value comes from France. The French "societes en commandites" are organized under laws which provide that the directors are liable to the full amount of their personal property, while ordinary shareholders enjoy a limitation of liability to the amount of their respective investments. French experience shows that for rational enterprises directors can be found willing to act under such a law, and that shareholders are much better protected than with us. The stockholder often needs protection quite as badly as the much-talked-about public, and in protecting him the community will in some sort protect itself.

To Amend the Building Laws.

SOME CRITICISMS AND SUGGESTIONS.

The committee which is now holding sessions to revise the building law are hearing suggestions as to what defects exist in the law at present and how they can be remedied. The meetings are of considerable importance, as the evidence obtained by the committee may result in the passing of legislation which may relieve architects from considerable trouble and annoyance in the drawing of plans, and save expense to capitalists and others engaged in building, and thus promote that industry. A few architects and builders were called upon to ascertain what, if any, suggestions they had to make.

A veteran architect, who has given considerable thought to the matter, said: "I am not sure but what we might abolish the present law entirely, with advantage to the public. We could then reconstruct the law so as to make it sensible and intelligible. The men who could be chosen to do this work should be an able architect, an able engineer and an able builder. They should prepare a law which would be acceptable to the Legislature, the profession and the public. The difficulty is that the law has been too much tinkered by a large number of people. New coats, vests and pantaloons have been hung on a lame creature. The great objection to the present law is its irrelevancy to mechanical construction. I do not wish, however, to convey the impression that the law has done no good. It has, during the twenty years or so that it has been in existence, improved building vastly, and our fine new modern buildings would probably not have been erected without it."

Another architect said: "I think the law might be amended in many things, and some of my colleagues will, no doubt, point out the defects when they appear before the committee. But I would like to say one thing, and to urge it very strongly, and that is, that the Building Department should be made independent absolutely of the Fire Department. The people who put millions of dollars yearly into buildings should protest against the Building Department being subject to Fire Department politics. The Superintendent of Buildings should have the appointment of all his assistants. He should be a man of first-class education and should have some first-class deputies, so that plans could be expeditiously and intelligently passed upon, instead of architects and owners being harassed by delays. Besides the department is deficient in inspectors, and they are paid wretchedly. The result is that it contains a number of men who are not always competent and who are not all above reproach. This is usually the case with men who are underpaid. If the salaries of inspectors were raised from $1,100 and $1,200 to $2,000 and $2,500, it would command the services of a set of men who would hail from the universities, colleges and technical schools. There is plenty of such material to be had, and the city of New York ought to have it."

[L. De Coppet Berg, of the firm of J. C. Cady & Co., said: "One of the principal defects of the law is the manner in which the thicknesses of walls is regulated. These are measured from curb to roof, whereas they should be regulated by the weight which they have to sustain. Under the present law you can make your wall full of openings. You may chock them full of windows, and yet only make them the same thickness as though they were solid walls without any openings whatever. Another objection is the difficulty in interpreting the law whenever we plan something original. In such cases we have always to send up to the Building Department to ascertain whether the construction will be conformable to the law, as understood by the department. The construction may be perfectly safe and sound, but we don't know what the department will have to say about it. We therefore have to wait until we hear from them before deciding on a definite plan. There is no reason for this; the law should be so clear that every architect should know what to do, without being irritated all the time by a law capable of being interpreted in half a dozen different ways. I want to make one qualification to this statement, and that is, that in so far as it relates to tenements and theatres the law does not contain these difficulties to any extent. We have had no trouble in such cases, as the law is, on the whole, clear and precise in regard to these kinds of buildings. We want the same clearness and preciseness to instruct us in other kinds of structures."

De Lemos & Cordes made the following suggestions:

TILE AND CONCRETE ARCHES.—There ought to be a law regulating the span and thickness of tile or fireproof arches, and also a law regulating the use of concrete between iron beams instead of arches, with or without the insertion of iron, as now very extensively executed in all parts of Europe.

BONDSTONES.—The bondstones of bluestone, as now provided for piers and walls, ought to be abolished, as being the most destructible parts in case of fire. But masonry of best hard brick and Portland cement and grouted ought to be rigidly enforced instead; or, if additional strength is required, granite bondstones 8 inches thick at intervals of 6 to 7 feet should be provided.

PIERS.—The masonry used in piers additional to the thickness of walls, as provided by law, ought to be computed as equal to three times the amount of masonry of solid walls, and a deduction on the masonry of the curtain walls should be allowed accordingly, with the proviso that no such walls be less than 12 inches.

WALLS OF HIGH BUILDINGS.—Walls of high buildings ought to commence from the top down with 16 inches, gradually increasing to the thickness of basement walls as now provided, the offset not to be over 26 feet apart.

WALLS OF DUMB-WAITERS AND LIGHT-SHAFTS.—Walls of dumb-waiters and light-shafts of not over 12 square feet area ought not to be more than 4 inches thick, of brick laid in cement to the height of 50 feet from the top, with anchored iron lintels to window or door openings, and the walls to be 4 inches thicker for every 25 feet below; the box-shape of such shafts giving more stability even than solid walls in case of fire. The doors and frames of such shafts should be lined with metal on the inside.

WALLS OF ELEVATORS.—Walls of elevator shafts, with sides not over 7 feet wide, ought not to be over 8 inches thick, laid in cement to the height of 40 feet from the top and 4 inches thicker for every 20 feet below, with anchored iron lintels to openings, for the same reason as before.

DOORS OF ELEVATORS.—The doors of elevators in buildings not constructed fire-proof ought to be lined on the inside only with sheet-metal, this to include any exposed part of the door-frame; the openings and sashes of such doors and fanlights to be so arranged as to be easily closed by means of sliding shutters of sheet-metal. The inside wall of the elevator-shaft fronting the doors of elevators should not have any parts recessing or projecting more than $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches, or else a separate sliding-door. Otherwise, a folding-gate should be provided for the elevator car; such door to be required also in all cases where more than one door opening is provided for one car. Freight elevators should have automatic closing-gates at the street entrance.

SKYLIGHTS TO FIRE-PROOF ROOFS.—The amount of skylights required for roofs of fire-proof buildings ought to be reduced to 1-100th of the superficial area of the roof, or the area of the bulkheads to be included in the amount of skylights required.

IRON SHUTTERS.—The law in regard to iron shutters ought to be modified for office buildings, and such shutters only be required where the windows, measured vertical to the walls, are less than 16 feet distant from walls of adjoining buildings with window openings.

BAY WINDOWS OR ORIELS FOR DWELLINGS.—For dwellings an allowance ought to be granted for bay windows; such bay windows only to commence above the first story, and not to project in any case more than one-third of the distance of the area line from the building line; and, furthermore, not to cover more than one-ninth of the area space. No vertical part of such bay window to project beyond a line drawn at an angle of 30 degrees from each party line. A very embarrassing barrier would thus be removed from the free development of architectural genius. The execution of such law ought to be with the Department of Buildings, and not with the Department of Public Works or the Park Commission.

John Beverley Robinson, ex-President of the Architectural League, was seen:

"What are your views with regard to the proposed amendments to the building laws?" he was asked.

"I am so well convinced of the ultimate futility of all restrictive laws," replied Mr. Robinson, "that I can regard the most perfect building law as a mere temporizing expedient. Still, if law there must be, it would seem that it should be clear enough and simple enough to be executed."

"Do you mean that such is not the case with the present law?"

"Undoubtedly I do. Any law that goes into minute detail it is impossible to execute. Take, for instance, the proportions of cement, lime and sand that are laid down by the law for mortar and for concrete. Nobody can tell, without standing by every minute, whether these proportions are observed or not. In many cases, too, the proportions prescribed are not suitable."

"You think, then, that the law should be reduced to a minimum?"

"The tendency of all laws is to perpetuate the present state of affairs, to crush out invention and improvement; finally, to produce more and more restrictions and to cause retrogression rather than progress. Anybody who is persuaded that our present methods of building are the best possible, may well advocate laws. Anybody else might better hesitate about imposing the ideas of the present upon the civilization of the future. The only true guide for the happiness of men is that each should freely do what he conceives to be for his best interest."

"Can the self-interest of owners be trusted to induce them to build good tenement houses?"

"Deny it, and you deny the whole theory of private property. If others can invade the absolute dominion which constitutes property enough to compel owners to build as non-owners demand, the day is not far off when either all property will be vested in the State; or property, in a strict sense, will be abolished and ownership alone recognized."

Francis Crawford, the builder, said: "It would be difficult to enumerate the possible amendments to the building law in a short talk. One of the things that suggests itself to me is that the superintendent should have discretionary power to regulate the thickness of the walls in buildings—in fact, that he should have such a power in reference to the law in general. I do not think such discretionary power would be dangerous, for no superintendent would take chances on a badly or faultily-constructed building."

Albert F. D'Oench, ex-chief of the Building Department, said: "I am not prepared to state off-hand even one title of the changes that might suggest themselves on a full and deep consideration of the law. There could be improvements in every section of it. Some of those that might be pointed out are: 1. There should not be any definite rule laid down as to the size of foundations under walls and piers. They should be proportionate in relation to the weight to be placed on them. 2. The law says isolated piers must have bondstones, which they really do not require. 3. Under every column, post, lintel or other support there must be a stone and granite foundation 12 inches in thickness. This should be changed and the foundation made proportionate to the weight to be carried. Twelve inches may be too thick, in which case there is a waste of expenditure; it may not be thick enough, in which case it is dangerous. 4. A rigid rule is laid down as to the mixing up of concrete, regardless of Portland or Rosendale. If you state the proportions you should state what it shall be with particular cements, what proportion must be mixed with broken stone and sand. 5. The bearings of lintels and girders should be in proportion to the weight to be carried. 6. Elevator doors ought to be solidly fire-proof. Now they can be made of iron full of holes, without contravening the law. 7. All floors must now be made so as to be able to carry a minimum weight of 75 pounds per square foot of superficial area. This is sometimes unnecessary. Private houses rarely require floors to stand a greater pressure than from 40 to 45 pounds per square foot, whereas some buildings might have to stand 100, 200 or 300 pounds. I have known a case—it was a warehouse—where the weight was about 500 pounds to the square foot. Where immense stocks of heavy goods are carried floors often require greater strength than the law provides for."

Ralph S. Townsend, the architect, said: "The formulae now used by the Building Department, under the law for figuring the carrying capacity of iron beams, columns, girders, etc., errs on the side of superfluous safety. It requires the use of ironwork heavier than the strain to which it will be subject demands. Firms like Cooper, Hewitt & Co. supply us with a formula, after having made practical tests, and the law requires that the supports shall be on an average about one-third stronger than that laid down in formula issued by the ironworks, and thus one-third stronger than they require to be. This means increased cost to the owners, and it can readily be seen that where there is $10,000 worth of ironwork in a building, more or less, how thousands of dollars can be unnecessarily spent. A special formula should be prepared by the department, for the guidance of architects, and this would frequently save them from the annoyance and delay caused by their plans being returned unapproved."

Horgan & Slattey, the builders, said: "(1) When a new building is being erected and the foundation walls of the adjoining premises are not down 10 feet below the curb it is an injustice to the adjoining owner to compel him to carry down the walls of his, perhaps, 'old shanty' simply because you intend to erect a new building. The person erecting the new building gets the benefit of the improvement and ought to pay for building the adjoining walls to his own depth and not his neighbor's. (2) The law says that if you intend to have foundation walls to go more than 10 feet below the curb you must carry down the walls of the adjoining building if the owner gives permission to enter on the adjoining land, and not otherwise. The law ought to be amended to compel the owner and tenant also to allow you to enter the premises without delay. The tenant or owner may wish to blackmail you and compel you to pay a large sum of money to enter, and, of course, being in a hurry and under contract to finish your building in a certain time you might be compelled to pay it, because if the tenant refuses, as has happened to us, to allow you to enter, if you do enter you are liable to a suit for trespass. (3) Instead of the present absurd custom of furring and lathing the outside wall, making a two-inch space between the brick wall and plaster, leaving a space for fire to climb from floor to floor, as has been proved in several cases, the walls ought to be built on the inside four inches with hollow furring brick, Haverstraw size, and binded in with the regular brick wall. (4) The law ought to compel builders to put a small hand-hole in the iron outside shutters on buildings, so that in case of fire the fireman can stick up a ladder, put in his hand and open the shutter instead of vainly pounding the tough iron as he does to-day, while valuable material is burning and the fire gaining headway, so that the shutters, while they may keep the fire out may also keep it in."

MEETING OF THE COMMITTEE.

The Committee on the Revision of the Building Law continued their meetings this week, having sat on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Superintendent of Buildings J. J. Brady, N. Le Brun, W. J. Fryer, Jr., John Banta, Edwin Dodds, Cornelius O'Reilly and John R. Shields have attended nearly all the sittings. Amendments were offered to the Building Law, of which the following paragraphs are the most important. They are amendments suggested to Section 476, and will very probably be passed at the forthcoming session of the Legislature:

Walls built for or intended to be used as party walls, whose thickness at the time of their erection was in accordance with the requirements of then existing laws, but which are not strictly in accordance with the thickness required under this title, may be used, if in good condition, for the ordinary uses of party walls, provided the height of same be not increased.

In case existing party or independent walls, if in good condition, be increased in height, but which walls are less in thickness than required under this title, the same shall be increased in thickness by a lining of brick work to form a combined thickness with the old wall of not less than 4 inches more than the thickness required for a new wall corresponding with the total height of the wall when so increased in height; the said linings to be supported on proper foundations and carried up to such height as the Superintendent of Buildings may require, no lining to be less than 4 inches in thickness, and all laid up in cement mortar and thoroughly anchored to the old brick walls with suitable wrought iron anchors, placed 2 feet apart and driven into the old walls in rows alternating vertically and horizontally with each other, the old walls being first cleaned of plaster or other coatings where any lining is to be built against the same.

When an independent wall is built immediately adjoining another independent wall, whose latter thickness would be of the lawful requirement under this title for a party wall, then in that case the new wall so adjoining may be reduced in thickness 8 inches where the various thicknesses are otherwise required to be more than 24 inches, and 4 inches where more than 16 inches thick, provided that no part of said wall shall be reduced to less than 16 inches thick, and also provided that the new wall shall not exceed the height of the adjoining wall by more than 5 feet.

Brick walls, when reinforced by vertical iron columns of proper strength built within or partially within or alongside of same, and having horizontal iron girders in connection with said columns to receive the ends of floor beams, thus supporting the floors and loads that may be placed thereon independently of the brick work, may be reduced in thickness proportionately to the weight relieved therefrom; provided that the greatest decrease in the thickness of such walls shall not exceed 12 inches where the greatest thickness occurs, and in no case shall the least thickness be less than 1 inch at the place where the least thickness occurs, the intermediate reductions from the lowest to the highest point of the wall to be regulated as near as can be by the variations in thickness for walls of given heights as in this section specified. Such columns, if constructed of wrought iron must be encased on any of their exposed sides with proper fire-proof materials; and if constructed of cast iron must be made double, as described in section 485 of this title, in which latter case additional fire-proof casing will not be required. If between the columns, and supported by the same iron girders are provided to carry the walls or floor beams, or both combined, the thickness of such walls so supported by girders shall be determined in accordance with the requirements of Section 477 of this title, by measuring the heights of the brick walls from the tops of the respective tiers of girders; and such girders shall be encased on their side or exposed parts with proper fire-proof materials, so as to be entirely protected from fire.

The last section was to have been advocated at the committee's sitting ye terday afternoon by J. M. Cornell and A. J. Campbell, the president and secretary, respectively, of the Society of Architectural Iron Manufacturers, but they were unable to be present, the latter forwarding a telegram, in which he said: "I am strongly in favor of your amendment relative to walls reinforced with iron. That construction will come in the near future for this city; it is inevitable, it is wise."

On Wednesday Architect F. H. Kimball advocated amendments to the theatre section (500). This section is based upon the Vienna law, and was introduced by ex-Supt Esterbrook, and remodeled to suit American necessities by Mr. Kimball. It has since been adopted in Paris, and St. Paul, Boston, and other cities in the Union have modeled their building law after it. One of Mr. Kimball's suggestions, from a business point of view, is to remove the restrictions so that part of a theatre lot, whether inside or corner, could be utilized for business purposes, so as to produce an income to the proprietor, provided it did not interfere with the means of egress.

The following amendment to section 477 was offered, in the paragraph entitled, "Point to compute the height of walls," as follows:

§ 477. At the end of the fourth paragraph add: "in the case of flat roofs, and for high-pitch roofs the average of the height of the gable shall be taken as the highest point of that wall."

A. J. Post, civil engineer, of Post & McCord, Architects D'Oench, L. De C. Berg, J. B. McElfatrick and others are expected to appear before the committee next week.

The Annual Report.

The Real Estate Exchange has formally declared a dividend of 4 per cent. on the capital stock, and has also transferred $3,000 to the sinking fund to reduce the mortgage debt of $80,000. The following is a full text of the report, with the balance sheet:

The past year has been one of great activity in this market. Real estate amounting to $48,943,113, and stocks and bonds amounting to $17,043,131 have been sold at auction on our floor. The Exchange has continued to exhibit steady progress in every department. The receipts from rents of offices have amounted to $30,859.71. The receipts of the auction room amount to $21,962.83, including the proceeds of the row of signs, recently rented, which, with the premiums, amounted to $2,438.33. The net income of the Exchange has been increased more than $5,000 over that of last year, besides enlarging the room of the Bureau of Information for the use of the brokers and auctioneers, which was found to be necessary, the improvement of the auction room by exterior awnings, curtains, etc., and other necessary improvements.

From the 1st of April last, the directors reduced the annual fees from $60 to $30, which has already increased the roll of annual members from forty-four to eighty. Your directors feel that the usefulness of the Exchange has been greatly enlarged by this new departure, and its influence more widely extended. As the increase of the membership still continues, it has been found necessary to extend the Bureau of Information.

Your directors have also arranged that the Exchange, after the sales, is retained for the exclusive use of the members, subject to the rights of the Building Material Exchange, which has renewed its lease of the floor, between the hours of 2 and 4 P. M. Since the last report the basement has been entirely rented, producing a total rental of $1,300 per annum. The numerous applications for office room which have been made, and with which the Exchange has been unable to comply, have induced the directors to consider whether it is possible to increase our present office room without inconvenience to the Exchange or its tenants. It has been proposed to add at least another floor of offices by slightly raising the present roof, but without changing the front elevation of the building. This would give an additional 4,500 square feet of rentable space, which may be roughly estimated to produce a further income of about $4,000 per annum.

The result of the year's business shows a net profit of $23,000.55, equal to over 4½ per cent. upon our capital, out of which a dividend at the rate of 4 per cent. has been declared and $3,000 carried to the credit of the sinking fund towards the redemption of the mortgage.

During the past year the comfort and convenience of the auction room has been increased by placing an external awning over the skylight, thereby decreasing the heat in warm weather, and by the addition of two more curtains, whereby the room can be further divided and the echoes resulting from the use of the room by a number of auctioneers at the same time considerably reduced.

Considerable economy has also been effected by the adoption of the Barnard system, whereby the exhaust steam, after it has passed through the pumps, is used for heating the building. The result of this will be apparent in the next balance sheet.

Your board have also provided against claims for accidents, should any occur through the use of the elevators, by a policy of insurance from the Fidelity and Casualty Company.

The work of the Legislative Committee during the past year, though arduous, has been zealously performed, and various bills of a mischievous character have been successfully opposed. The Exchange particularly directed its opposition against the Larmon Bill, being No. 238 in the Assembly, which proposed to tax business property, personal property and especially the capital invested in various business industries in this State. The bill was considered by the Sub-committee on Taxation and Assessment and a careful report prepared, which was sent to each member of the Senate and Assembly. The Exchange was happily successful in its opposition, and the proposed bill did not become law.

Only two cases have been before the Complaint and Arbitration Committees, and in each case the decision of the committee has been accepted by all the parties.

The number of deaths among our members since the last report has been unusually large. In the case of all active members who have passed away from our ranks the Exchange has taken appropriate action.

Three deceased members were associated with the board: Leopold Friedman, David G. Croly and Leonard J. Carpenter. Each of these, during the term of his directorship, labored earnestly for the interests of the Exchange, and it must not be forgotten that a part of the present success of the Exchange is due to the labors of those who are no longer with us.

During the past year a portrait of our first president—Mr. E. H. Audlow—by Constant Mayer, has been presented to the Exchange, having been subscribed for among the members. The Auction Room Committee have also provided a portfolio in which the portraits of deceased members are preserved. Among these will be found the portraits of Col. Charles A. Coster, Thomas P. Poe, John H. Sherwood, John L. Carrigan, J. B. Cornell, Moritz Bullowa, William Van Tassel and others.

Feeling that the disaster in the Conemaugh Valley demanded some action on the part of the Exchange, your directors caused a circular to be addressed to each of the members soliciting subscriptions in aid of the sufferers, and the sum of $2,186, received in response thereto, was duly remitted to the Mayor for transmission to the proper authorities.

The Exchange has also taken an active interest in the World's Fair, and appointed a committee of ten of its members to obtain subscriptions to the guarantee fund, and they are now engaged in the work.

At the last meeting of the stockholders, a suggestion was made that the mortgage might be replaced by bonds, at a low rate of interest. A committee was appointed for this purpose, and a circular sent to all the stockholders, but, owing to the rise in the rate of money, and other causes, the committee have, so far, been unable to carry out the proposed arrangement.

In concluding this report, your directors desire to point out that the increased activity in Real Estate is due, in no slight degree, to the greater hold which this Exchange has gained in public confidence, and the protection afforded to investors by its methods of discipline, and, while the number of cases that have come before the Complaint and Arbitration Committees has been but few, it must not be forgotten that the existence of these committees and their liability to be called into action at any moment is a perpetual warning to those who might otherwise be tempted to do wrong; and although, since the Exchange was opened, over four hundred millions have passed from buyer to seller, either on the floor or through the agency of our members, so far, not one single instance of misconduct has been proved against any member of the Exchange.

A comparison between the annual reports of 1888 and 1889 shows that last year real estate was sold at auction to the amount of $43,474,795, and stocks, bonds and securities to the extent of $17,158,683, showing an increased business in the former item this year of $5,468,318, and in the latter item of $2,115,552.

The income from the Exchange salesroom was $21,962, against $14,748. This is largely due to the increased knockdown fees and partly due to the extra row of auctioneers' signs and the premiums obtained for them. The rents received from the offices in the Exchange show a nominal increase—$69—while the receipts from membership subscriptions was less by about $404. The dividends paid this year will amount to $30,000, against $17,500 last year. The expenses of running the building are nearly $600 greater, while the salary account and general office expenses increased from $7,493 to $8,359. The net income of the Exchange was $23,000, as against $17,958 last year, while the sinking fund has been increased by $3,000, as against $450 last year. There is now over $5,500 to the credit of this fund, which practically reduces the mortgage indebtedness on the building to less than $74,500. The income from all sources was $55,148, and the building has cost, with records, furniture, etc., $585,214, including $2,769 for expenses of organization. The property is said to be valued at upwards of $700,000.

The annual meeting of the stockholders will take place on Monday, December 9th, at 1 P. M.

The Collapse of the Levy Houses.

The principal topic of conversation on the west side yesterday was the collapsing on Thursday night of the seven four-story dwellings building by Bernard S. Levy at Nos. 170 to 182 80th street, on the south side, 100 feet east of 10th avenue. Six of these houses, Nos. 172 to 182, were 20x52.2 feet in size, and the remaining house, No. 170, being built for Mr. Levy's personal use, was 25x93 feet. The fronts were to be of limestone and Lake Superior stone, and the estimated cost was $305,000. Only about $20,000 had been actually expended when the accident occurred. The contractors were McDowell & Heney. The building materials were supplied by Peck, Martin & Co., the sand by Jas. McLoughlin and the lumber by Abraham Steers.

When the crash came the side walls had been built up just above the third story, but the front and rear walls were not nearly so far advanced,

Work on the excavations was commenced on June 20th last, and the actual building of the walls was started shortly after August 20th, the date when the application to the Building Department was signed by the superintendent.

The weather seems to have been the cause of the accident. The last rain-storm came on so suddenly and fiercely that the masons neglected to lay planks on top of the walls at which they were at work. In this way the water found a course among the bricks and loosened the mortar. Another thing that is said to have led to the disaster was the swelling of the beams and flooring. It seems that the beams had all been planked over, and when the rain came the water soaked into and swelled the unprotected flooring. The timber swelled so much that it had the effect of forcing over the rain-soaked walls. This theory, however, was discredited at the Building Department, where the deputy-superintendent said that if the flooring had swelled enough to force the walls it was not likely that the planks would have remained nailed to the beams, as is the case. West side builders say that the ground on which Mr. Levy built is particularly unreliable; so much so, that Richard Deeves, who built the flats on 10th avenue, adjoining the wrecked dwellings, was forced to make a pile foundation. It is thought by most of the practical builders who spoke on the subject that the ground is the chief cause of the disaster, as the rain had softened the earth, and the heavy walls being rain-soaked, were not strong enough to settle without cracking. It is also stated that the sewer in front of the houses was broken, and the water from this leaked out and undermined the foundation walls.

Deputy-Superintendent Vreeland said: "Mr. Brady, in talking with me this morning, said that the materials used in the construction of Mr. Levy's houses were the best he had ever seen. We do not attribute the disaster to an insecure foundation, and in the present state of the case we prefer not to say anything about what is the cause of the wreck, as that would only mislead. Mr. Brady is engaged in a thorough investigation, and he will probably make his report public on Saturday. We do not attach any blame to Inspector Clague, in whose district the accident occurred."

Mr. Levy is well known as a west side builder, having built many dwelling houses during a career that has extended over twenty-three years. If there was any neglect on the builder's part it can hardly be said to have been intentional, because the owner was to inhabit one of the dwellings. Mr. Levy has issued a circular letter, in which he invites a committee of expert builders to examine the materials used and the construction of the wrecked houses, and to furnish a statement of the facts in regard to the case, so that his reputation as a builder may not be affected by what he claims is an accident.

Doubling Its Capital.

It is evident that title insurance has come to stay. Real estate owners have watched with great interest the rapid growth of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, which introduced and has successfully established the system in this city.

Its business has grown to large dimensions, and a meeting of the stockholders of the company was held at its offices on Thursday to vote upon the question of doubling its capital stock. More than 8,600 of the 10,000 shares were represented, many of them in the shape of proxies in the hands of a committee, consisting of George G. Williams, O. B. Potter and others.

It was unanimously resolved to increase the capital to $2,000,000. The new stock is to be issued to the old stockholders pro rata, and it was voted that it be put out to them at $120 per share, or at a premium of 20 per cent. and that the amount, $1,200,000, be all paid in in cash before February 1, 1890.

This will put the company in the front rank of the powerful and useful institutions of the city, and will equip it to give unequalled security to real estate owners and lenders.

When it is remembered that the holders of its $2,000,000 of stock are liable in case of necessity for $2,000,000 more, and that the company therefore provides in reality an indemnity fund exceeding $4,000,000, it is hardly possible that the old system of attorneys' opinions on titles can contend against a system that provides the same opinion of counsel and then fortifies it by an absolute guarantee as substantial as this.

Notes and Items.

The Nomination Committee of the Real Estate Exchange at its meeting yesterday appointed the following as a directors' ticket, to be voted upon on the 9th of December next: H. H. Cammann, M. S. Isaacs, C. A. Schermerhorn, Geo. R. Read, David F. Porter, Arthur D. Weekes, C. W. Luyster, J. Romaine Brown, Wm. Cruikshank, Morris B. Baer, Philip A. Smyth, C. L. Clarkson and John T. Farley.

The contract for regulating and paving with asphalt pavement, on concrete foundation, Madison avenue, from south side 32d to south side 33d street; from north side 36th to south side 41st street; from north side 42d to north side 58th street, and 58th street, from west side Madison avenue to east side 5th avenue, has been awarded to the Sicilian Asphalt Paving Co. The estimated cost is $126,100. Howard Carroll and George C. Clausen are sureties for the Sicilian Co.

In the matter of the area of High Bridge Park, the public hearing was declared closed last Friday by the Board of Street Opening and Improvement. Several briefs and communications on the subject were presented, all of which were referred to the Committee of the Board appointed at the meeting of October 4th last, consisting of the Comptroller and the Commissioner of Public Works.

The huge building which is to adorn the site of the recently-demolished Madison Square Garden is commencing to show itself. The walls of the first story are now up and the front is evidently going to be a cheerful one to look at, being of buff brick.

Out of the 1,775 lots in the area bounded by 110th and 123d streets, Riverside and Morningside Drives, which have been selected as the site for the World's Fair, the owners of 1,229, nearly 70 per cent. of the whole, have offered their use to the committee, including the Bloomingdale Asylum authorities. Out of 428 lots between 5th and 9th avenues, 110th and 112th streets, 400 have been offered, over 93 per cent.

The cost of the College place improvement is estimated at $2,000,000, of which one-third will be assessed on the city and the balance on the property-owners benefited. The plan, as outlined in a recent issue of this paper, has been approved and the work of acquiring title to the properties necessary for the improvement will be prosecuted with every dispatch. When completed the widening and extension is expected to relieve the crowded condition of the streets west of Broadway, as well as the jam at Chambers street and College place.

Further subscriptions to the World's Fair announced at the Real Estate Exchange until yesterday afternoon were: James D. Lynch, $1,000. Per Hall J. How & Co.—Simon Haberman, $1,000; Radebold & Wenz, $1,000; Hugh Brady, $1,000; John S. Scott, $1,000; Wm. Dempsey, $1,000; Jacob Bookman, $1,000; Hall J. How & Co, $1,000. Per J. J. Clancy—Lambert Suydam, $500. Per Secretary Luyster—J. P. Ryan, $250. Per Exchange—J. Belden, $2,000; Hirsh Bros., $500; A. Lustig, $1,000; N. Cowen, $500.

The lowest bid sent into the Public Works Department for paving the Boulevard is $188,810, said Commissioner Gilroy yesterday. It is said that the Barber Asphalt Company had secured the contract, but the commissioner said it had not yet been awarded.

In the City Departments.

The Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the matter of acquiring title to that part of College avenue extending from Morris avenue East to 146th street, and that part of East 14th street extending from Railroad avenue East to 3d avenue, give notice that they have completed their report, and that an abstract of said report has been deposited with the Commissioner of Public Works, there to remain until December 27th. No objections will be heard by the commissioners during the ten week days subsequent to that date.

The cost of regulating, grading and paving with gravel pavement, with Telford and macadamized foundation and trap-block gutters, the avenue bounding Morningside Park on the westerly side, from northerly curb-line of 110th street to easterly curb-line of 10th avenue, setting curb-stones laying crosswalks, flagging the westerly sidewalk and alteration of receiving-basins is $28,515. Contractor, George T. Doak.

The Commissioners of the Department of Public Parks give notice that on Wednesday, December 11th, at 11 A. M., they will hear and consider all statements and objections to the contemplated revision in the street system of the Spuyten Duyvil district lying between Spuyten Duyvil Parkway, Riverdale avenue, the street on the northern line of the W. C. Wetmore estate, Waldo street and the southern line of the J. R. Whiting estate, and also to the proposed closing of Edgewater road and the revision of the street system between the Southern Boulevard, the Bronx River, Kingsbridge road, Westchester avenue and Home street, and in the 23d and 24th Wards.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has applied to the Board of Street Opening and Improvement for permission to construct and maintain, at its own expense, a light bridge for the use of passengers across West street, from the Cortlandt street ferry house to the building now owned by the company on the southeast corner of Cortlandt and West streets. The bridge is not to have any columns except at the slip and the building named, so that there will be no obstacle placed in the roadway. The bridge is to be high enough to satisfy the board that it will not impede trucks or other vehicles. It is to be covered by a light roof or shed, and is to be open at the sides. The intention is to discharge passengers from the boats on a level with the bridge, thus avoiding the confusion and discomfort from streams of passengers going and coming and jostling against each other. The application has been referred to the Commissioner of Public Works, after consultation with the Corporation Counsel. It seems a very reasonable one, and if granted would certainly be of great convenience to the public, as it would avoid the crossing of West street, which is a notorious nuisance at present.

Real Estate Department.

The past week has been a moderately active one, both at the Exchange and among the brokers. The sales consummated at auction were very numerous and the results generally satisfactory, especially on Tuesday, when sales of lots belonging to the Knight, Van Beuren and Snowden other properties were sold. The sales of titles will not change hands. As to the private sales our reports show that at least a fair business is being done. The transactions completed embrace parcels of both improved and unimproved property, but the number of dwellings being sold is not what it ought to be.

There was next to nothing completed in the way of sales on Monday at the Exchange. Only two sales were announced, both quite unimportant, and of these one was postponed.

The sales bulletined for Tuesday were numerous and very important, comprising the offering of lots belonging to the Knight, Van Beuren and Snowden estates. Despite the very inclement weather a very large crowd of buyers was on hand at noon, and all the sales were carried out with very satisfactory results. It seemed as if many persons in attendance were attracted not only by the desirable lots catalogued for sale, but also by the feeling that the attendance would be slim and bargains plenty; the general run of prices, however, was so good that many bargain hunters went home disappointed. Considering the sales in the order in which the largest totals were realized the Emanuel Knight estate comes first. There were twenty-four lots in all, and they brought $193,825. A front on Lenox avenue, between 133d and 134th streets, went for $88,850, which is considered a good price. Morris Steinhardt bought the corner lots at $15,450 and $15,200, and Oppenheimer & Metzger secured four of the six inside lots at $5,600 each. A full lot on the southwest corner of 10th avenue and 122d street, facing Morningside Park, brought only $10,000, and about 66 feet frontage adjoining on the avenue was sold for a total of $18,650, while from $5,200 to $4,700 each was realized for four lots adjoining on 122d street. For the irregular front on St. Nicholas avenue there was some lively bidding and quite a little excitement, and before it was determined who was the buyer of a portion of the front Auctioneer Phillips astonished and amused the audience by calling on them to vote "aye" or "no" as to whether Judge Duffy should be declared the purchaser, and it was decided the Judge had it, although the calling "no" made up in volume what was lacking in numbers. It is said that Judge Duffy owns the lots adjoining on the street. Judge P. H. Dugro was also a buyer of part of the same front, paying $13,500 and $7,200 respectively for the southeast corner of 113th street and an adjoining lot. Among the prominent operators who watched the sale and bid from time to time for the lots were noticed: Edward Oppenheimer, Newman Cowen, Jacob Korn, Jos. McGuire, ex-Mayor Smith Ely, Jr., Morris Steinhardt, W. C. Lester, John R. Foley, Frank A. Ehret, Jas. J. Coogan, L. S. Quackenbush, Henry Waters, Judge P. H. Duffy, M. S. Isaacs, Heilner & Wolf and Morris S. Herrman. The sale of sixteen lots belonging to the Van Beuren estate by Peter F. Meyer was also very well attended, and a total of $151,450 was realized by the offering. Among the operators and speculators in attendance were: Jacob Bookman, Max Danziger, Saml. Untermeyer, Jacob Steinhardt, L. Toplitz, John Livingston, John H. Gray, F. J. Schnugg, Isaac Metzger, Edward Rafter, D. S. McElroy, W. F. Croft, Ottinger Bros. and Alex. D. Duff. An extra-sized lot on the northwest corner of 91st street and Madison avenue, 36.8x100.8, was offered first and started at $20,000. After brisk bidding the sum of $31,250 was offered by John Livingston, the builder, and the lot was sold to him at that figure. When the southeast corner of 5th avenue and 94th street was put up Max Danziger startled the auctioneer by making a bid of $5,000, which he subsequently withdrew, after being admonished never to do it again. A moment later another bid of $20,000 was announced and the lot was finally sold to Builder John H. Gray at $26,700, and an adjoining lot at $18,250. Builder F. J. Schnugg pressed Mr. Gray closely for the corner lot, his bid being $26,600. For three lots on 94th street, adjoining the 5th avenue, $12,250 was realized, and John G. Davis, the buyer, is said to represent Messrs. Varnum & Harrison. A complete report of all the lots sold with the names of the buyers will be found on another page. There was great astonishment expressed at the exceedingly large prices obtained for the twenty-three lots along 10th avenue, 182d and 184th streets, belonging to the Snowden estate and offered by James L. Wells. A total of $73,025 was obtained by the sale, and, although neither street is opened, from $2,500 to $3,650 was secured for lots on 182d street and from $2,200 to $2,800 for lots on 184th street, which are less than 75 feet deep. For the corner of 10th avenue and 182d street $9,100 was obtained and for two adjoining lots $6,050 and $5,300 respectively. These lots are in demand because they are very close to the approach of the New Washington Bridge across the Harlem. The fact that Audubon avenue is projected at a distance of 370 feet w

o tained for lots at tha

est of 10th avenue accounts for the extra prices
t distance.

No. 309 on the east side, 30.10 feet north of 1st street, with lot, 20.3x75.5x 19.1x—. The buyer, Wm. T. Murphy, is a party to the partition suit. The figure realized—i. e. $34,600—is $17,550 more than the same piece was sold for at auction thirty-three years ago. A total of $65,600 was realized for the five pieces sold belonging to the Regan estate. The 3d avenue parcels sold were as follows: No. 1002, near 60th street, three and two-story buildings, 20.1x95; buyer, Isaac S. Isaacs, plaintiff, $36,000; No. 1894, near 105th street, three and two-story buildings, 25x100, S. Dessar, $17,625; No. 2175, near 118th street, five-story brick flat, 25x100, Wm. Hays, $38,300. A foreclosure sale of a plot of eight lots on the northwest corner of 10th avenue and 59th street was largely attended and the bidding therefor quite active. Amos P. Ego, Asher T. Mayer, Morris Steinhardt & C.

$20,000 to excavate them as the rock thereon is very high. The same plot was sold at the Stevenson estate sale in February, 1886, for $76,300. Two Nicholas avenue lots of extra depth were sold at what brokers who ought to know say are low figures.

The sales bulletined for Thursday embraced many costly parcels of both improved and unimproved property, and there was a large attendance on 'Change when the auctioneers began the sales. There was but little spirit in the bidding, however, and few of the properties put up were actually sold. A front on 8th avenue, between 113th and 114th streets, east side, was among the parcels offered, and after much effort on the part of the auctioneer, a bid of $44,600 was obtained for the lower half, which went to a party in interest. The other half of the block was withdrawn. A plot of four lots on the northeast corner of West and Horatio streets, together in size 81.9x75x81.8x69.2, was started at $60,000 and knocked down at $84,600. For five lots adjoining on Horatio street there were no bids, and they were withdrawn. The factory building on the northeast corner of 2d avenue and 21st street, with plot 112.10x100 (leasehold), was sold twice, the first time at $25,000, and on the resale at $20,000. The buyer at the first sale failed to comply with the terms of sale. Four tenements on the southwest corner of 2d avenue and 93th street, on which City Chamberlain Croker held mortgages, were foreclosed and brought about the amount of the first mortgages.

The most important offerings of the day were the "St. Charles" on the northwest corner of 9th avenue and 72d street, and the "Shelbourne" Hotel on the southeast corner of 3d avenue and 34th street; size, 44.3x80. The former was not offered, having been previously disposed of at private sale to the Hudson River Bank, who now occupy the corner store. The first bid offered for the 3d avenue corner was $100,000, and advances were made until $130,000 was reached and the property sold to Broker Walter C. Woolley. The annual rental until October, 1890, is $10,800 and taxes, and thereafter the rental will be $12,000. We hear that Mr. Woolley purchased the property for P. Ballentine & Sons, the brewers.

Only three sales were bulletined for yesterday, and all were held pursuant to foreclosure orders. BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

[For Prices see pages v., vii., viii. and ix.]

BRICKS.—Common Hards still show an inclination to drag a little and as a natural sequence values are lacking support, a great many cargoes changing hands since our last at what receivers admit to an allowance of 12½¢ per M. from previous rates. Possibly the shading is also rather more decided in the upper qualities as the average run of condition is very good, and buyers having a better opportunity to select can give top grades the cold shoulder unless cost is made attractive. There seems to be nothing new that will command more than $7 per M., while from that the figure runs down to $6.50 for the best stock, with poorer sorts touching $6 and some of the Jerseys said to sell at $5.75 for Keyports, though the best South Rivers range close up to the Hudson River makes. The influences governing the market seem to be much the same as previously noted, some pretty bad weather acting as a factor to cut off a great deal of consumption, and the supply offering from first hands proving at all times plenty enough and frequently a little more than could be conveniently handled, and especially toward the close when the storm simply led customers into an almost point blank refusal to bid. Dealers still act a little offish about collecting a winter supply, but we understand have in some instances really made a fair accumulation. From along the river there is not much news. Moulding is of course suspended, but there are some kilns yet to burn, and as shown already in this report manufacturers are evidently inclined to continue shipments so long as the barges can be kept running under existing insurance policies. As yet there have been no tenders of stock from Long Island. The sale of Pales seems to be perfected without any detriment to price, and the former general range is continued, though $3.75 per M. is about the average top figure.

LATH.—It has remained a healthy, strong market throughout the week, and while the enthusiastic receivers who have been marking a higher peg for values do not yet succeed in establishing the figures predicted they have the satisfaction of finding no set-back whatever and securing a prompt outlet for about all they have to offer. Even some three or four loads of Northern stock have been brought forward and placed without difficulty and $2.25 per M. obtained and the best Eastern commanded $2.30 per M., including cargoes sold to arrive. Offerings were only fair, the amount reported afloat continues moderate, and local and nearby dealers are pretty well represented in the current demand.

LIME.—Another pretty large fleet has come to hand from the eastward, but as anticipated by receivers there was a market for it all, and business moved along without friction or inconvenience. Some dealers are commencing to accumulate a fair stock, but want more, and others who are backward can find room for a considerable quantity, so that the chances for disposal of future receipts appear good. A little St. John stock coming in went off readily and for the State product there is an average proportionate demand.

LUMBER.—There has been considerable said during the past two or three weeks about the increase of demand and the anxiety of buyers to perfect contracts on this or that grade of stock, as the case might be, and to a certain extent it was true enough. Yet it is nothing new, and really the only yearly experience at the approach of date when navigation closes, buyers who through various causes have delayed investments naturally indulging in a little hurry that looks like excitement, while some make apparently bold bids, yet so weighted by restrictions as to delivery, etc., as to make it practically impossible to meet them. If anything the final demand this year does not show up as large as usual, as dealers have been buying along during the season on the basis of previous experience and present increased facilities for negotiation, and with the exception of a few grades the force of demand is about over. Reasonable good care has been taken in selecting, and accumulated supplies show probably as good an assortment as the offerings have admitted, though there are many deficiencies that could be filled out to advantage. It is officially announced that the State canals will close for the season at midnight on November 30th, and all merchandise is being pushed forward accordingly.

Eastern spruce continues to be looked upon with a great deal of respect by the majority of receivers, and some seem to think it rank heresy to suggest even the possibility of any marked weakness, no matter what the grade. Strength and confidence certainly seem to be justified on all larger sizes of stock through all investigations made, not alone upon a basis of almost nothing of the kind to be found in many of the yards whose requirements need such stock, but also upon the passage of the time when orders can be placed. An ordinary run of random would, of course, as usual, be open to more vicissitudes, but unless reports are made upon a very careless canvass of the amounts in hand there is a considerable quantity of vacant storage room that could advantageously be filled by even the poorer class of stock. The favorable winds during the week have brought in quite a large number of cargoes and given the market another test, which it has met without flinching. A great many parcels were as usual under contract, but open offerings quickly secured custom at full rates, and indeed it is said that nothing worth handling can now be reached for less than about $15.50 to 16.00 per M.

Piling may be dull for a while and then show a considerable movement, as demand has a habit of running together for both large and small branches. We find, however, most leading holders and receivers retaining the former strong expression of views, and about the only departure from top rates is upon old cargoes coming to operators not in the regular line of trade.

Hemlock retains a pretty good market. There is some ambiguous hinting still to be heard about shaded rates, and now and then a bold assertion that they can be obtained by any one willing to look for them, but while possibly business could be cited that would show goods costing less than quotations for some time current, the comparison of sizes and assortments would at once neutralize the apparent advantage to buyers.

White Pine, in view of closing canals on 30th inst., is now held with a little more display of steadiness, not that there seems to be any expectation of a gain in value of a pronounced character, but rather that a peg has been inserted against a decline, and sellers feel that they can hold their position without much difficulty. There is already considerable effort making to secure deals for car lots with, however, indifferent success, as there are not so many dealers anxious for supplies as had been supposed, and even those who are likely to negotiate prefer making no engagements until they can have them date after the commencement of the year. Local consumption is probably a little fuller, and the export trade continues promising.

Yellow Pine appears somewhat irregular, but it is losing no ground in the estimation of the trade. It is not that kind of a wood. One trouble with the market is found in the suppression of information, and occasionally as transactions leak out they are very apt to uncover others and give appearance of fuller and more widespread animation than really exists at that particular moment. Pretty much an average trade takes place from week to week, and the continuation of such is looked upon as certain, while the strength of primary markets it is reasonable to expect will be reflected here.

Carolina Pine is having about the usual report made about it, and the seller evidently finds no fault with the condition of the market. Prices are said to be strong; the sale of stock is claimed to be rather in excess of than behind expectations and consumption going on in a manner to prepare the way for additional demand.

Hardwoods continue a fair movement into consumptive channels, and the assortment selected has been somewhat fuller than a year ago. It is met readily enough, however, from stocks on hand and there is considerable complaint over the indifference of dealers toward fresh offerings, though it might be suggested to Mount Morris avenue; the roadway of 96th street, between 9th and 10th avenues; the roadway of 96th street, between 8th and 9th avenues.

Bids will be received at the Department of Public Works until 12 o'clock on Wednesday, December 4th: For regulating and paving with granite-block pavement the roadway of 74th street, from the westerly side of 8th avenue to the easterly side of 9th avenue; for flagging full width and re-flagging, curbing and recurbings the sidewalks on 65th street, from Central Park, West, to 9th avenue; 88th street, from Madison to Park avenue; the west side of 5th avenue, from 117th to 118th street, and from 132d to 133d street, and on north side of 132d street, from 5th to Lenox avenue.

Sealed estimates for building a stable or addition to the present stable, on the easterly side of Washington avenue, north of the Thirty-third Precinct Station-house, will be received at the Central Office of the Department of Police until 10 o'clock A. M., Friday, the 6th day of December.

Special Notices.

One of the live real estate offices in the eastern down-town district is that of H. S. Lines. His father established the business more than thirty years ago, and the son has successfully continued it. He makes renting and collecting a specialty, and is a manager of estates.

The Dyckerhoff cement was used in the foundations of the Soldiers Memorial Arch in Brooklyn, as well as in the handsome artificial stone pavement in front of the New York City Hall.

H. H. Bliss, of No. 79 Cedar street, makes a specialty of negotiating exchanges of property and the frequency with which his names appears in the "Gossip" in connection with exchanges shows that he is very successful. Only last week we chronicled the sale by him for Builders Moore & McLaughlin, to Norman L. Munro, of the apartment houses on the northwest corner of Madison avenue and 82d street, at $237,500, taking in part exchange a passenger steamer at $50,000. Builders and others having properties to exchange would do well to see Mr. Bliss.

On another page Broker L. Tanenbaum advertises for an experienced man in his renting department. He is prepared to pay a liberal salary.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

Many of the white pine men are fully alive to the competition of yellow pine, but it is doubtful if one of them is shrewd enough to solve the problem as he would be pleased to have it solved. It was not many years ago that some of the white pine timber owners, seeing their supply diminishing, were inspired with the idea that financially their last days would be their best days. In their mind's eye they saw the price of stumpage going up, up, and it did not stop till the twenty-dollar mark was reached. But all the time yellow pine, flanked by poplar, was getting in its work. It was exceedingly aggressive, and gave battle to white pine in the territory of the latter. Now nobody pretends to say that its ravages will be stayed. Its reserve force is good for more years than any of us will see, and the high price of white pine stumpage, as seen in the future by the owners of such stumpage, has vanished. It is simply another example of the miscarrying of the plans of men.

At Chicago:

Port receipts for the week were heavy, considering the time of year, and offerings on the market were correspondingly numerous. The market has not been specially active. The dealers' appetite for green lumber is off, and they are neglecting that kind of stock, especially if it be coarse inch. Piece stuff is still in demand, though buyers do not appear inclined to bid for it for the sake of inducing greater receipts. It can scarcely be said that the market is as strong on piece stuff as a fortnight ago. At the present time $9.50 is an outside price for short lengths, more probably going for $9.37½ than any other. A small percentage of long lengths in a cargo raises the price a shilling, and makes it $9.50. The manufacturers and yard men are apart in their views about dimension. The first named had hoped to boost the price to $10 this month, so as to have the market close for the season at that figure; but it seems to stick at prices around $9.50, with no disposition on the part of buyers to go higher. The yard dealers are evidently determined to go into winter quarters short in piece stuff rather than to advance prices. They began the season on the low pressure basis, and are holding out that way to nearly the finish.

AT THE YARDS.—There is a particularly confident expression in respect to good lumber. The majority of yards are carrying less of selects and clear than last year, and the few that have a large supply are regarded as fortunate.

As to common and cull boards, though stocks are considered large, the winter and spring demand is likely to take care of them. It is probable, however, that considerable inch lumber will be received from Wisconsin during the winter. A North branch dealer remarks a tendency to a large movement of that kind. One yard has received 500,000 feet of Wisconsin lumber within recent weeks. It is likely that a considerable amount of piece stuff will arrive from that State before spring. The dealers should keep a weather eye on this competition with lake receipts, for it will have some influence on values.

The Timberman as follows:

Very conflicting reports come from the Ottawa, Canada, lumber district concerning the prospective output of logs the coming winter. One report a short time since announced through the telegraphic dispatches as emanating from a prominent banker, was to the effect that the business was to be so greatly overdone that prices were liable to be so seriously affected, and that the increase of square lumber would probably amount to 65 per cent., as compared with last year's output, and that there would be also a material increase in the stock of saw-logs, while another report has been waited over the wires to the effect that owing to the amount of logs held back in the streams by the low water the past summer, there would be a considerable curtailment of operations in the woods. "You pay your money and you take your choice." The probability is that the true explanation of the contradictory statements lies in the fact that great fears are entertained that there will be an overstock, and as was the case in Michigan a few years ago, each individual operator desired that all his neighbors should curtail operations but "put in his best ticks himself, while talking eloquently about the danger of overproduction affecting prices."

From nearly all the lumbering centers of Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota, come reports of active preparations for logging operations. Men, teams and supplies are being forwarded to the woods daily, and although the note of curtailment is sounded here and there, it does not ring out clear and true, and the inference is unavoidable that the cut of the season of '89-90 in these States, should climatic conditions favor, will average up fairly well with those of recent years. Every lumberman seems to believe in the desirability of a curtailment, but at the same time prefers leaving that line of action—or inaction rather—to his neighbor.

CANADA.

The Toronto Monetary Times says:

The cut of logs on the St. John River in New Brunswick this winter is expected to fall somewhat short of that of last year. Almost all the lumber operators have gone into the woods to commence their season's work. With a good freshet there will be no scarcity of logs, as all those now hung up will come down in addition to those newly made. A good authority tells the St. John Globe that the following quantities will be got out by the operators named, who have begun work about headwaters: James Burgess, on Little River, expects to cut 3,000,000 feet; Wm. Fowler, on Salmon River, 1,000,000 to 2,000,000; David Keswick, on Grand River, 2,000,000; William Tedlie, on Green River, 3,500,000; Robt. Connors, on Cabaneau River, 2,000,000 to 3,000,000; John Brown, 2,000,000; Thos. Michaud, 1,000,000; James Yerka, 2,000,000; Mallett & Co., 3,000,000, all on Fish River; Dan. Chisholm, on the St. Francis, 2,500,000; Neil McLeod, on Nigger Brook, 2,000,000; Wm. Sewall, on Big Brook, about 3,000,000; W. H. Cunliffe, on Long Lake, Allegash, 5,000,000 to 6,000,000; Stevens Bros., on Jemsemecock, 6,000,000. On the main river John Sinclair will cut a million and a half; John Morrison, Arthur Dechene and Gillman Bros. will get in all 7,000,000 feet; Cyrus Dickie, on the main river, will have 4,000,000; Kilburn & McIntosh, on same river, will cut between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 feet.

There are some smaller operators on the Tobique in addition to those who are described by the Globe. On the Aroostook, Messrs. Dunn Bros. will probably cut four millions; F. W. Giverson will have about three millions on the Munegos; Melvin Harvey, on Machias, will get out about two millions; about four millions will be cut by Bearce & Hill on Mooselick; Alfred Trafton will get between two and three millions on the main Aroostook River. As on the St. John, there are many small operators on the Aroostook who will get out about a million each.

ENGLAND.

The London Timber Trades Journal says:

There seems to be no question as to the future of the commoner qualities of pine. We hear that there are still some cargoes to arrive, but including these the winter stock is not expected to exceed its normal proportions. Spruce is dependent to a great extent on the available stocks of other descriptions of white-wood, but there has been less firmness in prices lately, though Miramichi is hardly good enough to gauge the market by. Still, the few lots of Quebec now and again offered at public auction with difficulty maintain their level.

The price of American lumber in the European market is likely to be affected by the great difficulty which shippers are now experiencing in obtaining ship room for their stuff. We have seen telegrams received by a well-known shipper from several leading steamer lines and freight agents positively declining to make offers for this class of goods to either London, Glasgow, or the Continent, and stating that the outlook is, even for the early months of next year, very gloomy in this respect.

American Black Walnut.—A good consumptive demand continues to be reported, and dealers are again making their purchases freely. Importations are still mainly of medium class character, of which, however, we already have a plentiful supply here. Prime quality stuff is what is most inquired for, and shippers will do well to turn their attention in this direction.

American Whitewood.—In this there is a sound and healthy business doing, and, whilst stocks are kept within moderate compass, it would appear that the outlook is of a very promising and hopeful nature.

We notice that a considerable quality of lumber is being landed of a very useful character.

American Satin Walnut.—On the whole, the condition of this trade seems to be improving; owing to its low prices and attractive appearance when worked up, it has evidently grown in favor with the general public when wanting a cheap article, but amongst manufacturers of high-class work it is practically unknown. We would recommend shippers to be careful not to overstock the market, as, in the event of their so doing, not only will prices suffer, but the wood itself is very liable to become shaken, and so depreciate in value.

American Oak.—In lumber we hear of rather more doing. Transactions have been of a generally satisfactory character.

We believe some business has been done by private contract at maintained prices.

Figured wood is much more free of sale than plain descriptions.

There appears to be very little doing in logs.

METALS.—Pretty much all the leading metals continue an upward course and as a rule present conditions are exceedingly strong. COPPER.—Ingot has continued in active demand at advancing rates and the output is said to be closely sold up with the product of some of the mines engaged ahead. As a rule it is understood that the call comes entirely from consumers, but there is evidence of some trade with outsiders and the speculative feeling is growing. Quotations are generally placed at 13@13½¢ for Lake, and 11¼@11½¢ for casting brands. Manufactured Copper has good general demand from all regular sources and a firm market all around, with intimations that an advance may be made should there be a further addition tion to the cost of material. We quote as follows: Sheets, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over 29c.; do, 14 to 16 oz. 21c.; do, 12 to 14 oz. 22c.; do, 10 to 12 oz. 23c.; do, 8 to 10 oz. 26c.; do, under 8 oz. 28c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@11 oz. 2c. for 10@12 oz. and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets, not above 36x93 in., 16 oz. and over, 20c.; do, 16 to 32 oz. 20c.; do, 14 to 16 oz. 22c.; do, 12 to 14 oz. 24c.; do, 10 to 12 oz. 28c.; do, 8 to 10 oz. 30c. Sheets longer than 96 inches add 1c. for under 16 oz. and 1c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz. 20c.; do, 16 to 32 oz. 22c.; do, 14 to 16 oz. 25c.; do, 12 to 14 oz. 26c. Sheets 60x96 and over, 20c. for 32 to 64 oz. and over, and 25c. for 16 to 32 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz. 23c.; 14 oz. 25c.; 12 oz. 27c.; and 10 oz. 30c. Bolt copper, ¾ inch diameter and over, 29c. Circles, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 5c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 6c. do. Segment and pattern sheets, 3c. above price of sheets required to cut them from. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottom, 23@25c. per lb. Iron—Scotch Pig has not been ordered forward except upon special and securely booked orders owing to the extreme cost and we are still practically without a natural open market. Such brands as Coltness and Summerlee cannot be laid down for less than about $20.00@26.50, and that is as near as can be given for even a nominal quotation. American Pig has ruled very strong and upish in price, with small lots frequently selling at 50c.@1.00 per ton advance over what are considered regular quotations. Demand is very general and liberal, and there is ample evidence that many agents are oversold and find it difficult to catch up on their orders. Buyers are endeavoring to make contracts for next year, but find sellers indifferent and inclined to take $20.00 as an outside rate on No. 1 foundry. We quote at $18.50@19.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $17.50@18.00 for No. 2 X do., and $16.00@16.50 for Gray Forge. Old material has been rather neglected, the offerings proving small and prices held so high that buyers would not respond, and that places values in a somewhat nominal position for want of a test. We quote at about $25.00@36.00 for old rails; $23.00@23.50 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $17.00@18.00 for cast scrap; and $19.00@20.00 for car wheels. Manufactured Iron from store has a somewhat irregular sale, but the general total is satisfactory, and there is a goodly amount of business doing on contract. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 1.90@2.10c. from store, and refined at 2.00@2.30c. Rods, round and square, 2.10@2.20c.; Bands, 2.20@2.30c.; Norway Nail Rods, 4@5c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 2.75@2.80c. for common Nos. 10@16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. LEAD.—Steel Rails have received renewed attention and an additional stimulus on value, carrying the price to a higher point than was thought possible this year at least. At the gain, however, the market reveals much strength, and $35.00 is now as low as any of the Eastern mills are willing to negotiate with some of them rather indisposed to accept orders at all until better assured as to where the constant advance will carry cost of material. We quote at $35.00@35.50 per ton for standard section at the mills and $36.00@36.50 do, at 10¢ water. LEAD.—Domestic Pig has not attracted much speculative attention, and with consumers moving slowly only moderate amounts were required to meet the outlet. Supplies remain under fair control. We quote at 3.80@4.00c., as to quality. The manufactures of lead are quoted: Bar, 4½¢; pipe, 6c.; sheet, 6½¢, less the usual discount to the trade; and tin lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe 45c., on same terms. Tin—Pig has found almost daily fluctuation of a fractional character, and at one time the market was quite severely hammered under a pressure to sell next month. Consumption is good, however, and holders not anxious to press their stocks. We quote at about 21½¢@21¾¢ for round lots, and 21¼¢@21¾¢ for jobbing parcels. Tin plate has found a good local demand, but out of town custom seems a little afraid of cost and invests moderately. Supplies remain well in hand and owners very firm in asking full figures for all standard grades. We quote prices as follows: I. C. Charcoal, ¼ cross assortment, Melyn grades, $6.25@6.30, each additional X add $1.50; I. C. Charcoal, ¼ cross assortment, Allaway grade, $5.25@5.30, each additional X add $1; Charcoal terme, M. F. grade, 14x20, $7.25@7.30; M. F. grade, 30x28, $15.00@15.05; Worcester, 14x20, $5.10@5.15; Worcester, 20x28, $10.20@10.30; Deane grade, 14x20, $4.35@5.15; Dean's grade, 20x28, $9.75@11.25; D. R. D. grade, 14x20, $4.70@4.75; D. R. D. grade, 20x28, $9.50@9.60; I. C. Coke, Penlan grade, $4.85@4.90; J. E. grade, 14x20, $5.00@5.05; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $5.10@—basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $5.25@—basis. Spelter has met with very fair sale and on the best brands full rates ruled without difficulty. We quote at 5.10@5¼¢ for common Western, according to brand.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Very few changes of a decided character are taking place on the general market. As previously suggested demand is not quite so steadily uniform as heretofore, but there is enough business doing in the aggregate to satisfy most operators, and a continuation is expected to quite as late a period as usual. Supplies enough are to be found available for all wants, and values have a steady position throughout. Linseed Oil in fair average demand and steady at 57@59¢ for Western and 60@62¢ for City. Spirits Turpentine is plenty, dull and weak in tone, with occasional indications of anxiety to realize. We quote at 45@46¢ per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—The market is kept in very fair position as a rule. Now and then small fluctuations in value take place, but with no permanent gain for either buyer or seller, and the total of business is about seasonable. We quote Pitch at $1.40@1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.62½@2.7½¢, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

VOL. XLIV.

NOVEMBER 30, 1889.

No. 1,133.

It has been argued throughout the fall that the activity in business—an activity which interpenetrates nearly every trade alike, and which has not, as yet at all events, verged upon inflation—warranted an advance in stock values. Consequently observers from time to time have been at something of a loss to explain the lack of response to the improved business conditions which has characterized Wall street during that period. Finally, however, it is beginning to be realized that the very conditions which would warrant speculative activity have hitherto prevented it. Capital can be used to a better advantage in trade—and hence to trade it flows. This is clearly shown by the course of the money market for the last three months. There undoubtedly has been a shortage of loanable funds, and the bears, taking advantage of this opportunity, have used every means to magnify and artificially to increase the scarcity—a proceeding that was so cleverly managed that not even Secretary Windom could relieve the money market. This fact, helped by the undeniable unwillingness of investors to rush to Wall street with their money, as they once did, has prevented a continuous buying movement. This, indeed, is the only explanation left. The significance of such facts as the activity in iron, the increased railroad earnings, the prosperity of the Fall River cotton mills, and our large exports cannot be denied. If Wall street does not recognize them, it simply means that Wall street is not ready to recognize them. When the Street is ready the response will be unmistakable. Doubtless, throughout the whole winter, the uncertainty as to the actions of Congress will be a disturbing element; but, ultimately, it will be an element which will be more likely to advance than to depress values. Moreover, it should not be forgotten that the capital which English investors are and will be sending over here, although it does not directly affect stock values, will in the end tend to advance them, for the sellers will have to put the capital out somewhere, and will doubtless, for a time at any rate, use it to purchase the handy and easily negotiable securities that exchange in the New York market. Then the importance of the direct buying of European investors has been underestimated. For years they have steadily been absorbing securities. Denver & Rio Grande in the time of Woerhoffer was dealt in to the extent of 75,000 shares a day, whereas now 200 or 300 shares represent the daily average. St. Paul is by no means the active stock it used to be, and Louisville & Nashville is steadily being absorbed by foreign buyers. Union Pacific also is being taken out of the New York market in the same way. The process will be continued in the industrial securities, and certificates which now fluctuate five points a day will be securely held in London and Berlin. When the buying movement comes—as come it must—its pace will be accelerated by the firmness with which such stocks are held.

Announcement comes from Washington that the Secretary of the Treasury, on Tuesday last, directed the United States Attorney-General to institute proceedings for the condemnation of as much of the Bowling Green blocks in this city as the appropriation of two millions of dollars will acquire, for a site for a new Appraisers' Warehouse and for a new Custom House. It will be recollected that after Secretary Windom's decision, a few months ago, in favor of this site, he delayed the matter to give a hearing to the retail dry-goods merchants and others who protested against a down-town location of the Appraisers' Warehouse. The steps now about to be taken will probably put an end to all controversy, although some dire threats have been made by parties having interests in other locations as to what they will do in case the Secretary adheres to his first selection, as he has now done.

The moralist inevitably makes an appearance when a disaster occurs, and only too frequently adds affliction to affliction. The men who ache to "draw a lesson" from any calamity that befalls the world are not likely to miss the opportunity to sermonize that the great fire in Boston affords, and so long as the public mind is in a mood to contemplate the misfortune that has visited the Hub, will undoubtedly preach and demonstrate, with the wisdom of hind-thought, how easily such a conflagration might have been prevented by this means or by that. The principal fact which the Boston fire discloses, and discloses so distinctly that it is almost needless to point it out, is that the modern fire-proof building is mainly a delusion. It may be a less combustible structure than those that are not regarded as "strictly fire-proof," but the experience of Boston shows not only that a fire can originate in such edifices (the contrary of which, of course, has never been held), but it can utterly consume them and spread to others so rapidly that, in spite of the efforts of a well-equipped fire department, aided by a rain storm of uncommon severity, within four hours several acres of buildings can be completely gutted. The fact is startling. Yesterday morning the consensus of opinion among architects was that many of the buildings in the district burned could not be destroyed by any fire that could be conceived as likely to occur. Indeed, on the very morning of the day of the conflagration the Boston Herald said editorially: "While it will not do to speak too confidently concerning the future, one is none the less justified in believing that a great sweeping conflagration is altogether impossible in the newly-constructed business district of Boston, and this, too, in spite of the fact that the buildings are, as a rule, higher and larger than those which occupied these sites prior to our great fire. There are parts of our city which have not been thus improved, where the buildings are similar in many respects to those which seventeen years ago dissolved in a heap of ruins almost as soon as the great mass of flame struck them. But as fast as the requirements of trade or the results of age cause these old structures to be torn down and replaced by new ones, the effect of our building laws comes into play, and the new edifices, if not fire-proof, are at least so far fire-resisting as to make their speedy destruction by an interior fire improbable, and their quick consumption by a sweeping conflagration impossible." A few hours later the fire-proof building owned by Jordan, Marsh & Co. was in flames, and Boston was struggling with a fire in the very section referred to, only less destructive than the great conflagration of 1872.

The fire-proof building is not likely to prove in extreme cases a more reliable structure in New York than it did in Massachusetts. This city is exposed to the danger of a conflagration quite as disastrous and costly as the one that visited Boston on Thursday, and is not a whit better prepared to cope with it. Our fire department is perhaps the most efficient of our municipal organizations, but plainly its power needs augmenting in some way, if, despite all it could do, several million dollars worth of business buildings could be destroyed by fire. There are many persons, of course, who will say no such conflagration could very well happen down town in New York, but many people would have stoutly affirmed the same thing of Boston on Wednesday last, and on Thursday morning the Boston Herald actually did declare as much. The loss in Boston represents an investment in perpetuity of at least $300,000 per annum. An expenditure of half that sum to increase the efficiency and power of her fire department might have made it possible to confine the fire to the building in which it originated. New York should be provided with a water system that would render fire engines unnecessary; there should be more hydrants than there are, and at least a certain number of them should be equipped with hose ready for immediate use. The elevated roads, too, should be employed as an adjunct to the fire department for the transportation of fire engines in case of a general call, so that they could be concentrated where needed in a much shorter time than is necessary at present. It should not be a difficult matter to institute a system of rapid transportation for fire engines on the elevated roads. For a proper consideration the Manhattan Company would doubtless be willing to provide at different points on its lines, and keep in readiness for use at any time, freight cars and the necessary appliances for hoisting and lowering these engines.

Periodically the attention of the public is directed to the tenement question in New York by some book, or by some review or newspaper article, which bring to light once more the misery of the tenement house poor. Jacob I. Riis, in the December Scribner's, writes with the authority of an expert on the matter. The article is not indeed statistical, but simply an illustrative account of personal observations and experiences in the down-town tenement house district. It does not recommend any measures of relief, being indeed sceptical of the means that are being taken to cleanse and renovate the filthy places, and he is probably right. The Health Board of this city has done and is undoubtedly doing a valuable work. As Mr. Riis says: "It is no longer lawful to construct barracks to cover the whole of a lot. Air and sunlight have a legal claim, and the day of the rear tenement is past. Last year a hundred thousand people burrowed in these inhuman dens, but some have been torn down since. Their number will decrease steadily until they all have become a bad 'tradition of the heedless past.' On the other hand, there are places above 14th street and even in Harlem which are as bad as the worst in the lower part of the city. The overcrowding still continues; and, unfortunately, it needs more than laws and Health Board regulations to do away with it.

It may be objected to Health Board regulations and laws that, useful as they undoubtedly are, they do not always approach a problem from quite the right point of view. They aim at suppressing the evil facts instead of modifying the conditions that are responsible for those facts. The thousand and one horrors of tenement house poverty are due, of course, to overcrowding. This overcrowding is not due to accidental circumstances; it is not removed by creation of parks or the erection of sanitary buildings. On the contrary, if provision is not made for the people who are forced to seek new dwelling places because of these parks and sanitary tenements the overcrowding is increased. In New York there is a tendency, as Mr. Riis points out, to get rid of the worst districts down town by constant encroachment upon them for business uses. Such a tendency obviously only shifts the point of overcrowding, which is certain to be transferred to some district or districts farther up town. But is it possible for the State entirely to remove this herding of men? We should answer the question most certainly in the affirmative. It can be done by giving people the means to get away at a low enough expense. We do not find the same evils in Philadelphia or Minneapolis. We should find them in New York if it was not necessary for a great many people forced to live within a very limited area. Can this necessity be removed? But here we are again at the old question of rapid transit. It may as well be admitted that facility of transportation would not do away directly with all the evils, because, although they are at root due to the cause mentioned, still one evil leads to another, and where we find one man forced into a dirty place, another will follow because of its very dirtiness. It is just here that the Health Department regulations would come in and complete the work by the facility of transportation.

We give elsewhere an account of the excellent and, considering the occasion, timely address delivered last Tuesday by W. H. Sayward at the opening of the new rooms of the Building Trades Club on 23d street. It is undoubtedly true that New York builders have not yet recognized the value of exchanges, not only as organizations for the protection of the trade and the consolidation of its power and its influence for the accomplishment of any common purpose, but as organizations for facilitating business. The exchanges in Boston and Philadelphia are organizations of a much higher class and are much more effective than those in this city. Considering how much larger the interests involved in building are in New York and how much more powerful and beneficial an exchange such as the one in Philadelphia would be here, it is strange that any occasion exists for remarks such as Mr. Sayward made on Tuesday. A permanent building exhibit which he spoke of as an important part of the Philadelphia Exchange is in a fair way of being established here on a much grander scale than in the City of Brotherly Love; but we need the technical school that is there and the enterprise, the organization and the public spirit that is behind the Philadelphia Exchange.

Mr. Sayward, however, was not so happy in his remarks when for a moment he stepped into the domain of economics. These little excursions into the "dismal science" must be attractive, for so many attempt them nowadays, but they are dangerous. Political economy seems to have been originated to reveal the deficiencies of the average intellect. Mr. Sayward said that the building trades should recognize the inevitable and join in the movement to shorten the hours of labor. Good. The tendency in all countries is towards a shorter working day, and if the speaker had confined himself to this broad, general statement, his position would have been tolerably safe. Unfortunately he gave not only his judgment and advice, but he stated his reasons. He said the working day should be shortened because there was not sufficient work to "go round" among all laborers if the longer day were maintained. This means, of course, that the laborers for whom there is not at present continuous work are to be given more to do at the expense of either (1) the employer or (2) the workman who to-day is continuously employed. If one or the other will consent to this, well and good. No one can object. But it is hardly to be expected that either will. Employers will not pay as much for eight hours' labor as for ten, unless the shorter hours increase the efficiency of labor, in which case, despite the shorter hours, there will be no greater demand for labor, and the unemployed will remain unemployed. Industrious laborers, moreover, are not likely to forego an hour's wages for the sake of their brethren, and if by means of organization they should force employers to pay for eight hours of work as much as they hitherto paid for ten hours, the price of the article made will be increased to the public. Some one will have to pay, and the question arises whether it would not be juster and in the end better for each portion of mankind to bear its burdens than to force others to share them.

This, of course, does not exclude voluntary assistance or the kind offices of Charity. If we should be forced to an eight-hour day in order to give work to the unemployed, what should we do with the unemployed that there would surely be sooner or later in spite of the shorter day. Make it still shorter? And if so, where should the reduction of the hours cease? The eight-hour day is not to be advocated on these grounds, but on others of a firmer character.

Inequalities of State and Local Taxation.

The committee of five persons, appointed at a meeting of the Boston Executive Business Association held last April, to consider the question of taxation for the city of Boston, have made public their report, which presents with remarkable clearness and force the injustice and inequality of the systems of State and local taxation in vogue in this country as seen in its working in Massachusetts and in the city of Boston. This report is of especial interest and significance prepared as it was by a committee composed of members of five different business organizations and representing the combined association of the chief business organizations of Boston.

The committee in the first place recommends the abolition of all taxes now imposed on personal property for local purposes, on the just grounds that they are inequitable and are in flagrant violation of the constitutional declaration of Massachusetts that taxes shall be proportionate and reasonable, as well as of the statutory law of that State which requires that they shall be according to ability. The injustice of the system is shown by the fact that while the aggregate value of personal property in that State is, according to the opinion of the soundest men, three or four times that of real property, real property bears over three-fourths of the taxes—and this when the law provides that real and personal property shall be taxed equally as to value. The committee, further, take the position held by many large real estate dealers in Boston, and in other great business centres, that the abolition of local taxes on personal property will not in the end place a heavier burden on real estate, inasmuch as capital will thus be induced to invest in this class of property—the buildings and the improvements thereon being exempt from taxation—and its value thereby greatly increased. Yet, while subscribing to this view, the committee recognize that such a proposed change would be generally misunderstood and that the feeling against it would be very great, therefore, to offset opposition, certain modifications and the substitution of other taxes in place of the local personal property tax are recommended. Accordingly they propose as the first measure for the relief of real estate that the State should relieve the city and towns of the share of State and county taxes which they now pay, the State to meet the loss in revenue from this source by a tax upon collateral inheritances and bequests and a direct succession of tax upon the personal property of every estate as it shall be properly appraised in the Probate courts of the State. These taxes, against which no taxpayer could rightfully protest, would, in the estimation of the committee, bring into the treasury of the State a revenue fully equal to that now paid by the cities and towns for State and county purposes. As a further consideration in favor of real estate holders it is recommended that in the assessment of the valuation of real estate a discrimination should be made against real estate used for business and in favor of agricultural property and dwelling houses. The present income tax upon business, stocks of goods and capital in trade in vogue in Massachusetts is condemned on the grounds that it is in violation of the law which forbids taxing incomes derived from property subject to taxation. The committee favor, however, a tax on incomes derived from professions, trades, employments, or from personal property not subject to taxation in excess of two thousand dollars, but do not recommend this tax for the reason that they do not deem it necessary. Increased revenues commensurate with the rapid growth of cities and towns in Massachusetts with which to provide for better schools, streets, parks, etc., is recognized, and investigations are urged regarding the sale of licenses and franchises to liquor saloons and to private street car, gas and electric companies, with the view of receiving from the granting of these privileges larger receipts.

The views relating to taxation set forth in the report of this committee corresponds in the main with those which the soundest economists and most advanced thinkers have been advocating for a long time. The fact that these recommendations, sound and in accord with economic principles, were arrived at through careful investigations into the workings of existing tax laws by a committee of representative business men, certainly gives encouragement to the prospects of a better adjustment of the burden of taxation than at present exists in our States and cities.

The injustice and inequality of the present system of levying taxes for State and city purposes is felt even more in the State of New York than in Massachusetts. The aggregate valuation of property subject to taxation in this State is published at about three thousand five hundred millions of dollars. Of this amount the returns of the assessor show that only one-tenth is represented by personal property. Yet no sane person doubts that the value of personal property in this State far exceeds that of real estate. The phenomenal growth of this city in the last few years, the vast improvements of all kinds going forward attest the fact that the value of personal property is rapidly increasing, yet this is scarcely shown by the assessors' books. Each year real estate is forced to bear a constantly increasing proportion of the burden of State and local taxation. The injustice of this lies in the present system of taxation, and it is time that more thorough investigations are made into its workings in our own State and city for the purpose of a more equitable distribution.

Every Congress has one or two matters which occupy the greater part of its time, which cause endless debates, and result in little or no decisive action. Parliament has its Irish question; our last Congress had the Mills bill; the coming Congress a number of different questions. The first session of the fiftieth Congress was the longest on record, but even before it meets the first session of the fifty-first promises to be longer still. There will be the problem of the World's Fair location primarily to be disposed of, and over it the fight promises to be, if not prolonged, at all events bitter. Then how many other questions are there to be settled? how many inequalities to be adjusted? In the first place there will be the surplus and the derivative problem of the tariff. It is extremely doubtful if any legislation can be secured on this first and important problem. The Senate bill of the last Congress will doubtless form the basis of the discussion, but it is very doubtful whether it will be passed and sincerely it is to be hoped that it will not. A not less important question will be that of silver, over which the debate will certainly be long and acrid, and the action meagre. The fact is, that with the House so evenly divided and the differences of opinion so wide among members of the same party, it is probable that the coming session will beat even the magnificent record of two years ago for talk and for inaction. The matter of subsidies will, of course, come up, and is more likely to be settled than almost any matter of equal importance. The Republicans seem pretty unanimous on the necessity for some government assistance to our commerce, and it is very much to be hoped that this assistance will be wisely given. The list, however, is not yet exhausted. Amendments to the Interstate Commerce Law will probably be introduced and discussed, while some other security for our national bank circulation than government bonds will shortly have to be found. At present we are confronted with the spectacle of a continual increase in the number of banks and a continual decrease in their aggregate circulation.

It will be remembered that at the close of the second session of the last Congress, the desirability of increasing the pay of Congressmen was pretty thoroughly discussed, and nearly every paper, even the economical Sun, agreed that an increase was justifiable. It is very probable that the present Congress will not waste very much time before passing a bill to bring about this very necessary increase, for even the House in certain circumstances can appreciate the necessity for prompt action. They will, of course, date the increase from the beginning of the next Congress, for the experience of previous bodies has clearly shown the unwisdom of legislating too much to the direct advantage of oneself. The increase is undoubtedly needed, not so much, however, by Congress as by certain other departments of our government. It is true we pay our legislators more than any other nation on earth; but as we pay them at all only on the assumption that the State needs all their time and owes them support, this support should be made equal to the sum which the majority of them could earn in business—which is certainly more than $5,000 a year. That sum alone does not suffice to support a Congressman and his family in a comfortable way, particularly if the latter is brought to Washington. But as we have said, if Congressmen deserve an increase other officers deserve it to an equal, if not a greater extent. This is particularly the case with our District and Circuit Judges, who are paid so pitifully that good lawyers can seldom be induced to accept the positions. The salaries of the Cabinet officers should be doubled, so should the salary of the President. The social obligations of our Chief Magistrate are not, indeed, onerous enough or expensive enough to warrant the enormous emoluments paid abroad; but it is right that he should have a sum that not only will provide for every possible expense, but which will even leave something over, so that if he be a poor man he will be to a certain extent independent when he leaves office.

Not long since, at a meeting of the Bar Association, the question of relieving the Supreme Court of some of its surplus work was considered, and it was decided to recommend not an increase of the number of justices, which would not improve matters to any appreciable extent, but a restriction of the number of cases which would come under its jurisdiction. It is not improbable that before many years are out a reform similar in end to the one proposed to relieve the Supreme Court will have to be considered to relieve Congress of much vexatious work which it is at present obliged to perform. Every legislative body in the world has a great deal more to do than it has time to do it, and this condition of things is aggravated in this country, because there is no regularly-constituted governing committee in the House which can give important bills precedence and restrain the rank and file from overloading the calendars with measures that will never be reached. Thus we suffer in this country more than in any other from the right of every member to introduce an unlimited number of bills on the one hand, and the impossibility on the other for the whole body to act on one tithe of them. Much time would be saved if the special pension bills and the disputed election cases were left, the former to an administrative, the latter to a judicial officer. Congress should not waste its time over bills involving an expenditure of a few hundred dollars. Mr. Cleveland was very much blamed for occupying himself with such two-penny legislation; but obviously the fault did not lie with him, but with the system that gives him such duties. So it is with contested elections. They give rise to heated debates and displays of partizan spirit which are humiliating in the extreme. Instead of being left to the decision of a biased House, which may in some cases have the strongest reasons to decide in favor of one individual irrespective of the rights of the case, they should be put in the hands either of the Circuit Judge of the district or of some specially constituted tribunal, as they are in England.

A National System of Irrigation.

When Major Powell first recommended to the Committees of the House of Representatives an appropriation for surveying the arid districts in the West, with a view to irrigating and reclaiming these seemingly profitless deserts, it was suggested in the columns of this paper that the national government ought not only to make the survey, but undertake the work. It is agreed by all hands that a system of irrigation, if possible, etc., well planned, would give value to lands at present worthless, and would consequently be enormously profitable to its projectors. The districts rendered tillable by the means of this system would have a manifest advantage, other things being equal, over a district which depended for its water supply on the caprice of the weather. Hitherto efforts both in India and Egypt to construct works similar in aim to the ones projected in this country, but, due to local conditions, different as to the engineering methods, have been singularly successful. In that country, under the direction of Colonel Moncrieff, an annual addition to the cultivated area of some 150,000,000 square acres is being made, and the amount of money required to obtain these results has been comparatively small—a sum which, according to engineers, could be still further reduced in this country because of the better configuration of the land for the purpose. In India the benefits derived from the irrigation works have been still larger. These facts are not complete; but they are none the less significant. The canals in the Punjab, for instance, are five in number, and are what is called perennial; that is, they are flowing throughout the whole of the year. The total investment is about $22,300,000, and the value of the crops raised last year in the 1,210,667 acres of irrigated area $14,287,000.

If the advantages then of these canals are palpable, the direct profits of the investment which their projectors obtain are more so still. A few examples of these profits go far to show to what extent our Western irrigating project, if left in the hands of private individuals, may become the means of great gains. The old western Jumna Canal, before it was reconstructed, paid the government of India 25 to 27 per cent. on the original capital outlay. At present the net return amounts only to 7½ per cent., apparently, because the new constructions are for the time being unproductive. But this example is of small significance compared with that of a couple of inundation canals, the net annual returns on the capital of which are respectively 60 and 171 per cent. Well may a New York financial journal say: "When one of these waterways is finished, the stockholders have nothing further to do than receive enormous dividends which flow in on them like water." If private companies in this country are permitted to obtain these enormous profits, dividends will, indeed, "flow in like water" in more senses than one.

But the question is: Should capitalists be allowed to gather these rich irrigation fruits? In so far as an enterprise involves risk, energy in raising the necessary capital to carry it through, and a new idea for which its projectors deserve the credit, it is perfectly fair that this enterprise should receive returns amounting to far more than the ordinary rate of interest on the original expenditure. No one begrudges an inventor, or a company behind an invention, a rate of return that bears a large percentage to the capital sunk in the plant. No one begrudges the projectors of a railway line which is more or less of an experiment, and which consequently requires men of courage and energy to build an unusually large dividend on the investment. In these cases the mental qualities which made the enterprise possible have a market value which, it may be added, they are pretty sure to get. But if these irrigation works fall into the hands of private individuals there will be no excuse whatever for a rate of return larger than that which the same capital could obtain loaned out in the ordinary way. It was a government officer that suggested the improvement; it will be a government survey that has rendered it possible, and, we may add, it will be government lands that will receive the largest benefit. Consequently, it is the government that should get the return, or, more correctly, it is the government that should see that these returns are so limited that the farmers who settle on the lands will get their fair share. It is expected that the report of the Senate Investigating Committee will recommend either the government ownership of the irrigation works or government supervision over their construction. It is to be hoped that the expectation will not fall short of fulfillment. Our national authorities have the right and power to assume charge of the whole improvement. Owning, as the nation does, much of the land which will be benefited, and having possession of the surveys which show what opportunities the configuration of the land offers, a private company wishing to construct the reservoirs and canals will be able to do so only with the consent of the central authorities. Very probably the railways which are built partially through the arid regions will wish to have their share of the possible gains. The government should see that this share is no more than they are entitled to.

Unfortunately an equitable adjustment of the benefits is likely to be prevented by political considerations. The farmers of Nebraska have already declared it to be their opinion that these irrigation works are entirely unnecessary, and will only serve to bring about an increase of production which will virtually injure vested interests. No doubt the same view will be held by the other agricultural organizations on either side of the Mississippi; and as there are signs that the Republican party is losing its grip on those regions it is unlikely the party managers will do anything still further to alienate so powerful a body of voters. The Democratic party, should it control the next House, would be very much in the same position. Past experience has not led us to hope that either organization will rise above the partisan, and, consequently, the sectional view of the matter, particularly as there are no votes to be gained by following the wiser course.

The Central Park site cost the city $6,666,381, and the construction account and maintenance up to date is about $18,000,000, while the taxes collected in the wards in which it stands since its creation amount to about $120,000,000. What the taxes would have amounted to had the Central Park never been brought into existence it is impossible to tell, but in any event it can be seen how much the city is the gainer over and above the cost of the park.

New York has a population estimated at 1,650,000, and it has now about 5,000 acres of park lands, large and small. This gives it a population of about 330 to the acre. London has about 22,000 acres of park land, with an estimated population of 4,500,000, an average of 205 to the acre; besides this there are innumerable squares in the British capital owned by the people who reside on them which are not included in this area. Paris has about 2,500,000 inhabitants and 172,000 acres of park lands or 14 to the acre.

Men and Things.

It is noticeable that Mr. P. T. Barnum finds England, the home of the free-trader, very much to his liking. According to the London correspondent of the Star, he has been telling the London newspapers what an excellent place London is to live in, how superior are its accommodations to those of the rest of the civilized world, and so on. That all this should be in a protected country is certainly very strange. It will be remembered how our most excellent and philanthropic showman declared that if Cleveland was elected he would forthwith sell his Bridgeport property. I would be far from intimating that this statement was made at that time merely to make a little talk and keep the honored name of Barnum before the public, but that is certainly the most charitable view to take of the matter. When he returns, his confidential talks with the reporters will make interesting reading. I doubt very much if his sturdy Americanism will not get the better of him, and he will tell all about his happy feelings when he once more caught sight of the Status of Liberty enlightening the world. And we can imagine his utter disgust with the intelligence of the English people if the greatest-show-on-earth should prove such a hollow attraction that Mr. Barnum should not be recompensed for his enormous expenses. That tiger which measured fifteen feet from the tip of his nose to the end of his tail and sixteen feet from the end of his tail to the tip of his nose must, I think, have been in Mr. Barnum's menagerie.

The British Medical Association some time since appointed a committee to make inquiries for the purpose of ascertaining the average age of the different categories of drinkers—that is to say, those who are total abstainers, those who indulge moderately, and those who drink to excess. The following table is the result of inquiries into 4,234 deaths:

1. Total abstainers.....	51 years 23 days.
2. Habitually temperate drinkers.....	63 " 13 "
3. Careless drinkers.....	59 " 67 "
4. Free drinkers.....	57 " 59 "
5. Decidedly intemperate drinkers.....	53 " 3 "

These figures, such as they are, do not afford very much encouragement to Prohibitionists. Those whose years are cut off soonest are those who drink no alcohol whatever; after them come the drunkards who only exceed them by a trivial year or so, while the greatest average age is reached by those who drink moderately. The figures are, however, open to the same objection as were similar figures, which went to show that married people are longer lived than single. The presumption is, of course, that only the most healthy people will marry, and consequently that married people will live longer than single, not because they are married but because they are healthy. In reference to drinking, it is hardly true that presumably the most healthy people will drink moderately. But certainly the most healthily minded people, if they indulge at all, will do so in a limited way. And this power over their own appetites is a mental characteristic which will prevent them from excesses in other directions. So we cannot ascribe all the advantage in length of years that a moderate drinker has to the limited quantity of alcohol, but rather to the self-control of which it is an indication. But the fact that total abstainers are the shortest lived of all! Well, I can leave that for a Prohibitionist to explain.

The fusion of All Soul's Church, of which Dr. R. Heber Newton is rector, and the Church of the Holy Spirit, of which Dr. Edmund Guilbert is rector, will join together two of the most important churches, one of the older and one of the younger generation, in this city. Dr. Newton has been well known as a man of great breadth of view, and a sa broad churchman in the fullest sense of the word, while Dr. Guilbert has surrounded himself with a large congregation, whose number are composed very largely of young people of both sexes belonging to the fashionable ranks of New York City. Both churches have wealthy communicants, and the spirit of the one church will leaven that of the other, while that of All Soul's will probably be predominant. With one of the ablest and most popular of preachers, a superb choir, a modern and attractive church and a refined and intelligent congregation, the Madison Avenue Church will become one of the most important in the metropolis. All Soul's, on 48th street, is to be sold and the proceeds devoted to the debt of the Church of the Holy Spirit, which is $150,000. Dr. Newton's church occupies a frontage of 80 feet, with a depth of 100.4 feet, and should it not be sold to another congregation will be put on the market for sale. The value is placed at $50,000, and this no doubt represents the worth of the ground without the building, which, indeed, would be useless, except to be used as a church by another congregation.

The erstwhile Cyclorama building on the ground owned by John D. Crimmins on Madison avenue, 58th and 59th streets, has been altered, and will shortly be opened as the "Lenox Lyceum," a rather attractive appellation. It will be ready in about three weeks, when Theodore Thomas is expected to lead his orchestra in it. When a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE took a glance at the interior, the other day, the workmen were putting the finishing touches to it. Two rows of private boxes surround the auditorium, while the main floor itself is to be covered with hundreds of chairs to seat the listeners. The hall is excellently planned for musical rehearsals, orchestral or otherwise, being round in shape and having a dome roof, while the floor and ceiling are of good sounding wood. The place looks as though it could be used for dancing, and it will prove a central as well as a desirable hall for public meetings. The decoration is of a light tone and the aspect is a cheerful one. The main entrance is to be on Madison avenue, near 59th street. It will seat about 2,000 people.

Real Estate Notes.

Up in Harlem there have been erected on the leading streets and avenues many small structures one and two stories in height to supply store accommodations where the demand for apartments is not rushing. There are instances where such buildings have been built to secure an income for owners who have not yet determined on the class of building best adapted for the site.

Between the variety in designs, colors and materials used in the construction of flats and dwellings along the line of the west side "L" road and the neatness and order in which some of the farm gardens which intervene are laid out passengers who keep a look out are much interested.

Auctioneer Peter F. Meyer has been investing in Lexington avenue houses. He bought No. 783, on the corner of 61st street, at $23,000, and No. 785, adjoining, at $18,000.

Some idea of the wonderful increase in the value of Harlem lots is obtained by a comparison of prices obtained within a dozen years. Here are a few sales and resales along 8th avenue which tell the story plainer than words can:

	1876.	1888.
8th av, w s, extends from 124th to 125th st, 12 lots.....	$95,000	$240,000

The new Lincoln building, on the corner of Union square and 14th street, is much admired. The plot, 51.7x116.10, on which it stands, is leased ground, and the Spingler estate are paid 5 per cent. rental on the basis of a valuation of $400,000, or $20,000 per annum on a forty-years' lease. The lessee also pays the taxes and Croton rates. The plans filed gave the cost at $250,000, but it is believed it will reach nearer $400,000. It is said that a rental of $90,000 per annum will be obtained. Devlin & Co. have leased the store floor and basement for ten years at $30,000 per annum.

There seems to be a demand on the Bowery for cheap lodging houses. Recently plans were filed for two such structures to be built at Nos. 219 and 221, at a cost of $12,000 and $11,000 respectively.

The new apartment hotel, the Beresford, on Central Park West, has proved a great success. Although the house has been ready only seven weeks all the suites have been rented, and there is a reserve list of applicants for apartments.

Jersey City News.

There has been a slight falling off during the past week or two of new plans in the architects' offices, and among real estate men business also shows a tendency to slacken, though prices are firm and well held, with a gradual advance of values in certain sections, especially on the Heights.

The number of plans filed in the Building Department recently, while scarcely as numerous as during previous months, have shown considerably larger figures in the estimated cost of buildings. The most recent news among the architects in regard to prospective work for the building trades is as follows:

The Scotch Mission intends building a frame church, 44x85 in size, on the corner of Manning avenue and Grand street. It will be a Gothic structure and will cost $6,000. Plans are being prepared by R. W. Sailer.

The New Jersey Car Spring and Rubber Company intend to build an additional story to their factory on the corner of Brunswick and Wayne streets. It will be 160x100 in size. George W. La Baw is to be the architect.

Quite a little heart-burning has been engendered among local architects and their friends over the work for the new Police Headquarters, and considerable wire-pulling is said to have taken place in political circles to secure the selection of an architect. L. H. Broome seems to have come out on top and has practically obtained the job. His plans show a three-story building, 50x100 in size, without any particular architectural features. It is to be built on the site of the present Police Headquarters in the rear of the City Hall, and will be erected on the corner of Gregory street and Cooper place. In addition to rooms for the Police Commissioners, quarters will be provided for the Building and Health Departments. The cost will be upwards of $30,000.

A pretty villa is to be built on Idaho avenue, near Academy street, by Geo. L. Bettcher, the architect, who will occupy it soon after his marriage, which is to take place shortly.

Three three-story tenements, with stores on the first floor, are to be built on the corner of Monticello avenue and Emory street. They will be 20x50 each, and will cost the owner, Mrs. Jennie Varick, about $12,000. Geo. W. La Baw is preparing the plans.

Bonds are to be issued at an early date to defray the cost of the new armory to be built in Jersey City.

During the tearing down of the old Police Headquarters and the construction of a new one, Building Inspector Clarke will be located at No. 146 Sussex street, near Warren street, where builders, architects, owners of property, agents and others will find him daily from 1 to 3 P. M.

The Chancellor's chambers has been the scene of a remarkable law case this week. It was that of the State of New Jersey against the Morris & Essex Railroad Company. In 1865 a supplement to the original charter of the company allowed the construction of a branch road through Bonton and Paterson to the Hudson River, and from the completion of this road in 1867 the company was liable to pay a State tax on its cost of one-half of one per centum. The company returned the cost of the road and the cost of equipment as separate items and paid the tax only on the cost of the road, claiming that the equipments were exempt. In 1884 they paid the tax on $24,540,597.59 as cost of road, and claimed exemption on $13,187,444.74. This large exemption claim attracted attention, and by an act of 1886 it was made the duty of the State Board of Assessors to ascertain the correctness of the claim. The company submitted a detailed statement to the State Board, and an expert accountant was ordered to examine the books of the company. From this report the State Board decided that large amounts of property had been charged to the equipment account which were integral parts of the road and not subject to exemption. The State Board reported to the Legislature that the tax and interest thus evaded amounted to $1,246,393.23.

The following are the principal plans filed recently at the office of the Building Inspector, for new buildings to be erected:

One three-story frame tenement, 25x54, at 309 Grand street, for Patrick McCabe; cost, $5,030. Two five-story brick stores and tenements, 59x89, on Montgomery, near Warren street, for B. C. Thayer; cost, $40,000. One five-story brick storehouse, 80x100, for G. F. & E. C. Swift, 148 to 152 9th street; cost, $20,000. Three five-story brick tenements, 25x80, corner Grove and Grand streets, Hy. A. Heidt; cost, $31,800. Three five-story brick, 25x80, 2d street, adjoining the latter three, Martin Tomfohrde; cost, $31,500. Three two-story and attic frame dwellings, together 53.3x34, for Theo. Gubelmann, Montgomery street, 490 west Bergen avenue; cost, $9,000. Three two-and-a-half-story frame dwellings, 16.8x98, Baldwin avenue, near Church street, Ellen Clifton; cost, $6,900. One two-story and attic frame dwelling, 24x34, for Chas. Kydd, corner Tonnelly and Sipp avenues; cost, $6,500. One four-story brick dwelling, 30x55, Montgomery street, corner Water avenue, Agnes Bradley; cost, $8,000. One one-story foundry, 94x165, Pacific avenue, adjoining Newark & New York Railroad, for Boynton Furnace Company; cost, $7,000. One four-story brick tenement and store, 34.6x62, Pacific avenue, corner Maple street, John Luhrman; cost, $14,000. One two-story frame dwelling, 22x36, Atlantic street, near Ocean avenue, A. F. Brughmann; cost, $3,100. One two-story store, factory and wagon shop, 27x93, Boyd avenue, near West Side avenue, Anna Muller; cost, $5,000. One three-story frame store and dwelling, 26x53, at 787 Ocean avenue, John Martin; cost, $5,000. One three-story frame dwelling, 23x41, at 34 Danforth avenue, Adam Reid; cost, $5,000. Two three-story frame tenements, together 53x55, corner Garfield and Hooper avenues, Simon Flaherty; cost, $8,800. One three-story frame dwelling, 20x40, Monitor street, near Johnson avenue, Gustav A. Philman; cost, $4,000.

No system in the world, with the same mileage, can show the enormous traffic of the elevated railroads of New York City. Nearly 180,000,000 passengers were carried during the past year, an increase of 8,000,000 over the previous year. Of this increase the west side lines showed 5,000,000, a strong evidence of the greatly increasing population on that side of the city. Indeed, the east side cars are so objectionable to many who live east of 5th avenue, that not an inconsiderable number of passengers who live between 3d and 5th avenues take the 6th avenue road whenever they can in preference to the 3d avenue line. But is it not time that the city authorities insisted that passengers should have better accommodations and not be packed in the cars during the busy hours like a flock of sheep in a pen?

The Building Trades Club's New Quarters.

WM. H. SAYWARD ON THE BENEFITS OF EXCHANGES.

One of the most interesting gatherings of builders and building material men that has ever assembled occurred on Tuesday evening. The occasion was the opening of the new quarters of the Building Trades Club, at No. 20 East 21st street. This club was organized a few months ago and already there are on its membership roll the names of most of the prominent firms connected with the building trades. Its object, as expressed in its constitution, is to promote "social enjoyment and friendly interchange of sentiments and views, with a cultivation of agreeable business relations between those who may become members." In addition to that it endeavors to advance the interests of the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange and to form a central pivot for the preparations that are to be made for holding the Convention of the National Association of Builders in New York in 1891.

The new quarters of the club comprise a suite of three spacious rooms about 20x90. They are furnished in a highly artistic manner. The walls are decorated in hues of terra cotta, and are adorned with etchings and engravings presented by members. Three of these—the Castello San Angelo, Rome; the Bridge of Sighs, Venice, and St. Paul's Cathedral, London—were presented by Marc Eidlitz. There are other valuable pictures, including Schreyer's "Tunisian Cavalier Engagement;" "Rural Sounds," a rustic picture—"When the Shadows Veil the Meadows;" one of Jules Breton's Brittany peasant pictures; "Beaching the Life-boat;" a portrait of Longfellow, and numerous others, all selected with good taste. Palm trees and ferns adorn the northern and southern extremes of the rooms, and portières of velvet and satin in rich and pleasing shades hang here and there. There are mantels and mirrors in rich woods, set off by vases and bric-à-brac. The fireplaces are tiled and the floors are richly carpeted, though covered with damask for Tuesday's meeting. Rugs adorn the president's rostrum at the southern extremity. Indeed, there are few, if any, club-rooms in the city that have a richer and more artistic appearance than these.

The members of the reception committee were on hand early to receive the guests. Messrs. H. M. Dickinson, Frank E. Conover, C. A. Cowen, O. M. Eidlitz and H. W. Redfield comprise the committee.

The principal attraction of the evening was an address to be delivered by Wm. H. Sayward, the well-known secretary of the National Association of Builders, who lectured on the "Benefits of Exchanges to the Building Trades." About 150 of the most substantial firms were represented, among those present, beside the reception committee, being Marc Eidlitz, the president of the club; Samuel I. Acken, the president of the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange; John J. Tucker and Andrew J. Campbell, vice-presidents of the club; A. A. Andruss, probably the oldest builder in New York; A. Meyers, Thos. E. Tripler, A. G. Bogert, Wm. C. Smith, vice-president of the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange; W. K. Hammond, D. C. Weekes, Jacob S. Brown, Wm. H. Hurst, Chas. Andruss, J. H. Drew, Warren A. Conover, Wm. H. Brennan, O. H. Drew, Joseph Hurst, Daniel E. Herbert, Henry Maurer, Robert C. Martin, of Peck, Martin & Co.; Chas. T. Galloway, Stephen M. Wright, secretary of the Society of the Mechanics and Tradesmen, and many others whose names could not be ascertained.

The chair was taken soon after 8 o'clock by Samuel I. Acken, who briefly introduced the lecturer of the evening.

Mr. Sayward, who is a fluent and agreeable speaker, and who delivered his address extemporaneously, said:

"I have traveled 6,000 miles for the National Association of Builders, in the course of which I have come in contact with some of the most prominent men connected with the building trades and examined every building exchange that there was to be seen, and I have come here at the end of my journey, and I want to say to you that there are no men in the country who want so much talking to as to the value of an exchange as you do in New York. Here you are, the biggest city in the Union, and in proportion to your population you have the most insignificant exchange in the country. I have been from Massachusetts to California, and I want to say that the people in the building line look toward New York more than you realize. Chicago may boast as it will, but the people all over the country are proudest of the metropolis. You have all the stuff to make a good and strong organization, and yet Kansas City can beat you. Now, what is an exchange useful for? It is not a place where you should idly waste your time. It should be a place to save time, and to transact business with more celerity and to better purpose; a place where architects and others can, at certain hours, make sure of finding the men they want to see to estimate on a job, or to consult on a job in prospect or under way. A builder from Detroit was here recently and wanted to find a certain New York builder. He thought, naturally, that the exchange would be the place, but he had to hunt him all over the city. Now, in Boston they have an Exchange—owned by the members—where they do thing; in a different way. A prominent New York builder came to that city to estimate on a job and he found all the contractors he wanted at the Exchange between the hours of 11:30 and 1 o'clock. A Boston capitalist recently requested his architect to get in estimates for masonwork on a certain day at 1 o'clock. He was suddenly called on urgent business to Europe. He resolved to have the complete estimates in at that hour, and the builder was informed at a quarter to 1 of this fact. The latter went round to the Exchange, got a carpenter's estimate, with other estimates, added it to his own estimate for masonwork, with the ordinary allowances, and had the total estimates in just two minutes before 1 o'clock. He secured the job and made $5,000 profit on it. That was the result of the mechanics making a point of being on the Exchange at a certain hour. Don't you think it pays? It is as much of a duty and an advantage to me to be there for my fellow-members' benefit as it is his duty and advantage to be there for mine. Gentlemen, we are not living in the beginning of this century. Our fathers thought if they obtained one good job that that was all they could do and all they wanted. But in this latter part of the Nineteenth Century builders must be prepared to do a dozen jobs at the same time, and it is of the utmost importance that they should be able to see the material men at a stated hour at their Exchange. Another point. We builders are conducting the greatest industry in the country. We have never placed ourselves on our proper level. We have been looked upon simply as mechanics. At a recent meeting of the Boston Society of Architects a builder made the statement that building was entitled to rank among the professions. An architect said: 'We have nothing in common with the builder.' Yet only a few days after he sent his draughtsman down to that builder's to find out what strain an 8x14 timber would stand. (Laughter.) Why, from the time we put a pencil to paper on the foundation work till the cap is put on the roof, ours is a profession. I do not speak of the mechanic who puts up the building. I speak of the men who spend their lives working as master mechanics. Speaking about exchanges, look at what Philadelphia has done. She owns her own home. Its first floor is devoted to the exhibition of building materials, appliances, tools, etc. The basement is devoted to a trade training school for boys, and they have begun to build up some American mechanics in ship-shape fashion, and we all know that we stand in need of good American workmen. They rent out their first floor space at $5 per foot, in all $15,000 per annum, and the five or six stories above brings them a large office rental. It is an ideal Exchange, as they have under one roof everything connected with the trade, from the turning out of the mechanic to the ownership of the building. If Boston can spend $250,000 on an exchange, New York ought to be able to spend $1,000,000. Then look at your yearly dues; they are $15. Great Scott! Why, this wouldn't last us a month in Boston. You have quite a number of New York builders who come over to us all the time, and it costs us more than that to entertain them when they come to the city of pork and beans. (Laughter.) Your Mechanics' Exchange has a surplus of nearly $30,000. Now, it doesn't do a blessed bit of good to coddle and hoard it. You want to use the money as a nucleus to build an exchange. Your dues ought to be $100 a year instead of $15. Our Exchange in Boston charges $100, and we have a respectable body, whose opinions are looked up to by the community. Owners consult us as to the good faith and standing of contractors just as they would rely on an inquiry office. We believe in quality, not quantity, and we have refused admission to nearly one hundred applicants. We have got things so far that if a third-rate architect asks us to estimate on his plans and we find them only half-plans and half-specifications, instead of being intelligently drawn and worded, we refuse to estimate on them. We feel that it is an insult to the intelligence of a first-class builder, just as it is a disgrace to any architect, to present such plans and specifications. Of course there are architects and 'architects.' There is another thing you sometimes do in New York. You will estimate on a job, and when the owner and architect have got in the bids they will go around the corner and get another bid lower. They will then come back to you, and not infrequently you will bid on the job a second time to secure it, even if the profit is knocked clean out of it. Now, if you had a strong Exchange here the owner who attempted that would be put so clean out of sight that he would want to go to New Jersey. (Laughter and applause.) Speaking about the National Association, I want to say that it does for each Exchange what each Exchange does for the individual. I will illustrate this. We were threatened with a strike in Boston. We called together all the owners of buildings under way and all the capitalists and others interested, and after talking the matter over thoroughly they told us to stop all work, and that they would back us up—these men with millions—for all they were worth. One man said his building—which was up to the roof—should stay that way ten years, if necessary, before the unjust demands of the strikers were granted. One builder came to us and said: 'My owner insists upon my going ahead.' 'Go back and tell him that if he does he will find the whole Exchange against him,' was our answer. That settled it. The owner caved it, and so did the strikers." Mr. Sayward ended by referring to the great Builders' Convention to take place early in 1890 at St. Paul, and said: "If we are wise men we will anticipate the inevitable by reducing the hours of daily labor. We have got to deal with the problem of the vast numbers of unemployed men all over the country. It is a religious duty imposed upon us to curtail the hours of labor so that they may get employment. When it is considered that 30,000 people own three-quarters of the wealth of the country, we, who employ more men than those in any other industry, should seek to meet the labor difficulty squarely. It is our duty as men and citizens of this great Republic." (Applause.)

Wm. C. Smith and John J. Tucker spoke to a resolution of thanks to the lecturer, the latter saying that a building should be owned by members of the building trades, and suggested a number of $1,000 subscription for the purpose.

Mr. Martin asked the lecturer if the Boston Exchange used its influence on city ordinances or on State legislation.

Mr. Sayward: "Yes, our Exchange has not only done this, but it was accepted as a guide in establishing our inspection laws, which are similar to your building laws here. The Governor of the State asked us to select one of our members to assist in this work, which was largely relegated to him."

The assemblage was here invited to a collation at Pursell's, next door, where a very sociable time was spent by the men who have put up our great buildings and built up our city. It was after midnight when the guests dispersed.

The Brooklyn Bridge trustees have decided to complete the warehouses under the bridge at an expense of about $50,000. It is expected that they will yield an income of between $5,000 and $10,000 per annum. The number of passengers who walked or rode over the bridge during October was 3,597,678. The receipts for the month were $100,781, and the expenditures $75,516, leaving a surplus of $25,265.

The Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange.

A meeting of brokers and others interested in establishing the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange on a firm basis was held at the office of Leonard Moody on Wednesday.

Messrs. Wyckoff, Johnson, Henry D. Smith, Frank Bailey, Stewart, Rowland, Ferry and Haviland, of the Brooklyn Exchange, had been invited and were present.

J. N. Wyckoff was called to the chair, and C. Augustus Haviland appointed secretary.

The secretary, on behalf of a majority of the stockholders of the Exchange, submitted the following statement:

On the 18th day of February, 1889, the Secretary of State issued the preliminary certificate for the organization of this corporation.

On the 6th day of March, 1889, by-laws were adopted and directors elected, and

On the 11th day of March, 1889, certificate of full organization was issued and recorded by the Secretary of State. Soon thereafter it was discovered that many of the leading brokers had not been invited to co-operate in the work of organization and an effort was made by the secretary, and others who felt aggrieved, to induce these gentlemen to join them in the work of building up an Exchange in Brooklyn.

It was hardly to be expected, however, that gentlemen thus ignored before the election of a Board of Directors would lend their aid to make the organization a success while they could have no voice in its management until after another election had been held.

At a later period it was thought advisable to increase the capital stock from 200 shares at $50 each to 1,200 shares at $50 each, and by a vote of the stockholders this was done on the 19th of June, 1889.

I am authorized to pledge you, here and now, that a majority of stockholders who are by law authorized to act will gladly aid in placing the control of this corporation in the hands of new parties who may be willing to co-operate in building up an Exchange worthy the name, and in their behalf I now ask you to unite with them in this work.

Brooklyn needs an Exchange, and many of those who have heretofore believed it would be a detriment to their business as brokers to have an Exchange in Brooklyn now frankly admit that they have been laboring under a wrong impression, and we feel assured that when our corporation is under way they will all be with us in the work.

It is now for you to say whether you will come with us before we re-organize or wait until we have opened permanent headquarters.

We propose going on in the work whether you come with us or not. The election of officers for the ensuing year will take place December 9th.

We want you with us now, and we intend that it shall not be truthfully said that we are a "close corporation."

E. F. Linton stated that he was in favor of aiding in any work calculated to make Brooklyn such a city as it should be, and felt convinced that a Real Estate Exchange was now necessary. He suggested that a committee be appointed to report at a future meeting as to the best plan for accomplishing the work.

Leonard Moody, while expressing a belief that an Exchange would not benefit him in a business way, declared that he was willing to co-operate if the purpose was to erect a new building such as Brooklyn and the entire real estate fraternity might be proud of.

After discussion, in which all present took part, Messrs. Linton, Moody, Johnson and Haviland were appointed a committee to formulate a plan as basis of action and to report at a meeting to be held next week.

Real Estate Department.

The real estate business is usually transacted in five days of the week and when a holiday intervenes the days for work are reduced to four, with the day before and the day after the holiday more or less shortened, so that the actual time for business is about three days. Owing to Thursday being a holiday this must be classed as a short week, and therefore it is not surprising that the reports of public and private sales are much curtailed. The fact is, there was only one day on which anything approaching a fair business was transacted on Change and that day was Tuesday, when the Henderson estate and other desirable parcels were offered. Something over $600,000 was realized for all the property offered, and of this over $500,000 was obtained for the estate already mentioned.

The reports gathered from the brokers' offices make a fairly good showing, and not a few of the transactions consummated are of an important character, and will lead to costly improvements.

Trading continues to be the leading feature of the market, as the reports show. We hear the expert traders have been doing exceedingly well. There were no sales held at the Exchange on Monday.

Tuesday was the busiest day of the week; the sales were numerous and partly important, especially the Henderson estate. There was a large attendance and the bidding was lively, although only fair prices were realized. The Henderson estate sale embraced both improved and unimproved property, and brought a total of $511,700. The terms were cash, otherwise, it is said, larger prices would have been obtained. S. Dessau, the diamond dealer, Timothy Donovan, Builder F. J. Schnugg and Broker H. S. Ely were the largest buyers. Mr. Dessau secured No. 55 Wooster street, southwest corner of Broome street, a four-story brick store, size 18.4 x72, at $42,250, and four lots on the southeast corner of Avenue A and 74th street at $32,550. Mr. Donovan bought fourteen lots on the north side of 72d street, east of Avenue A, at $55,900, and two on the south side of the same street at $3,950 each. Builder Schnugg purchased three lots on 52d street, near 11th avenue, at $6,000 each; two lots on the northeast corner of Avenue A and 72d street at $18,600, and three on the same street, 548 feet east of Avenue A, for $13,000. Mr. Ely secured the choicest piece sold, Nos. 62 and 64 Greene street, a five-story brick store, size 49x100. The figure was $152,500, and the premises are leased to February 1, 1891, at $12,450 and water tax. It is said that Mr. Ely bought the property for a member of the Henderson family. Four lots on 69th street, west of 8th avenue, were started at $20,000 and bid in at $35,500.

Only two sales were held at the Salesroom on Wednesday, and both were unimportant. The attendance was fair, notwithstanding the storm.

Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, the Exchange was closed.

There was only one sale held yesterday. Two lots on 5th avenue, north of 114th street, went for $18,000 to the plaintiff. Over $17,835 is due on the mortgage foreclosed.

Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell on Tuesday, December 3d, the four-story and basement, high stoop, brown stone dwelling, 17.6x55x102.2, No. 61 West 71st street; the three-story and basement brown stone dwelling, 17.1½x50x80, with extension 9x12, No. 1078 Lexington avenue, and the two four-story brown stone dwellings and lots, 20x42x53 each, Nos. 76 and 78 East 77th street.

Smyth & Ryan will sell on Tuesday, December 3d, by order of the executrix of the Nichols estate, the two three-story frame dwellings with lot, 25x100.10, Nos. 66 and 68 East 115th street, and two Astor leaseholds, one a four-story brick store and dwelling, 16.10x65.1, No. 845 9th avenue, and the other a four-story brown stone flat, 18.6x60, No. 370 West 43th street.

On Wednesday, December 4th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell the five-story building, No. 74 Pearl street, southeast corner of Coenties slip.

On Thursday, December 5th, L. J. & I. Phillips will sell, by order of the Supreme Court, in partition, and under direction of Emanuel Blumenstiel, referee, the three-story frame buildings at Nos. 50 and 52 Hester street and 30 Ludlow street, southeast corner; the two-and-a-half-story front and six-story rear houses at Nos. 146 Clinton street; the five-story tenement No. 150 Clinton street, and the three-story dwelling No. 153 Broome street. All these parcels are in a section where property is in great demand.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

[For Prices see pages v., vii., viii. and ix.]

BRICKS—Some of the trade, we understand, were of the opinion that our last report assumed rather too heavy a tone, but are frank enough to admit the market has fully caught up to it during the current week and may possibly, in some respects, be even a little worse. There appears to be no occasion to materially alter the general line of quotations, but it must be the very best of quality to reach $7.00 per M. and that is looked upon as an exceptional figure. After a careful canvass of the situation, the impression is obtained that actual consumptive requirements have undergone no important shrinkage this month, and if fully met, would require a considerable amount of stock, but the almost unprecedented continuation of outrageous weather, coupled this week with a general holiday, has so interfered with work that ordinary sources of demand are practically closed. Even that influence, however, might be partly neutralized were it not for the full run of arrivals coming to hand, tow after tow, until the accumulation has become disgustingly liberal, and sellers labor under a disadvantage against which it is difficult even with the best of management to introduce an offset. No one, however, appears to have become so demoralized as to resort to direct pressure, and there is a strain of hope regarding the chances for the early future. Should the clerk of the weather by any chance take it into his head to give us something respectable in his line for awhile, it is almost certain that a demand for brick will develop, while on the other hand it looks as though supplies might become less oppressive. It is generally understood that if boats from far up river points succeed in making another round trip, it will be their last, and as the Haverstraw makers are dissatisfied with any shading of $7 there is a probability that they may curtail shipments also. Some of the shrewd dealers are not unmindful of these features, nor of the comparatively low cost ruling, and where there is storage room available quietly pile away such desirable cargoes as they can get hold of. Pales have also been almost too plenty to admit of a clean, close sale, and while the price remains much the same as for some time past it is less solidly supported.

LATH.—No change of a quotable character has occurred since our last, but the market holds its own well, and the reports from receivers retain the old firm and confident tone. Some, indeed, now refuse to sell before arrival, especially of stock a little distance off, believing the natural course of the market sufficiently on the upward scale to warrant such action, and one or two making quite extreme suggestions as to what they expect. It is claimed with an apparently reasonable basis that dealers carry only fair stocks, and if the stories of light shipments be true sellers certainly have the advantage.

LIME.—Arrivals have been somewhat smaller up to present writing, yet without any special complaint arising in consequence. The previous fleet put a considerable amount into the hands of dealers, and as the weather has prevented distribution with any freedom into consumptive channels the accumulation is reasonably full, so that additional arrivals of any magnitude would for the time being prove somewhat difficult to handle. The price, however, remains unchanged, with no one admitting any special allowance in the matter of contracts.

LUMBER.—On the general line of trade doing the Conditions remain very much as noted previously and the market has nothing really newswy. Business in a wholesale way is getting down into smaller compass every week as a natural feature of the season, but the selling side retains advantage readily enough upon anything really desirable, as the contraction of the deal is due more to the lessened supplies and facilities for moving them than to the falling off in demand. Not that buyers could be found for a large and general assortment, but as we have frequently noted there is a great many deficiencies in assortment and stuff that would fill in and could be depended upon to secure a reasonably prompt measure of attention and command full bids. Consumption is keeping up to about expectations; but dealers anticipate that new orders will fall away somewhat until after the turn of the year.

Eastern Spruce appears to be looked upon by receivers as simply a sure sale, with the probabilities against any necessary reduction on the line of value, especially for the better qualities. Once in a while there is something said about spruce being displaced by other woods; but when a substitute is really used it generally turns out to be a case of necessity rather than of choice, and consumers come back to spruce as soon as they can get it. This has been proven a number of times during the season, and is still indorsed by the fact that dealers would pay a big price to obtain additions of large size stock to yard accumulation, who have plenty of other stuff claimed to be "just as good."

Piling remains firm in tone for all standard sizes, and it is claimed that about all now expected forward is practically under engagement. There is a fair quantity in chains; but it has been carefully selected and is under good ownership, with the carrying confident against winter and spring trade. Clothes poles, scaffolding, etc., all retain a firm market and are not in abundant stock.

Hemlock is not in broad or active demand, yet inquiries are frequent enough to give considerable character to the market, and the position is healthy. A great deal of the business is now on the special order which brings out a call somewhat more particular in selection of quality, size and time of delivery, and operators in a position to meet all the exacting requirements have a considerable advantage.

White Pine has a very good general market. Operators so disposed might find an opportunity to pick a flaw in the market here and there, but there are plenty of dealers who find it a good enough wood to handle and the size of some of the accumulations indicates what is expected during the winter and up to the reopening of navigation next season. Furthermore, some of the agents representing interior markets express considerable confidence in ability to place car lots with buyers who, having failed to obtain a drop in value as anticipated, now feel that they must get some stock. Most advices at hand indicate pretty good accumulations of stock, larger than usual at the close of the season.

Yellow Pine continues to be well managed and the market kept in good, healthy condition. Demand seems to fluctuate a little with its favors and dealers occasionally complain, but their loss is pretty sure to be balanced by a gain in some other quarter and a good average maintained. It is expected that transportation facilities will be larger and probably somewhat less costly, but the price of timber is not yet affected thereby.

Carolina Pine is not so generally active as some of the custom having accumulated stock against winter wants is less anxious. Sellers, however, claim that the wood is just as much in favor as ever and consider the business doing as fully satisfactory and report prices sustained without difficulty.

Hardwoods are without any particularly brilliant feature, yet are holding their own with the rest of Contractors' Notes.

Proposals for building a sea wall on North Brother Island will be received by the Commissioners of the Health Department, at No. 301 Mott street, until 2.30 o'clock P. M., of the third day of December, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read by said commissioners.

In the matter of electric lighting and supplying gas fixtures Bergmann & Co., of No. 65 5th avenue, have achieved a high reputation. Thos. A. Edison, the great electrician, is president of the company, which has fitted up with the necessary electrical appliances many of our important metropolitan buildings. Among these may be mentioned the Corbin and Aldrich Court buildings, the superb residence of Isaac V. Brokaw on 5th avenue and 79th street, Thos. Stokes' house at No. 8 West 53d street, the Broadway Theatre, Amberg's Theatre and a host of other buildings. They supply estimates for lighting all kinds of rooms and buildings.

G. Bickelhaupt, of Nos. 243 and 245 West 47th street, the well-known manufacturer of the Patent Metallic Skylight, has issued a card to the trade, in which he refers to some persons whom he says are doing business under the name of the "Bickelhaupt Skylight Works," and announces that he has no connection with them; that he is the only successor of Adam Bickelhaupt the only one manufacturing metallic skylights. He says the use of the name of the Bickelhaupt Skylight Works is intended to deceive the trade.

Bound Volumes of the Record and Guide.

Subscribers and others can purchase at this office years 1887 and 1888 of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, handsomely bound in half morocco. This is a rare chance for real estate men who cannot afford to wait while their RECORDS are being bound. Volume XLIII, the first half of 1889, or any other single volume in 1888 or 1889, can be had for $4.75 per volume, or $9.50 per year.

Strong, neat binders, especially made for THE RECORD AND GUIDE can be obtained at this office. Those of our subscribers who wish to keep a file of the numbers in a compact form and in regular sequence, can have the binder delivered at their office on receipt of order by postal card. The price is one dollar.

the market and sellers appear satisfied. Poplar for general use has the most pronounced demand and really good stock commands full enough rates to give it a firm position though, the reports of cutting on price are still indulged in. Cherry is doing well if fine, also quartered oak, ash and now and then maple flooring. Mahogany is also a prime favorite and gets considerable interior demand. Export trade fair, and especially so in choice goods, the foreign markets having a tendency to slaughter inferior stuff.

Shingles on home account not very active, but now and then get a fair order for cedar or cypress. The export deal, however, is reported in very good shape, and promising to continue on probably comparatively small orders have but now and then some pretty good f. o. b. orders for West India shipments from Southern ports.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

The demand on wholesale yard stocks, and the distribution of lumber from mill to retail dealer and consumer, the country over, since October 1, in spite of the scarcity of cars, has been fully up to the average in former seasons. Whatever may be said about this being a dull year for the lumber trade, the statement here made about recent distributive business cannot be successfully controverted. It is as true of Southern pine as of Northern, and pertains to all sections. The year is closing with a healthy and large demand for assorted stocks from second hands or mills that distribute direct.

The improved requirement has come so late in the season that it has had very little effect on the heavy holdings at white pine producing points. Wholesale dealers had settled it among themselves that they would not this fall do as they did in the closing months of last year—in for all the stock they could buy. The result has been no bidding up for stocks, and the manufacturers have failed to sell as much lumber on dock for next spring's delivery as usual, and late consignments have not netted as much money as they anticipated. The cargo market on Lake Michigan is likely to close with prices of dimension fully 50 cents a thousand lower than last year at the finish, and common inch $1 lower. On the Saginaw River the docks are loaded up with lumber, a larger percentage than usual of which is unsold.

The week was a quiet one at the Chicago market docks. The weather had been bad for handling lumber in the yards, and dealers did not like to receive under such circumstances. The result was that such loads as came had to be worked off by a good deal of telephonic and personal solicitation, unless the offering was piece stuff; such lumber has gone quickly enough. One concern was in the market this week for a half a dozen loads of dimension, but it was difficult to get boats to go after the lumber. Sailing craft are lying up after they get in and unload, and the dependence hereafter will be mainly on steam barges. Charters by that means of transportation are not often easily made. The tendency is to an early closing. The prices offered by the yard men are not sufficiently enticing to induce a large shipment from now on.

There is a loud call for good strips, but the supply is meager. Shipments are still largely of coarse inch, which runs a heavy percentage to boards and No. 2 fencing. No. 1 lumber is wanted in quantity larger than is forthcoming.

Piece stuff is still selling at $9.50 for short lengths, where the tally is fair. The market appears to have hardened at that point, and is likely to remain there until the close of the season. It may be that a few loads will sell at an advance of a quarter as the season is about closing, but there does not appear to be any influence at work to start prices upward. A cargo of dry piece stuff was lately sold at $9.75 a thousand.

Upon the Chicago yard market the Timberman says:

A leading white pine dealer of this city gives it as his opinion that general stocks will be lighter at the close of navigation this year than last. He had no figures to give, except as to his own yard, which will show about 18,000,000 feet, against 29,000,000 feet a year ago. He stated further that it was an opinion formed from general observation, and the number of inquiries passing between yards.

At any rate, the exchange figures show there was very little difference in the stocks on hand November 1, and the general belief is that shipments this month will be larger, and receipts smaller than in November, 1888.

That trade is good for this season of the year is evidenced by the number of cars being hauled to and from the district. The tracks have been well filled nearly every day, and yard hands are kept busy loading them.

There are no special features to speak of in the hardwood trade this week. Matters are moving along quietly and business is reasonably fair. The aggregate of trade this month has been quite large, but it is still evenly distributed. This may be accounted for by the fact that many of the yards are adopting the practice of not letting a customer go elsewhere if they can make a sale at anything like a reasonable profit, and these yards are doing a good business. Those that insist on having the larger profits must be content with a smaller share of the trade.

CANADA.

The Toronto Monetary Times says:

We learn that there is a considerably larger amount than usual of unsold lumber on hand at Ottawa. In the lower grades prices have weakened somewhat. This is accounted for by competition from Michigan. On most classes of lumber, however, prices are more likely to be lower than higher in the near future, and but for the circumstance recently alluded to that the stocks were in the hands of men well able to hold them, a drop in price would have probably come before now.

Stocks of square timber in Quebec are said to be much lighter than the average, so that unless there is a falling off in the demand or an enormous overproduction our fear for the near future of prices of timber may not be realized. The season, so far, in the bush, has been very favorable for the manufacture of timber, and the work is well advanced. One estimate recently published gives 25 per cent. more timber than last year as the probable output, with about 1,500,000 fewer logs, the larger proportion of this drop being caused by Eddy not cutting. It is estimated that in the Ottawa country altogether there are 10,000 men in the bush.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Timber Trades Journal reports:

American Black Walnut.—The condition of trade in this is encouraging; the best qualities are certainly most in request, but all descriptions share in the general improvement.

American Whitewood.—In this there is again a good inquiry for cabinet-making purposes, and we understand that some transactions by private contract have taken place quite recently.

American Oak.—Transactions of late have been more satisfactory both as regards turnover and price. It appears to be the general opinion that by far too large a supply of narrow stuff has been sent forward, as, though there are many uses for it, there is yet a limit to the requirements of the trade here.

American Satin Walnut.—The condition of trade in this has not altered much; figury wood is still inquired for, but plain and poor stuff does not, and indeed is never likely, to sell very freely. A noticeable feature in this year's Clyde imports is the greatly increased amount of spoolwood brought in from America. This new development is having a markedly prejudicial effect on the home producers, some mills being compelled to stop from inability to compete with the foreign supply.

NAILS.—Dealings are at times somewhat erratic, because buyers adhere closely to the cautious methods, but generally business is reported as satisfactory and the market in good shape. The supply seems to be well controlled, and there is a continuous hint of further additions to cost, though buyers say they will strongly contest such an attempt. We quote at $2.10 @ 2.15 per keg for car lots, and $2.30 @ 2.35 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Running along the list of staple goods in the way of paints, colors, etc., one of our local jobbers pointed out nearly every grade of prominence as meeting with some attention, while exceptionally, as in the case of leads, there was claimed a full seasonable movement. As a natural adjunct was to be found the report of steady prices all around and an indisposition to force trading, all of which finds natural reflection upon the wholesale market. Linseed Oil has sold somewhat irregularly, but the market was kept well enough in hand to preserve steady values. We quote at 57¢ @ 58¢ for Western, and 60¢ @ 62¢ for City. Spirits Turpentine has advanced somewhat since our last, but the movement of stock is slow and confined mainly to small lots as wanted by dealers. We quote at 46½¢ @ 47½¢ per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Some fair contracts have been made for tar, and about steady rates, but otherwise the market remains quiet. Local supplies are only fair, and holders indifferent operators. We quote Pitch at $1.40 @ 1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.25 @ 2.50, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corre sponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

DECEMBER 7, 1889.

No. 1,134.

For the immediate future the course of the market will depend largely upon the actions of Congress. The larger issues before our national Legislature this year all have an important economic bearing, and prices will vary according to the temper or the result of the debates. As definite action is not likely in any case, the effect will probably be to make operators hesitate, and consequently to smother for a time any active speculation. This will be particularly the case during December—a month that is occupied in introducing bills which may or may not come up for discussion, but the simple presence of which on the calendar will make a person uneasy. December is generally a month in Wall street of low prices, and this year is not likely to prove an exception, although the irregularity of the market throughout the fall does not encourage one to make predictions too confidently. Business throughout the country has an extremely favorable outlook, and this week the dry-goods interest in certain lines of domestics, which of late has been extremely dull, is looking up. The export trade with China, which both Republicans and Democrats have united to kill with their hostile legislation, has been of late extremely unsatisfactory, and the Eastern mills have missed their usual trade with this empire. It is to be hoped that the action of the Chamber of Commerce, at its meeting on Thursday last, will bring to the minds of Congressmen the necessity of legislating for something besides votes.

Originally it was intended that the message from the President to Congress should be distinctly of a higher character than a political manifesto. It has come, however, to be regarded as so purely a party document, that, as a rule, it receives little but party applause or party denunciation. President Harrison has been no more fortunate with his message and the treatment it received than his predecessors were with theirs. Before his message appeared it could have been foretold with certainty that, no matter what the character of it was, the Republican press and the supporters of the administration would hail it as "a masterly document," or something of that kind; "straightforward," of course, "courageous and statesmanlike." Democratic criticism, it could with equal certainty have been predicted, would find it "the weakest message that has ever been given to an expectant and intelligent people; platitudinous, vague and (naturally) insincere." In a general way this is what has been said about President Harrison's message. The Tribune, to take an example, says: "President Harrison's first message is a plain, candid and entirely unpretentious review of public affairs. Its most striking characteristic is an absence of pretense, exaggeration or rhetorical flourish, and there is no attempt to enlarge upon especial topics for the sake of catching temporary popular applause or partisan advantage. It has the tone throughout of conscious strength and sincerity, and of profound conviction that the people will unwaveringly sustain the national policies to which they gave approval by their votes one year ago." While the Sun views the message in this pleasant way: "For originality, grasp of public questions and sense of perspective in the statement of the condition of national affairs, General Harrison's message compares unfavorably with the first message sent to Congress by Mr. Hayes twelve years ago. This is saying rather a severe thing about General Harrison, but it is strictly true. The weakest man that ever occupied the White House had more to offer to Congress in the way of information and suggestion, and offered it with a more vigorous individuality of thought and expression than the present Chief Executive of the United States can exhibit or command. * * * Nobody would be gladder than the Sun to discover in the President's first important State paper the faintest sign of intellectual promise, the least indication of a power to rise above the deadly dull line of mediocrity. Where is there such a sign? * * * The rest is a scrapbook of comparatively unimportant facts. The wearied eye passes from paragraph to paragraph of geographical, historical and statistical statement, and platitudinous comment. The message is amorphous. Long as it is, it might have been twice as long on the same principle of construction, and neither more nor less valuable. Or the whole of it might have been left unwritten without the slightest detriment to the peace and honor of the country or the prosperity and security of the people, and without the slightest loss to the Fifty first Congress, now assembled for the business of legislation."

This kind of criticism is, of course, perfectly familiar to the public. But the fact that this is practically the only kind of criticism accorded to Presidential messages, that they have come to be regarded solely as partisan utterances, and are without weight with the public or influence with Congress, raises the question whether it would not be wise to dispense with the Presidential message, or at any rate dispense with it in its present form. It may safely be said, that no Presidential message of recent years succeeded in changing the opinion of a single voter on any one subject, neither has legislation of any kind been promoted or hastened, nor has the attention of the country been drawn to consider, as otherwise it would not have been considered, a single question of public policy. The fact is, the Presidential message has become merely a lengthy and usually most uninteresting restatement of the views of the political party successful in the previous campaign. Nothing new is proposed or disclosed. The cabinet has nothing to say that the party has not already proclaimed from one end of the country to the other. The only difference is, that in the message and the reports of the Secretaries, the vivacious political tone is missing, and is replaced by a style that more closely resembles that of an annual report of a pious missionary society than any thing else.

President Harrison's message is of this character: It presents the party view of the Behring-Straits difficulty, the Samoan treaty, the silver question, tariff revision, the reduction of the surplus by repealing the tax on tobacco and the tax on alcohol used in the arts, the Dependent Pension bill, the Blair educational scheme, Southern elections and subsidies. What is said on these matters is mainly in the nature of generalities. They are not as cogent or as convincing as what was said on the same subjects during the last campaign. The only new recommendation that the President makes is that to raise the dignity of our ministers in Bolivia, Paraguay, Uruguay, Hayti and the Hawaiian Islands, and that to establish an intermediate court below the Supreme Court, to have jurisdiction over a certain class of cases. The last recommendation is excellent, and a bill should be introduced at once into Congress to carry it into effect. Nothing referred to in the message is of any greater importance. It is to be regretted that the President did not ignore party exigencies and discountenance, or at least be silent concerning, the Dependent Pension bill. This is perhaps the most offensive raid on the National Treasury of recent times, and the indiscriminate bounty it extends has been as roundly denounced by Republican journals and the self-respecting element in the G. A. R. as by any others. While the President is favorably disposed towards silver, what he says is not decided enough to please silver men, though, as Secretary Windom points out in his report, which by the way is one of the best that has ever been submitted to Congress, there is very little that can be done under the conditions that exist at this moment to restore silver to its former position. The Treasury purchases of silver have not prevented the price from declining within the last ten years from nearly 55 pence an ounce to an average price of 42.49 pence during the fiscal year ending last June.

Mr. John Beverley Robinson has received a great deal of censure for certain statements made in a minority report of the Committee of the Architectural League, in which he declared himself not only against the supposition at the basis of the building laws, viz.: that the State is theoretically justified in interfering with the property rights of citizens when such rights implied the erection of buildings endangering the life, health and happiness of their occupants, but asserted that it was the "duty of an architect to evade the law in the interests of his client." This is certainly a most astounding statement—one which can be excused only by the evident sincerity of the man who made it. Mind you, architects are not merely justified in evading the law, but it is their duty to do so just as it is their duty to fear God and shame the devil. Every architect who does not do so, provided the interests of his clients warrant the evasion, is an immoral man. Conversely every lean and hungry Buddensieck in the city is treading the narrow path of righteousness. We are not sorry that Mr. Robinson has had the courage to make this statement, for it simply shows to what an extreme a fanatical adherence to the doctrine of laissez faire may bring a man. No mere time-server is John Beverley Robinson.

It is difficult, however, to criticise his statement good-humoredly. The Times has commented on it in a way that was more denunciatory than critical, and the Committee on the Building Laws has doubted even whether it deserved the notice of censure. For our part we should like to see a further elucidation of such remarkable views. In order to do Mr. Robinson the fullest justice we will admit that there is a high moral ground which justifies a man, not merely in denouncing a law, but in defying the authorities to execute it. If Mr. Robinson wishes to play the part of a New York architectural Antigone by defying the building law and following the mightier law "that in the high empyrean has its birth," we may respect motives, although we should certainly believe that in this case the "still small voice" had proved to be a fallacious counsellor. In discussing the matter, as we have said, a little further elucidation would be very useful. Mr. Robinson's statement, as it stands, is plainly nonsense, for the interests of a client that rendered desirable the erection of a building that would be condemned by the law would be opposed by other interests that would lead him to the immorality of obeying the wicked statute. It is that dirty phrase, "interests of his client," that makes us look with particular disfavor on Mr. Robinson's assertion. If our New York Antigone had only said that it was the duty of the architect to evade the law in the interest of the glorious principle of individual liberty, then he would have been securely fortified in a moral Gibraltar. But to evade the law and endanger health and happiness that some old skinflint might save money!

Another interpretation may be put on Mr. Robinson's words, and in order to do him the fullest justice we will see where that interpretation leads him. It would be open for him to reply that by the private interests of his client, he meant only the client's reputable interests, that it would be just as much an architect's duty to himself and to the public to put up a safe and healthy building, as it would be to evade the law when the interests of a client demanded an evasion which did not endanger safety and health. If this is Mr. Robinson's meaning, that phrase, the "interests of a client," is not so dirty as it looks; but we cannot see that his position is any less absurd, for it would still be incumbent on him to show how anybody's interest could lead him to erect a building in a way which, if discovered, would mean its condemnation. Consequently, the evasion of the law, if it remain a duty, must be a duty for some other reason. And if Mr. Robinson persists in thinking that he is under moral obligation to defy the statute, he will, as we have said, place himself on the back of a principle which has been popular among heroes and anarchists, but which has been comparatively little credited among architects.

New Yorkers, their papers and their officials, are, as it were, dipped into a pond of perplexity over this subway business. The most recent calamity makes it exceedingly doubtful whether the measures on which we are all depending for relief may not be one which will be entirely futile. It is beginning to be realized (how long before it will be realized) that the whole matter has been shamefully mismanaged. What sane business man on earth, if he intended to extend his trade by opening, say a retail store, would put the management of the new venture into the hands of an inexperienced lawyer or an ignorant butcher? What railroad would give the care of its freight traffic to a man who had served his apprenticeship by writing letters for the President? What organization on earth, except a politician-ridden municipality, would commit the protection of its supporters, in a business that essentially required expert knowledge, to men as ignorant originally of the matter as Dock Commissioner Post is of the workings of his own department? One of the curses of democratic government is, as John Stuart Mill said, that any man is supposed to be fitted for anything. What is the result? Three individuals, who might have known an arc from an incandescent light, or an electric current from the sparkle of a glass of champagne, are put in charge of a matter that if mismanaged would threaten the lives of many New Yorkers and the comfort of all! What have they done? They have dallied and squabbled until they were forced into hasty action. A pretty spectacle it makes.

Traffic on Broadway has been continually blocked lately, owing to the laying of these subways. We are suffering every manner of inconvenience, and have no guarantee that the whole work will not have to be done again before many years are out. It is not possible that work undertaken so hurriedly simply to meet an urgent situation will be well done, or will be found equal to future as well as to present needs. The fact of the matter is, that between the politicians who want a good thing, the electric light companies who want fat dividends, the public who have a right to a good service and a certain amount of safety, have to be satisfied with a minimum of both. The same money which has been spent in building the present subways, in cutting down poles, and in paying for a worse than useless commission, might, if honestly expended, have constructed a subway large enough to contain all the underground pipes which New York needs, whether for gas or electricity—a system of pipes which could be lighted all along and thoroughly inspected at regular intervals. If the municipality itself would assume, as is ought to assume, the responsibility for lighting the whole city we should not have the eternal bother of forcing the electric light companies to do what ought to have been done at first. Or if we still persist in the folly simply of a supervisory commission, let us have one selected from the many electrical experts which the city contains, and let provision be made, not merely for temporary needs, but on some larger and more comprehensive plan, which will take account of the fact that electricity will be used continually, more variously and more universally.

The Taxation of Improved and Unimproved Property.

A recent number of Henry George's paper, the Standard, contained a list of ten parcels of improved and nine parcels of unimproved property which had recently changed hands, as shown by the "conveyances and sales of the week" published in THE RECORD AND GUIDE of October 19th. The figures at which the parcels were sold was accompanied by the assessed valuation of each piece, and it was shown that while the improved property was taxed on a basis of 54 per cent. of the price at which it was sold, the unimproved property or vacant lots was taxed on a basis of only 39 per cent. of the price obtained at sales thereof. We give herewith the Standard's list which we have verified, both as to the price at which the various parcels were sold and the figures at which they are assessed, and have found them to be correct with one exception, i. e. the price of three lots on East 104th street being given as $11,800 instead of $9,050.

From the foregoing it will be seen that on improved property the lowest figure at which any of the parcels are taxed is 34½ per cent., and the highest 91½ per cent., while on the vacant lots the highest percentage is only 62½, and the lowest 25 per cent.

In order to test the matter still further and ascertain beyond doubt whether the properties above quoted were a picked lot, or whether improved property is taxed more heavily than vacant lots, we have selected eight parcels of the former and a like number of the latter from the list of conveyances published in THE RECORD AND GUIDE on Nov. 23d, and here follow the items, embracing, as in the former list, the prices at which each parcel was sold, the figure at which each is assessed, and the percentage of tax. A summary of all the figures discloses the following facts:

	No. Parcels.	Total Realized by Sales.	Total Assessed Valuation.	Percent. of Tax.
Improved property.....	8	$349,859	$211,500	60½
Unimproved property...	8	354,300	104,050	29½

Which is practically the same result as that obtained by the Standard. Some of the improved parcels are taxed very heavily. For example, No. 5 East 57th street, which was sold at $110,000 is taxed on $100,000. There is not a very great difference in the percentage of tax laid on unimproved property, although it is rather remarkable that a plot of eleven lots on Madison avenue and 117th street, recently sold by Vice-President Levi P. Morton at $125,000, should be taxed on only $21,500, while a single lot near by on 118th street, which was sold at $5,000, is taxed on $2,600.

Eleven Months of Real Estate.

The figures of conveyances, mortgages and buildings projected during the first eleven months of the current year show at a glance what a considerable increase there has been in the volume of real estate transactions and in the building movement of 1889 as compared with the corresponding eleven months of last year. The number of conveyances from January 1 to November 30 inclusive was 13,841 as compared with 11,034 during the same period in 1888, while in value this year they aggregated the enormous sum of $246,151,732 as against $197,813,431; an increase of $48,338,301, or nearly 20 per cent. over 1888. The average amount per conveyance in 1889 was $17,784, while last year it was $17,927, showing that though the number of transactions was larger the average was almost the same. The transfers in the 23d and 24th Wards numbered 2,591 this year as against 1,913 last year, and they aggregated in amount $10,890,364 as against $7,161,555, the average amount per conveyance being $4,203 this year as compared with $3,743 last year. The number of conveyances for nominal considerations increased from 2,557 to 3,141, being over 22 per cent. of the total number of conveyances for the year; that is to say, more than one in every five transfers of real estate did not state the amount for which the property was conveyed. The following are the figures :

The mortgages show a total number of 18,080 as compared with 11,962, and their aggregate amount $165,607,507 as compared with $132,512,995. The continued feature of the mortgage market is the increasing number of loans at rates of interest under 5 per cent. per annum. This year they were 1,651 in number and $34,061,564 in amount, while last year, in the corresponding eleven months, they were only 1,009 in number and $19,863,916 in amount, showing an increase in the one case of 63 per cent. and in the other case of 71 per cent. Indeed, of the total amount of the mortgages recorded this year over 20 per cent. was at rates of interest under 5 per cent. per annum. This is an extraordinary showing when it is remembered that scarcely ten years ago a loan on real estate at any figure from 4 to less than 5 per cent. was almost unknown, and that only five years ago loans under 5 per cent. were few and far between. The banks, trust and insurance companies loaned $46,487,884 as compared with $41,541,835 last year, an increase of $4,946,049. The figures follow :

The projected buildings for the eleven months show that we have had one of the largest building years in our history. No less than 3,455 buildings were projected at an estimated cost of $66,469,336. Last year the number was 2,877 and the estimated cost $43,598,978. So that this year there has been an increase over 1888 in the former item of 20 per cent. and in the latter item of 52 per cent. This shows that the cost has increased greater in proportion than the number. Indeed, the average estimated cost for buildings last year was $15,154 while this year it was $19,238, an increase of nearly 27 per cent. per building. These figures include the 23d and 24th Wards, or they would show a higher average estimated cost. During the past eleven months there has been a general increase in the number and cost of projected buildings in the various sections of the city. This has been of an extraordinary character in one or two sections. For instance, on the west side, between 59th and 125th streets, west of 8th avenue, the number was 811 as compared with 473 in 1888, and the estimated cost $20,545,700 as against only $9,359,500 last year. In the section between the Battery and 14th street, taking in the whole of the city south of 14th street, the number was 462 against 329 and the estimated cost $14,823,595 against $8,737,977, showing that the buildings in the office and other great business neighborhoods have been more costly than those projected in 1888. The same holds good for the section between 14th and 59th streets, where there has been an increase of $2,698,066 in the contemplated cost, with a decrease of 35 in the number. North of 125th street a substantial advance may be recorded, while the 23d and 24th Wards have held their own well. The following are the figures :

Of the 217 buildings planned 160 will be built south of the Harlem River, divided as follows : 29 private houses, 97 flats and tenements, 10 hotels, stores, churches, office buildings, etc., and 24 miscellaneous buildings, comprising factories, stables, shops, sheds, etc. The tables show that not a single private house was planned to be built between 59th and 125th streets, east of 5th avenue, while 16 will be erected between the same streets west of 8th avenue. Nearly 50 per cent. of all the plans filed call for the erection of flats and tenements. Sixty-two of the 97 flats and tenements projected will be built by builders, architects and dealers in builders' supplies. Here is a list of the most costly buildings embraced in the November filings:

Notes on the Transfers and Mortgages of the Month.

The filings for November embraced very many important transactions, both in the way of sales and exchanges of property, mortgage loans and new buildings projected. One fact that is more strongly brought out by a careful scrutiny of these filings than any other is the firm manner in which down-town properties are held, and the advancing figures at which such realty is constantly changing hands. Then again great confidence in values is displayed by the leading fiduciary institutions, as is shown by the mortgage loans, the largest and most important of which are given elsewhere. The total number of buildings planned was 217, to cost $4,001,905, and of these 29 were dwellings to be built south of the Harlem, at an estimated cost of $574,800.

BUSINESS PROPERTY.

Here is a piece of business property which changed hands at $70,000 against $58,000 obtained therefor last January:

John st, No. 75, 25x96.11, four-story stone front factory. Helen L. P. Stokes. $70,000

The sale which follows shows how valuable real estate on Greene street has become:

Greene st, Nos. 132 and 134, 38.1x100.4, six-story brick (iron front) factory. David Greenberger. $133,000

East of Broadway good prices are also obtained, which is evidenced by the following sale, which will be followed by an improvement:

Crosby st, No. 53, 25.1x99.6. Horgan & Slattery, buyers (builders). $20,000

Along Broadway, south of 20th street, there have been some sales, of which these are fair specimens:

Broadway, n w cor 11th st, 76.6x221.9x irreg., five-story brick stone building. James McCreery. $750,000

Broadway, No. 861, w s, 53 n 17th st, 25x90x irreg., four-story brick store. David L. Einstein. 130,000

On lower 8th avenue property sells very well, as this transfer indicates:

8th av, No. 73, w s, 103.1 n 13th st, 25.9x100, four-story brick tenement with store. A. B. Cross. 36,300

In the way of store property we give the sale of a parcel at $400,000, which is leased for a term of eleven-and-a-quarter years, from February 1, 1885, at $18,000 per annum:

23d st, Nos. 28 and 30 W., 50x98.9. } Wm. N.
22d st, Nos. 19 and 21 W., 50x98.9. } Cohen. $400,000
Four six-story and two two-story brick stores.

COSTLY DWELLINGS.

This list includes the houses which sold for $50,000 or more:

72d st, No. 48 W.	Leonard F. Beckwith.	75,000
Madison av, No. 220.	Wm. Bourke Cockran.	65,000

26th st, No. 5 E.	I. T. Burden.	130,000

FLATS.

This sale shows an advance of $12,500 over the figures at which it changed hands less than a year ago:

74th st, s w cor 9th av, 25x102.2, five-story brick flat with four stores. Dickson G. Watts. 84,500

77th st, s e cor 9th av, 30x102.2.	Wm. H. Gelshenen.	38,950

The foregoing sales show that values are still increasing. On the 9th avenue parcels there is shown a large advance, as the same lots were sold at the Jones sale in November, 1888, at $13,950 and $14,000, compared with $17,000 and $20,000 recently realized. The purchase on 72d and 73d streets by Richard M. Hooley, the Chicago theatrical manager, may indicate that he intends to make this city his future home. It will interest our readers to know that Al. Hayman, the San Francisco theatrical manager, has bought a plot adjoining Mr. Hooley's. Relative to the last lot quoted it may be said that in 1884 six lots on this corner were sold for a total of $58,750.

EAST SIDE LOTS.

Lots east of the park also sell well, and at least one of these transactions shows a neat profit:

78th st, s s, 150 w 3d av, 4 lots.	Oscar T. Marshall.	90,000
77th st, n s, 150 w 3d av, 4 lots.

Assessed Valuations.

The Standard recently selected a number of sales of vacant and improved properties in this city and compared the prices obtained with the assessed valuations. Ten parcels of each class of real estate were selected and it was found that proportionately the vacant property was assessed at 89 per cent. of its selling price, and the improved property at 54 per cent. of its selling price. Several correspondents have asked us for an explanation of what appears to be an injustice, and the matter is discussed in another column of this issue.

Tax Commissioner Coleman was called upon, and was asked if there was any leniency shown by the assessors toward vacant property. A correspondent suggested that ground which contributed taxes toward the city and which did not yield a return deserved to be assessed in a lower proportion than property which yielded an income considerably over and above the taxes paid to the city.

"No," said Mr. Coleman. "We treat all property alike. There is no law which tells us to discriminate in favor of either class of property, nor is there any tacit understanding in this department that vacant property shall be favored because it is not income-producing. We tax every parcel on its merits. The cases which the Standard selected as a criterion of assessed valuations, while they may show in favor of the vacant property, are not necessarily a proof that there is a general assessment in favor of unimproved real estate all over the city. The real reason for these apparent discrepancies lies in the fact of the rapid increase of values in some neighborhoods. We may assess a number of vacant lands this year, and if sold next year they may bring double the price at which they were valued at the time the assessors examined them. This may result from many causes. The street may be sewered during the next year; a bridge may be built near by; a new street opened contiguous; a handsome row of houses built adjoining, and so forth. So that an assessment which appears just to-day may seem too low next year."

"But suppose I could pick out a plot of ground on a certain street and show you a plot within a few hundred feet away where the assessed valuation was lower, would that prove that there had been a discrimination in favor of the latter?"

"Not by any means," said Mr. Coleman. "You would find, on examination, that there was a reason for the difference. The one plot would be found to have sewer connection, better sidewalks, or some other improvements attached to it—excavations, for instance—which made it a much more desirable parcel for immediate improvement, and worth considerably more money than the other plot. The assessors would naturally and justly tax such a plot higher than the one which had not such improvements. Of course the owners might object. But if they come to us with their objections we would send them back to examine both plots, and they would then find out the reason for the assessments on their lots being higher than on the less valuable lots near by. The same holds good with a vacant lot which has an improved property adjoining it. The vacant lot, on the face of it, might seem not to be taxed as highly as the lot on which the improvement is; but on a proper examination it would be found that thousands of dollars were spent to excavate the improved lot, and connect it with the sewers and gas pipes, not to speak of flagging and other expenditures, which the vacant lot had not had the advantage of. The assessors obtain these facts, and it would be as absurd as it would be unjust to tax the vacant lot as highly, proportionately, as the improved one. Yet any one picking out these examples from the records, and not knowing the conditions governing each parcel, is very likely to make the superficial error of imagining that there is a discrimination in favor of the vacant lot."

"It is said that lots which have advanced in value have not had their assessments changed for some years."

"Well, I am not aware of any of such cases. We make a great effort here to keep the assessed valuation, fairly up to the mark. Sometimes the march of improvement may get ahead of us. If any assessments are unfair or inadequate, we will be glad to hear from property-owners who feel aggrieved, and if there are grievances we will immediately rectify them. We are only too anxious to have the proper assessments levied."

"Have you a sufficient staff to cover the immense number of properties in the 24th Ward?"

"Well," said Mr. Coleman somewhat dubiously, "we are closely pressed. Still, I think that we cover the city pretty thoroughly."

Mr. Coleman, among the instances of increased values, referred to a case in which lots recently sold in one of the up-town wards for $9,000 which would have been gladly given away for $3,000 five years ago. This showed the difficulty of always having assessed valuations up to the mark.

The Real Estate Exchange Election.

The Real Estate Exchange annual election will take place on Monday, the 9th inst., at 1 P. M. The regular ticket nominated will, it is said, only be partly elected, as the opposing ticket will carry at least five men, if not more. The polls will be open from 1 until 4 o'clock P. M.

New Members.

The following gentlemen were elected by the directors of the Real Estate Exchange on Tuesday: Stock members, Alex. D. Duff and C. L. Tyng; annual member, John Lindley; non-resident member, B. F. Hammett, St. Louis, Mo.

The viaduct at 155th street has become an imperative necessity. The local property-owners want it, the local residents want it, the city needs it, and the public officials are all in its favor; Mayor Grant and Commissioner Gilroy included. There is some small obstacle in the way, and the Corporation Counsel is considering it. That gentleman should hurry up and send in his opinion to the Mayor at once. The contracts should be let out at the beginning of 1890 and the work commenced by the spring. It is intolerable that one should have to climb or descend 200 feet every time one has to journey between the 155th street "L" road station and St. Nicholas avenue and the territory west of it.

The Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange.

Another meeting of citizens was held at the office of Leonard Moody, on Wednesday, to confer with members of the Real Estate Exchange and devise a plan for organizing, with capital stock sufficient to erect a suitable building.

After two hours' consultation, it was decided that a building should be erected in the most eligible location to be found, without regard to cost of site, where a structure might be erected to prove a profitable investment, with main room suited for a banqueting hall as well as Exchange. To bring about this desired end it was resolved to solicit subscriptions to the amount of $250,000. Mr. Ziegler headed the list with $5,000, saying he would make it $10,000, or any amount required. Messrs. Moody, Linton, Granger and others followed with large subscriptions.

It is desired that there shall be a general distribution of the stock among bankers, builders, capitalists and brokers, and for this purpose subscription papers are left with Leonard Moody, Jere. Johnson, Jr., D. P. Darling, J. N. Wyckoff, Haviland & Sons, Franklin Trust Company, Kings County Bank, and Commercial Bank.

It is expected that the present Real Estate Exchange will postpone all action in the matter of electing officers until this new stock is subscribed, and a pledge to this effect was made by members present to insure the acceptance of its charter and the co-operation of those who will be entitled to its control.

More Inspectors Needed.

How is it that the President of the Health Department does not ask the Board of Estimate and Apportionment for an appropriation for a few more inspectors in his plumbing and ventilation department? There is still time to do this. There are only thirteen inspectors to look after 2,500 to 3,000 buildings actually under way every day in this city, not to speak of about 100 cases daily to be attended to in all sorts of buildings where complaints are made by tenants. The plumbers and others affected complain about this, and it is time that this most important department of the city should be properly equipped with men. While President Wilson is about it he ought to tell the Board plainly that the salaries of the present inspectors is too meagre, and that $1,500 to $2,000 would be more appropriate for intelligent engineers than $1,260. While on this subject it may be well to urge plumbers not to send to the department for inspectors to pass upon their work until they are perfectly ready for the tests. Inspectors are frequently sent for too far ahead of time, and one case occurred this week where the inspector had called seven times to pass upon a sewer, but it was not, at last accounts, ready for the test. The inspectors are now working over-hours and during the Saturday half-holidays to keep up with the work. But the Board of Estimate and Apportionment should be plainly told that the department which is primarily responsible for the health of the city is shorthanded, and that it is impossible to have all the thousands of cases properly attended to unless the force is increased. If they will ask the Master Plumbers' Association about this they will no doubt be told so in pretty strong language.

Board of Street Opening and Improvement.

At the meeting of the Board of Street Opening and Improvement, held yesterday, the only important matter which came up for consideration was the proposed reduction of the area of Highbridge Park. A committee had been appointed, consisting of Comptroller Meyers, Commissioner of Public Works Gilroy, and President of the Park Department Hutchins, to report on the advisability of the proposed reduction. The report of this committee recommended the reduction of the total area to some 52.62 acres, of which nearly thirty acres are already owned by the municipality, leaving only twenty-two acres to be acquired by condemnation. The grounds for the committee's report were substantially these: That in the first place there were many large property-owners affected by the proposed improvement who favored the reduction; that there were no sanitary reasons which justified so large a park area in a district the configuration of which prevented over-crowding, and that consequently the large expenditure of money necessary was not warranted. An opinion from the Corporation Counsel was read, holding that the city was not liable for any damage to property resulting from a reduction of the area. The report was adopted by the board, with the proviso that a further report should be made upon the boundary lines of one corner.

Getting There at Last.

THE RECORD AND GUIDE has for years been publishing articles on the delays in opening streets in the 23d and 24th Wards, and the slowness with which public improvements are made there, not to speak of the disgraceful condition of many of the streets and crossings. The property-owners and residents are at last stirred up to the importance of reform, and their evidence before the Senate Committee has shown the latter how badly those wards have fared all these years. The committee, indeed, had sufficient evidence of this themselves in their recent tours of inspection.

Two remedies are suggested. One is to create a commissioner or commissioners, with the necessary clerical staff, for those two wards alone, to have offices over the Harlem. It is argued that the Park Department now has its hands full and cannot attend to those distant wards, and that property-owners ought to have the department in their midst instead of having to spend half a day in journeying down town and seeing the proper officials whenever necessary. The other is that the 23d and 24th Wards should be placed in the hands of the Public Works Department, especially in so far as opening streets is concerned. Commissioner Gilroy objects to this. He says his department is overcrowded with work already. Under the circumstances it seems that the best thing to be done is to carry out the first suggestion. The 23d and 24th Wards are about as large as the twenty-two other wards put together, and they ought to form the future residence ground for an immense working and factory population, which is now going to Brooklyn and New Jersey, when it might have been largely retained in New York City had the necessary improvements been made to encourage building in those wards. There is every reason to believe that some legislative enactment will be passed grappling with this question during the coming session.

To Amend the Building Law.

MORE SUGGESTIONS.

The views expressed by architects and builders on the above subject, as published in THE RECORD AND GUIDE on the 23d ultimo, were read with considerable interest among the members of both those professions. Following are a few more opinions:

A Broadway architect said: "The Board of Supervisors ought to be abolished, rather than continue to be as they are now constituted. They ought to be men who should be capable of dealing ably with any new ideas in plans presented by architects. The present board is partly 'old fogyish' and rather too conservative, though I am not now speaking as to the ability of any of its individual members. There is a feeling among builders, as well as architects, that there ought to be smarter men in the Building Department." Referring to points of construction, he said: "Arches that depend largely for their strength upon their cohesiveness should be allowed to be built as the discretion of the superintendent may direct. The Board of Supervisors doesn't think so; but as the main point involved is safe construction, there is no reason why, if safe construction is assured, the superintendent should not have discretion to allow of such arches. Another point that occurs to me is that the building law absolutely fails to protect the owner."

[George Keister said: "A reform needed in the bureaus where we have to file plans, etc., is that architects ought not to be compelled to file three sets of tenement plans, etc., with the departments. One set should be enough. The difficulty is that the health and building departments are in different parts of the city, and this causes us great inconvenience. They should be in the one building. I would suggest: (1) That one set of drawings only be sent in to all the departments, and that these should be a copy of the working drawings. (2) The departments should accept prints instead of tracings. This would save us money and would be more effective for the purposes for which they are required. (3) I would have one set of intelligent and capable inspectors and pay them double the present salaries. These men should be able to oversee plumbing, ventilation and construction. My suggestions as to the plans would save architects the unnecessary expense of getting out superfluous drawings, and my suggestions as to the inspectors would result in greater efficiency in the departments and better satisfaction to owners."

M. V. B. Ferdon said: "Among the many amendments that might be made is this—when light shafts in tenements are constructed three or four feet square they ought not to be made fire-proof. It is a waste of material and an unnecessary expense."

Ernest W. Greis said: "In altering buildings erected under the old law with 12-inch walls, you cannot put an extra story on to such buildings unless you line the wall, as the law calls for a 16-inch front wall. This ought to be changed. If the old walls are strong enough to carry an extra story, why should owners be put to the expense of building a thicker wall when they wish to add another story?"

E. F. Haight, builder, said: "I am working on Browning, King & Co.'s seven-story extension on Elm street, near Broome street. When an application was made to build the extension the department first said we could run it up seven stories high. Then they decided it could not be run up that height unless it was fire-proof. As it was an addition we felt that there was no reason why it should be fire-proof when the main building was not so. It had no separate staircase or entrance. We wanted to go 88 feet high, to the height of the old building, but they would not allow the building to go higher than 80 feet unless made fire-proof."

An architect on 23d street said: "No law can be passed that will cover every point that arises, considering the new ideas continually brought forward by architects and engineers. There should therefore be some discretionary power left to the superintendent that is now relegated to the Board of Supervisors. We cannot always interpret the law clearly. There are cases that arise where we go to the department and say: 'What plans will be passed by you. Tell us, and we will arrange our plans accordingly. The department won't tell you; you are referred to the law. You grope out of it what seems to you the proper thing, and then they throw out your plans. The law should be so clear that we would know exactly what to do. At present owners and architects are put to considerable delay and annoyance due to the dubiousness of the law. I also want to say that the inspectors might be improved upon. These gentlemen sometimes serve you with 'violations' when you know that it is an outrage."

An architect who, like several others, objected to having his name mentioned, said: "How is it that I am served with a violation for constructing something which my neighbor has been allowed to construct, and which I can point out to the superintendent is being constructed in several parts of the city. When the owner comes to me and tells me he is served with violation papers for something which he has seen done elsewhere, what am I to say to him? I presume I might be allowed to do it if I chose to use the means, but I have set my face resolutely against anything of the kind, and if I am going to have anything done it will be as a right and not as a favor."

Chas. Buek said: "I think the law might be reconstructed entirely, from beginning to end, with advantage."

Notes and Items.

To visitors of the Bible House, no less than to the tenants there, it will be something in the way of a relief when the confusion consequent upon the improvements which have been progressing slowly for the past few weeks is done away with, and peace and order have been evoked from its whilom chaotic condition. Frequent callers will welcome the near approach to completion, and be glad when feelings and clothing are no longer liable to injury within its walls.

Application will be made to the Supreme Court, on the 24th of December, in the matter of acquiring all rights, easements and privileges pertaining to the 75 feet of bulkhead on the westerly side of West street, next north of Harrison street.

The Receiver of Taxes gives notice to all persons who have omitted to pay their taxes for the year 1889 that they should pay the same at his office on or before the 1st of January, 1890, and that interest will be charged upon taxes remaining unpaid at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum after January 1.

Notice is given that the bill of costs incurred in acquiring title to that part of Brookline street, extending from Webster avenue to Kingsbridge road, will be presented for taxation to the Supreme Court on December 17th, at 10.30 A. M., and that the said bill has been deposited at the Department of Public Works, there to remain during the space of ten days, after December 4.

The Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the matter of opening 116th street, between Kingsbridge road and 11th avenue, give notice that they will present their report to the Supreme Court, for confirmation, on the 14th of January, and that it has been deposited at the Department of Public Works until the 28th of December. Objections, if any, must be presented on or before that date.

Benjamin A. Kissam, Richard A. Babbage, Isaac N. Falk, Geo. E. Tripp, Wm. B. Boorum, Geo. Burger and Francis Sargent are the incorporators and trustees of the New York Land Improvement and Building Company, with a capital of $100,000. Its object is dealing in real estate and improving the same.

There is great dissatisfaction on the part of owners of houses on the west side at the manner in which the plumbers, carpenters, painters, etc., who have shops or stores in that section do repairs intrusted to them. The owners say, and they are backed up by real estate agents, that nearly all the tradesmen exaggerate small defects, and under the plea there is something radically wrong work up large bills for labor and material. Only on Monday morning the writer was present when a well-known owner stepped into a 9th avenue office to complain of such work as has been mentioned having been attempted by a firm of plumbers, and he declared that the tradesmen stood in their own light, for it would lead to owners going out of the district for men to do their repairs.

The latest dry-goods store to be built on 14th street is that for which excavations are being commenced at Nos. 12 to 16 East. The Spingler estate, as announced in THE RECORD AND GUIDE of December 29th last, are going to build a handsome structure on the site. They have had the old buildings torn down and they will have them replaced by a five-story structure, with a granite and terra cotta front. It will have an elevator, steam heat, etc., and will be 75x206.6 in size. The architects, D'Oench & Simon, estimate the cost at $135,000.

Real Estate Department.

This has been a very quiet week in real estate circles. Sales on 'Change have been few in number and with very few exceptions unimportant. In the way of private sales there has been quite a little negotiating but little completed. We hear of a number of important transactions under way which may be in shape to report next week.

As usual Monday was a dull day on 'Change. Only two sales were bulletined, both foreclosures; one was postponed and the other, a four-story dwelling on the southwest corner of 77th street and 4th avenue, was sold for about the amount of the encumbrances to the plaintiff, who holds a second mortgage.

Tuesday was an active day at the Exchange. Sales were held by six auctioneers and the attendance was very good. The offerings embraced private dwellings, tenements, vacant lots and leaseholds. Nothing costly was included, however, and $25,500 was the highest figure realized for any of the parcels sold.

Wednesday was an off day at the Salesroom. The attendance was small and the offerings were few in number. The most important sale held was that of the five-story store No. 74 Pearl street, corner Coenties slip. E. Shultze was the buyer at $32,750.

There was a large attendance on 'Change Thursday, when many sales were bulletined to be held. Nearly all the offerings were pursuant to Court orders in foreclosure and partition suits. A partition sale of five parcels on Hester, Clinton and Broome streets attracted the largest crowd and all the property was eagerly bid for. Two small houses on Hester street, southeast corner of Ludlow, together in size 41.6x51.2, was sold for $51,700. A total of $123,300 was realized by the sale, and parties in interest secured each and every parcel offered. Another Court sale embraced Nos. 458 and 460 3d avenue, near 32d street, 30.4 feet front x217 feet deep, covered with old two-story brick and frame buildings; Louis Lese became the purchaser at $42,000. Four new dwellings on West 97th street were sold under foreclosure of first mortgages. Three, Nos. 32, 38 and 40, went to John A. Rochford, and No. 42 to Frederick Van Tine, representing F. M. Jencks. The builder foreclosed against is James McKenna.

Yesterday was an active day at the Exchange. No less than six sales were announced, of which four were completed. Out Among the Builders.

Simon Goldenberg purposes erecting a fine six-story building on the northwest corner of Broome and Wooster streets, which will cover a plot, 100x75 feet, and be a very solid and handsome edifice. The front will be constructed of stone to the third story, and carried up in brick with terra cotta trimmings, with light iron constructions to permit the largest window space possible. The building will be heated by steam throughout from two 150 horse-power boilers. There will be two main stairways and passenger and freight elevators. In fact the building will be modern in its finish and appointments, proving a noticeable feature in the line of improvement in that part of town. The cost has not been estimated, nor have the plans been wholly completed. The architect is Alfred Zucker.

James Tichborne, Wm. C. G. Wilson and Robert Wallace will build on the south side of 88th street, 200 feet east of 10th avenue, seven three-story and basement private dwellings at a cost of about $12,000 each. Two of the houses will be 19 feet, two 18 feet and three 17 feet by about 50 feet in size.

The hotel to be erected on 5th avenue and 30th street by Mary J. Van Doren, and for which plans were filed last June, will now cover six full lots. It will be a first-class, absolutely fire-proof, structure, nine stories high. The front and gable will be of Indiana oolitic limestone. The C. Graham & Sons' Co. are the builders, and G. E. Harding & Co. architects.

Four lots on the northeast corner of Manhattan avenue and 121st street are being excavated preparatory to improvement.

Th. Engelhardt has plans for a two-story and attic frame dwelling, 25x 43, with extension 15 feet, to be erected on the southeast corner of Bushwick avenue and Elm street for Henry Roth, to cost $7,000; a similar dwelling, 25x45, with extension 16x23, on the northwest corner of Bushwick avenue and Grove street, for John Weygandt, to cost $6,800; and a three-story double frame flat, 32x65x22.10x65.9, on the northwest corner of Evergreen avenue and Palmetto street; and eight three-story double frame flats, 29x62 each, on Palmetto street, adjoining, for Roth & Brill, at a total cost of $43,000.

Out of Town.

ARLINGTON, N. J.—Andrew Spence will furnish plans for a two-story frame dwelling, 37.6x37.6, and extension, to be built for Peter Stewart, at a cost of $4,000.

FLUSHING, L. I.—C. H. Smith has plans for a two-story and attic frame dwelling, 30x50, with shingle roof, to be built on Emery street by E. C. Hulst. Cost, about $4,500.

GLEN RIDGE, N. J.—Architect W. C. Hazlett has drawn plans for the addition of a ballroom, billiard-room and bowling alley to the Glen Ridge Club House. The alterations will be in the shape of a two story frame extension, with shingle roof, and will cost between $6,000 and $7,000. The club-house proper was built about five years ago at a cost of $12,000, and the present enlargement has been made necessary by the increased membership.

HOUSTON, TEXAS.—Alfred Zucker has about completed elaborate plans for a fine residence, to be built by H. L. Fox, of Houston, Texas. The dwelling is to be two stories, with basement and attic, 52x64, with stamped iron roof. It is to be constructed of brick and stone; cornice, breast and architrave to be of carved stone. The house will be in the style of Francis I., and highly ornamental in design, each corner of the front being carried up from the second story in turrets, while ornamental iron-work will be used to complete the exterior adornment. It will be cabinet finish throughout, and furnished with every appointment which modern luxury calls for. The hall runs through the centre, and has as its distinguishing feature an octagonal opening in the centre of the house, extending to the roof and capped with stained-glass skylight. The first story comprises drawing, music, reception and dining-rooms, conservatory and butler's pantry; the second story, in addition to three large suites of sleeping apartments, with baths for each, will have a morning-room, off from which a balcony looking into the conservatory has been arranged for. The attic will be finished with cedar and linen closets, storerooms, etc. One striking and rather unusual feature will be the use to which it is designed to put a portion of the basement, viz.: a billiard and dancing-hall, 52x20, with an immense fire-place and mantel 12 feet wide in centre. With this hurried description it will be readily seen that much thought has been given to secure what may be termed elegant comfort, and the cost of $100,000 for the building will be no surprising figure.

OTTUMWA, IA.—Wm. E. Mowbray, of New York, has furnished sketches for an exhibition building to be known as the "Coal Palace." The building will be 400 feet long, 240 feet wide, and about 140 feet high, and will cost about $80,000. The walls will be of stone, faced with hard bituminous coal, and the entrance will be through an arch 52 feet wide and 30 feet high. The building will be used as a permanent exhibition hall, in which will be displayed the coal, mining machinery and interesting products of the industry out in Iowa.

WASSAIC, N. Y.—The New York Condensable Company intend to build a large addition to their factory here, from plans by M. V. B. Ferdon. It will be 300 feet long, and will have a main chimney 200 feet high.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—J. H. Flagler, of the Standard Oil Company, has purchased the convent and academy with the adjoining grounds, belonging to the Sisters of the Visitation, and is said to have paid $650,000 for it. He contemplates building a handsome hotel on the property.

Special Notices.

On Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock P. M., December 19th, John H. Draper will offer, under the hammer, a number of paintings, water colors and others, as well as marbles and engravings, formerly belonging to the estate of Mrs. Jane E. Bullard. Among them are some of the best works of Jules Dupré, Regis Ginoux and others. The sale takes place at No. 240 5th avenue.

I. G. Lane, of 64th street and 3d avenue, who is the local agent for the gauze door range made by the Thomas, Roberts, Stevenson Company, of Philadelphia, made an exhibit at the American Institute Fair which attracted the attention of a large number of visitors. Many curious spectators used to watch the representative of the firm exhibit the merits of a range fitted with the wire gauze door, and the doubts of the most sceptical were removed by the tempting dishes which were prepared by this means. That this gauze door range is rapidly becoming popular is shown by the fact that a flood of questions were asked by the spectators and many circulars distributed.

Notice is given that William McShane has withdrawn from the business hitherto carried on under the name of William McShane & Co., of Nos. 625 and 627 6th avenue, and that hereafter the name of the firm will be McShane & Co.

In another column will be found the advertisement of Price's Patent Fire-proof Clothes Line Frame. This frame is constructed of iron pipe, supported on angle iron which is built into the walls and braced firmly. In putting in the frame no screws are driven into the roof, and no damage, such as leakage, can possibly follow. Already over 300 of these appliances are used in this city, and their durability, cheapness and light weight make them at once most satisfactory and most easily obtainable. The Price Manufacturing Company who manufacture this convenient machine is at No. 112 East 14th street. References will be furnished on application.

Stephens, Armstrong & Conkling, of No. 113 North 12th street, Philadelphia, have supplied the terra cotta for the following important buildings, a fact which fully testifies to the excellence of their material: The Raceland building, on the southwest corner of 130th street and 7th avenue; the flats erected by S. Haberman on the southeast corner of 116th street and Manhattan avenue; the apartment house at 155th street and 3d avenue; for completing No. 230 and 232 Mulberry street; for a building at Lispenard street and West Broadway, and for many of the most important buildings in Philadelphia, including the library of the University of Pennsylvania.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

[For Prices see pages v., vii., viii. and ix.]

BRICKS.—There has been very little change in the general conditions prevailing on the market for Common Hard, though taken all in all the features may possibly be considered a trifle more encouraging for the selling side. Better weather has, as anticipated, permitted fuller work, and that was at once reflected in a comparatively prompt call for cargoes, and as fresh arrivals did not happen to be very extensive there was a chance to reduce old accumulations as well as sell most of the new offering, without further modifying the line of cost to any quotable extent. The strengthening, however, was not sufficient to bring about a positive reaction, and receivers have on the whole rather inclined to the policy of meeting the demand promptly, being aware that adverse tides and many of the barges temporarily aground were the principal causes of delay, and the chances are that before this gets into print a couple at least of good-sized tows will be here. As we have already suggested a considerable portion of the demand came in the main from consumers direct or from dealers intending to deliver promptly on contract; there has also continued something of a call for the purpose of adding to accumulations and generally when something extra in the way of quality was available. There does not appear to be anything very new from sources of supply, the producing season having wound up, but shipments continuing, and while the "last loads" are frequently predicted, many manufacturers seem to find a temptation to try just one more and will probably keep it up until ice stops them. Sales are quoted about as before but sell less freely and are not often placed until some concession has been named.

LATH.—The market has kept upon an even keel, and everything available sold right up to former figures, with some small lots on special delivery a trifle higher. It was hardly a demand that could be called quick or active, partly because some buyers seemed to have a continuous humor and partly because a portion of the custom had anticipated their wants by contracting for parcels to arrive, but there has been no supply and receivers could not handle with reasonable promptness, and it looked very much as though buyers who asked for concessions did so only as a matter of form. No more Northern stock is to be looked for, and it is claimed that about the last shipments have been made from St. John for the present.

LIME.—The market is not a vigorous one, and rather tends to confirm suggestions made last week. Supplies ran in with some freedom from the Eastward without an existing compensating demand, and caused receivers in consequence greater annoyance in taking care of their consignments, especially as their agreements with manufacturers did not permit cutting rates to attract custom. There is a faintly whispered hint that buyers have in some manner secured extra allowances, and while the rumor cannot be confirmed it is worthy of record in view of what has occurred before on this market. Some St. John stock has been offered and taken, with sales reported at 45c. per bbl.

LUMBER.—Business narrows up a little in many ways, but probably no more so than usual at this season of the year, or to the disturbance of calculation among operators of experience and sufficiently conservative tendencies to permit careful judgment. Some portions of the manufacturing interests may be considered as practically out of the market until next month at least, and consumption for building purposes is to a very large extent now met by supplies falling due on contract. Wherever really new deals are accomplished, however, the selling side of the market appears to retain advantage and upon all selections of really standard stock the tone is well sustained. Over first hand offerings also there is a generally noticeable firmness with apparently no difficulty experienced in obtaining good bids for such supplies as may become available coastwise or by rail, the latter in the main brought forward after contracts have been concluded with agents, though the quantity could and probably would be increased if the situation appeared to warrant it.

Eastern Spruce retains all the old support of a comparatively moderate accumulation in the city and its surroundings, with standing orders for anything of an attractive quality that can be offered, and receivers confident they could place the average poorest of schedules to a much greater extent than they are likely to get them. Consumption has kept right along steadily as anticipated, and some of the yards starting with only fair accumulations are said to be already showing a reduction against which additions would be quite welcome. The shipments, however, can only come from such remaining small lots as manufacturers may have on hand and can find freight room for, the steam mills not being considered producers for the general market in view of special orders on their books calculated to keep them busy for some time to come. The movement to perfect an organization of yard dealers in Eastern Spruce seems to meet with considerable favor, and it is expected will prove a success.

Piling is kept in good position, and no stock can be reached until buyers have made up their minds to pay at least former rates, while upon large and extra attractive sticks the limit of valuation is marked up a little in some cases in view of the limited quantity in chains, and the chances against any additional arrivals except of ordinary sizes. The demand is good for the season.

Hemlock remains in favor with a considerable portion of the trade, and buyers who can obtain supplies of a first-class character "just to suit them" are ready enough to pay full former rates. That, however, is to a large extent a necessity of the situation, as the offering is now comparatively small and well under control, with sellers exhibiting an anxiety to realize. They are, of course, willing enough to negotiate and pretend to no exactions on cost, but having contended throughout the open season for full values are not likely to give way now when advantages are greater, through the reduced scope of the offering.

White Pine continues in pretty good form and reports have reasonably cheerful tenor over all standard stock. Just at this time of the year, following the close of the canals, and with the yards reasonably full or busy handling their last receipts, it is not surprising to hear more or less complaint from agents disappointed in efforts to place additional amounts for car delivery, but in various ways the distribution is doing well, and while possibly more likely to shrink than expand for a few weeks a fuller and more general trade is calculated upon after the turn of the year. Price is well sustained on all the standard descriptions of stock for home use, and there is an inclination toward greater firmness on shippers, as we catch more export trade during the winter.

Yellow Pine differs very little in general characteristics from week to week, and while possibly the proverbial reticence of most operators in this market may conceal some adverse features the general inclination is to believe that the market is well sustained. The stock is certainly popular and for many kinds of work considered indispensable, which seems to assure a continued average demand, and while supplies are really plenty enough, they are under such control as to prevent any obnoxious or depressing offering.

Carolina Pine, from all accounts, appears to retain a good, steady position, and no one handling the wood has anything to say against it. There is said also to be a chance for pretty good winter trade, as the opportunities for delivery are improving and custom can be served with a reasonable degree of promptness and little, if any, addition to cost.

Hardwoods continue to sell fairly, yet the movement is on a somewhat shrinking scale, attributed in a measure to the time of the year, when manufacturers have no particular desire to add to stocks, and pretty much all dealers carry an accumulation sufficient for all current requirements. All well-posted agents, therefore, abstain from urging negotiation, and the occasional reports of goods pressed for sale with intimations of shaded rates seem to be in the main traceable to commission lots, some of them not the best of quality, upon which hints about early returns have become numerous and annoying. There is very little change in the tenor of foreign advices, careful selections of quality being urged in pretty much all cases, and shippers constantly endeavor to conform to these suggestions in most cases. It is said that some of the through exports from interior points have caused more trouble abroad than stock sent from this point.

The exports of lumber, exclusive of hardwoods, from the port of New York during the month of November were as follows:

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

The time has come when white pine lumber literature will be made up in part of rumors and prophecies concerning the input of logs the coming winter. That such and such a concern will go slow; that a particular stream will not produce its usual quota; that the profit of manufacture does not warrant a fast gain at the camps—these, and many other questions bearing on the same general subject, will be discussed pro and con without the slightest interest to dealers at large. Operators give out this and that piece of news, for the purpose of influencing the market price of logs or lumber, but the man who is conversant with the history of the lumber business of the Northwest regards it as a joke when he is told that there is a prospect of a log shortage. So far as the general supply was concerned he can recall no such condition; and he might add, is not liable to see it as long as the timber supply holds out. The business of loggers and saw mill men is to get out logs and manufacture lumber, and if there are men in any line who attend more strictly to business than do lumbermen, it has not become known.

In Chicago, and the West generally, the demand is said to be a little light for shipping purposes, and wherever there has been a brisk demand, a lack of cars is commented on. Aside from the brisk local demand in the western States, the areas of greatest activity are still to be found in the East and South.

Cargo business, now on its last legs, has been of a humdrum character during the past week or ten days. The disposal of arrivals is now more a matter of dicker than of market price. Receipts during the above-named period have, as was to be expected, fallen off materially—probably from 33 to 50 per cent. Offerings have not been altogether desirable to buyers, the cargoes consisting chiefly of mixed lots, or odds and ends gathered together in a cleaning up process across the lake. Yard dealers are not suffering for lumber at present, the weather has been bad, the lumber at the docks soggy and unrepresentable in appearance, and as buyers have been aware that the sailors had made their last trips and were lying up, they have been in no hurry about taking hold. There has, therefore, been a dragging and monotonous market.

There will not be much of a market for the rest of the season, although cargoes came in up to the middle of December last year, and will likely straggle into port that late or later this season. Some of the barges will keep going as long as the weather is sufficiently open, but the fact that much of the marine insurance expires November 30 will stop the movement of a good many boats.

The Timberman has the following on Chicago yard trade:

The completely broken aspect of stocks is beginning to portray that with many of the yards the supply of piece-stuff is very short, while others have a certain amount of good assortment on hand. The prices prevailing for this stock are about the same as quoted heretofore, but they are considered stiff by many of the dealers, and they do not care particularly to sell at present low prices, when their stock is not any heavier than it is now.

The quantity of boards in the yards is not large, and especially is this true of 12-inch widths, which are very scarce and have been for a week or more.

In canvassing the situation in the yards regarding good lumber, it is the prevailing opinion that stocks are shorter than they have been for some time.

While November trade has been dwindling down for the last week or so, it is claimed that considerable more lumber has been sold than at the same period last year, although on closer margins.

The general hardwood trade is perhaps showing a slight improvement. The volume of business is very satisfactory for this season of the year, although the same old complaint of narrow margins is current.

The demand for oak has come to stay, and is holding its own against all comers. Nearly all dealers are selling firsts and seconds at $30 or more. Thick oak is scarce; 14-inch is hard to get, even with the present anxiety of country manufacturers to sell; 3-inch is a staple article and ought easily to be worth $35 out of the yards. Nevertheless sales have lately been made as low as $33; 3½ and 4-inch are also in scarce supply.

Walnut may be bought cheaper than ever, in the lower grades. We learn of a purchase at $60, $40 and $30, with a six cent freight rate, and good two-year old stock at that.

Good birch has sold at $23, although the ruling price is probably a little higher.

The demand for basswood holds up, as it should at the price this stock brings. It costs the millman $12 to $13 to get the stock to this market and he gets $7.50 and $15.

But cherry is the lumber nowadays, if one could get plenty of it. But most of the cherry is in the hands of a few people, and there is not much of it left; anyhow, firsts and seconds dry cherry, 6-inch and upwards wide, sold out of the yards this week for $90.

From the latest received Mississippi Valley Lumberman we take the following:

It is getting interestingly near the end of the sawing season in all the white pine regions, and manufacturers are busy summing up the results of the year's operations. The correspondents of the Lumberman begin to send in their summaries of the cuts of the mills at the several mill centres in Wisconsin and Minnesota, where the season has ended. These uniformly show a reduction in the production, the most conspicuous example being at Minneapolis, where there is a falling off of a little more than 60,000,000 feet. The Muskegon mills are running yet, and most of the mills at the mouth of the Menominee and scattered mills along the railroad lines, but west of the Lake Michigan, and to be even more definite, in the Mississippi Valley, production has practically ceased. It is easy to believe from the reports already printed that in this region the production of lumber has been very much smaller than it was last year.

Loggers are going into the woods by the hundred. A cursory view of this exodus leads to the opinion that quite as many logs will be gone after this year as in previous winters. But there is a disposition not to overstock the streams. A good many logs were carried over, and a moderate cut will give mills all the logs they need to keep them busy. The Mississippi Logging Company, the largest handlers in logs in the West, held their annual meeting at Clinton this week, and while the report says there was no decision reached, it is certain that that organization will make an effort to keep down the cut on the Chippewa waters.

THE SOUTH.

The Southern Lumberman says:

There is not nearly so much poplar lumber in sight as some dealers were led to believe. The poplar timber belt is limited in area, and the trees grow scattering, and when once cut never reproduces merchantable timber. Consequently, there is neither sense, reason, nor necessity for selling it for less than the prices agreed upon by the Poplar Manufacturers' and Wholesale Dealers' Association. We have read a fable of a fool who killed the goose that laid golden eggs, but nobody ever suggested that the goose would have little sense enough to commit suicide. The man, inside or outside the association, who cuts present prices on poplar ought to put himself in the place of the goose who lays the golden eggs and keep a sharp look-out for the fool-killer.

CANADA.

According to advices recently received from Winnipeg:

Only five million feet of logs were rafted from the American side of the Rainy River to Canada, and Keewatin people indignantly deny statements in the American press that these logs were stolen, as they were purchased and scaled in camps under the supervision of the Surveyor-General of Minnesota.

It is stated by the Miramichi Advance that the lumber shipments of Miramichi to the United Kingdom, Continent, and Australia for the season just closed, compared with those of 1888, are as follows:

	1888.	1889.
Deals.....	65,532,288	95,030,953
Scantling.....	1,339,167	2,849,330

Palings.....	1,982,330	2,694,097
Birch timber, tons.....	416	513
Pine Timber, ".....	104	348

The shipping engaged in the lumber export trade in 1888 were 118 vessels of 79,781 tons, and in 1889, 161 vessels of 145,320 tons.

METALS.—COPPER.—Ingot retained an advancing tendency and since our last report made a steady gain in value, with a good general demand noted for all kinds. The higher figures ruling, however, have failed, apparently, to stimulate production in accord with outlet presented, and deliveries are constantly behind, a considerable support in itself. Quotations are generally placed at 14½@14¾c. for Lake, and 13@13½c. for casting brands. Manufactured Copper appears to be moving out freely into all regular channels which, in conjunction with the enhanced cost of material gives a firm working basis at full list rates. We quote as follows: Sheets, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over 20c.; do, 12 to 16 oz, 21c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 22c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 23c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 25c.; do, under 8 oz, 28c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@14 oz, 2c. for 10@12 oz, and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets, not above 30x96 in., 16 oz and over, 20c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 20c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 22c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 24c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 25c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 30c. Sheets longer than 96 inches add 1c. for under 16 oz; and 1c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz, 20c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 22c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 25c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 26c. Sheets 60x96 and over, 20c., for 32 to 64 oz. and over, and 25c. for 16 to 32 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 15 oz, 23c.; 14 oz, 25c.; 12 oz, 27c.; and 10 oz, 30c. Bolt copper, ¾ inch diameter and over, 20c. Circles, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do, 5c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 6c. do. Segment and pattern sheets, 3c. above price of sheets required to cut them from. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottom, 23@26c. per lb. Iron—Scotch Pig remains very quiet, and indeed has no sale on open market owing to the high asking rates, but recent advices from abroad have indicated some weakening of cost and buyers feel a trifle more hopeful in consequence. In a nominal sort of way about $24@27.50 per ton is quoted, according to brand. American Pig has found an outlet waiting for a goodly portion of the production about as fast as it is ready, and new orders for prompt delivery are as a rule refused for want of ability to meet them. Buyers show some anxiety about the rates likely to be fixed upon for the incoming year, but as yet agents are reticent and more or less indifferent, and about the nearest they came to naming a figure is by giving a vague hint of probable advance. We quote at $19.00@20.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $18.00@19.00 for No. 2 X do., and $16.50@17.50 for Gray Forge. Old material meets with some attention from what may be considered pretty much all regular sources, and occasionally buyers appear somewhat anxious in their mood. They are not, however, quite satisfied to pay the full rates asked and that has a tendency to retard business. We quote at about $25.50@26.00 for old rails; $23.50@24.00 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $19.00@20.00 for cast scrap, and $20.00@21.00 for car wheels. Manufactured Iron is generally in very good demand for the season, and the market in pretty much all respects favors the buyer, rates ruling at the late advance. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 2.00@2.05c. From store, and refined at 2.20@2.50c.; Rods, round and square, 2.20@2.25c.; Bands, 2.50@2.55c.; Norway Nail Rods, ¼@5c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 3.00@3.05c. for common Nos. 10 @16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. Steel Rails are no higher and in some instances there is a disposition to claim an easier market. The only apparent basis for the latter assertion, however, is the placing of some contracts on old options, and pretty much all agents insist that it would be impossible for them to enter upon new deals except at figures for some time asked, though as matters stand the situation is really a nominal one. We quote at $35.00@35.50 per ton for standard section at the mills and $36.00@36.50 do. at tide water. LEAD.—Domestic Pig has inclined to a little more steadiness as the result of the gradual disappearance of most of the cheap lots, the picking up of which seems to have inspired confidence. We quote at 3.80@4.00c., as to quality. The manufacturers of lead are quoted: Bar, 4½c.; pipe, 6c.; sheet, 6½c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe 45c., on same terms. TIN.—Pig does not meet with much demand from consumers, and as the speculative feeling seems to be moderating it is a rather quiet sort of market, yet kept fairly in hand, and sellers generally abstain from urging stocks. We quote at about 21½@21¾c. for round lots, and 21½@21¾c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plate on the spot business has found only a jobbing sort of movement, and as the speculative feeling seems to have curtailed somewhat it is, on the whole, a quiet sort of market, and in some instances the tendency was in buyers' favor. We quote prices as follows: I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Melyn grades, $6.12½@6.15, each additional X add $1.50; I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Allaway grade, $5.25@5.30, each additional X add $1; Charcoal terme, M. F. grade, 14x20, $7.25@7.30; M. F. grade, 20x28, $14.50@14.55; Worcester, 14x20, $5.10@5.15; Worcester, 20x28, $10.10@10.20; Deane grade, 14x20, $4.80@5.00; Deane grade, 20x28, $9.65@10.00; D. R. D. grade, 14x20, $4.75@4.77½; D. R. D. grade, 20x28, $9.40@9.45; I. C. Coke, Penlan grade, $4.75@4.77½; J. B. grade, 14x20, $4.90@4.95; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $5.10@—basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $5.20@—basis. Spelter moves out with about the usual measure of trade orders, but steadily, and there is rather an uphill inclination to values if anything. We quote at 5.30@5.45c. for common Western, according to brand.

AILS.—Reports continue cheerful and confident, and any suggestions of an adverse character is met by a pronounced disclaimer. Supplies do not appear to be actually scarce, but are kept well in hand and valued at full former rates, a present rather light demand being looked upon as entirely reasonable. We quote at $2.05@2.10 per keg for car lots, and $2.15@2.20 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Business is dropping off in some quarters, but only as a natural result of the season, and the general character of the market remains healthy. Supplies have been allowed to work down somewhat in first hands in expectation of lighter trade, and production will probably be so managed as to prevent an addition to accumulations until after annual stock taking. Prices range along about as before and are steady. Linseed Oil remains steady and fairly active at 57@58c. for Western, and 60@62c. for City. Spirits Turpentine meeting with moderate demand, the offerings comparatively free and tone generally easier. We quote at 45@46c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Business somewhat irregular in matter of development, and not over-full supplies are in hand, however, and steadily held. We quote Pitch at $1.40@1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.25@2.50, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

*Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

The mechanic's lien filed against me by the Mohawk Valley Lumber Company for $6,948.46 is, in every way, unjust and unfounded. Notes were given them for the amount due them, and none of them are yet due. I have fulfilled my part of the contract, but they did not, being exactly eight weeks behind the time of contract for delivering the last shipment. They are evidently selfish, and desire to injure me.
